Three Democrats Vote With GOP

Second-Phase Street Program Is Approved

A second-phase street repair program was approved at Tuesday night's Common Council meeting by a 10-3 vote, one more than enough to approve bond issues totaling $60,659.

Three minority party members, Leonard VanDyke (D) Sixth

Ward, Peter J. Mancuso (D) Eighth Ward, and William G. Davis (D-Lib) 13th Ward, joined Republican aldermen in approving the program.

Two bond issues, one a capital bond appropriation of $43,722, for reconstruction and resurfacing of nine streets, and the other of $16,937 for resurfacing eight streets, were approved.

Three Stay Opposed

Three Democratic aldermen, Edward Norton, Seventh Ward, Robert Gallo, Ninth Ward, and Minority Leader James F. Howard, 10th Ward, remained opposed to the program, mainly because they felt streets in their wards were not given due consideration. The council now has seven Republicans, five Democrats and one Democrat-Liberal.

Mancuso and Davis appeared satisfied with work scheduled in their wards, and VanDyke had previously indicated that he was voting for the program to keep public works personnel employed.

Mancuso said that while he felt that the Eighth Ward was "well represented" in the program, he wished "that other wards were treated as well, inasmuch as I am concerned with good streets for all of Kingston."

Alderman-at-Large Joseph F. Carroll Jr., on vacation, was absent, and Majority Leader John Machione (R) 12th Ward, was elected to preside.

Alderman Raymond Armatr (R) 11th Ward opened the way for a vote on the street repair program by moving for reconsideration of it.

Points to 17 Streets

At the previous council meeting, he noted, "Democratic aldermen defeated" the program. In so doing, he said, 17 streets may very well go unimproved this year, and the personnel of public works may have to be reduced.

I appeal to all the aldermen, who voted against the road program to reconsider their position and consider the needs of the total City of Kingston, not just their particular wards."

He appealed for a vote on the program as "proposed by the executive branch of our city."

His motion, he felt, was "definitely in order in view of the fact that a number of aldermen were not present at our previous meeting, due to vacation."

Ulster Is Likely To Go Along on Rainmaking Plan

Rainmaking operations in Ulster County, to alleviate severe drought conditions, are expected to be approved at a meeting of county growers Thursday 7:30 p. m. at the Hurd cold storage plant in Clintondale.

William Palmer, Ulster County agricultural agent said Dr. W. E. Howell, widely known for his rainmaking successes, will be in attendance.

Support Evident

It has been reported the Ulster County group has received assurances that enough farmers in the county will sign up Thursday to support the program.

Meanwhile, a group of farmers in the southern end of Columbia County have joined with the Dutchess County Farm Bureau in sharing the cost of hiring the rainmaker to relieve the dry conditions.

Rainmaking operations for Dutchess and Columbia Counties was scheduled to begin from the Melford G. Hurd farm at Clintondale and another location at Marlboro as soon as the generators have been installed and suitable clouds are available.

Local Span Notes 14 PC Gain Over July '63 Revenue

Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge showed a 14.63 per cent revenue increase of $5,062.31 over the $36,088 figure totaled in July, 1963. The area span noted a sum of $41,150.31 collected for the year ending July, 1964.

Traffic Up 17.6 PC

Traffic-wise, 149,844 vehicles passed over the bridge this year, marking a 17.6 per cent increase over last year's 127,419, or 22,425 more vehicles.

The recently-completed Newburgh-Beacon Bridge netted $110,395.15 with a traffic total of 215,602 vehicles.

Other spans in the area noticed decreases in both revenue and traffic. The Rip Van Winkle Bridge dropped 1.45 per cent from $50,513.35, which was $743.90 less than last year's sum of $51,257.25. Vehicle total was 173,516, a 1.5 per cent decrease as compared with last year's 176,164.

The Mid-Hudson Bridge netted $114,243.65, a 4.18 per cent decline from last year's $119,223.55. Traffic total was 419,757.

Hope Dim In Search At Mine

Two of Five May Still Be Living

CHAMPAGNOLE, France (AP) — A giant drill continued to bite into Mt. Rivel today in an effort to reach five miners still buried under 270 feet of earth, but there was little hope of finding more than two alive.

Weary rescuers brought up nine other miners Tuesday on the eighth day of their imprisonment in the limestone mine in the Jura Mountains. All appeared in relatively good condition.

Partial Victory

Fears for the five missing miners cast the only shadow over what was otherwise a festive occasion in Champagnole, a village near the Swiss border.

Mine officials believe three of the five died instantly when hundreds of tons of rock filled most of a huge underground chamber in a cave-in July 27.

But Champagnole's Mayor Andre Socie said faint tapings heard until a few days ago was sufficient reason for a gigantic new effort.

Just as rescuers were about to begin drilling an escape shaft for the trapped nine last Thursday night they picked up what sounded like the desperate tapping in an isolated pocket about 100 feet away.

Resume Drilling

It was decided a delay in freeing the nine to go after the two unknown men would be a greater risk. Two days later, however, another drill finally went into action above the spot where the tapping was heard.

As the drill bored down, occasional tapping was still heard. But the digging was halted when the drill came near some dynamite charges placed just prior to the cave-in.

On Monday, two new attempts were started to reach the men. However, the tapping had ceased and officials said it would take several days before the pocket could be reached.

The nine rescued men were hauled to the surface one at a time in a special aluminum capsule. Some smiled or waved weakly to the crowd before they were taken to a hospital for examinations and reunions with their families.

All asked for steak for their first meal. They got baths and the town barber shaved them. Officials said none seemed to have suffered any lasting ill effects.

Armatr Proposes Penalty Increase For Unpaid Taxes

A study by the Common Council's Finance Ways and Means Committee of increasing the penalty for delinquent payment of city taxes to a level of 10, instead of five per cent, was proposed by Alderman Raymond Armatr (R) 11th Ward, at Tuesday night's Common Council meeting.

Delinquency, he noted, causes a deficit imposed on the next year's operating budget. The delinquent total, it was noted, has reached as much as $600,000.

Have Use of Money

"The subject of delinquent, and unpaid taxes," said Armatr, "has been brought to my attention repeatedly in the recent past by the financial people of the city government, and many of my constituents."

"The discussions usually revolved around the penalty percentages imposed by our city tax laws for delinquent payment of the property tax. It has been pointed out that through non-payment, the individuals involved, have use of their money for penalties of two and five per cent, which is lower than any bank interest on a loan."

"It should further be noted that the maximum penalty remains constant for two years. It is, therefore, advantageous to the individual not to pay his taxes, and thereby have the extended use of his money at an extremely low rate of interest."

"The effect of this on the city is that we must operate at a deficit, which is transferred

2 Teeners Killed Near Catskill as Car Roof Sheared

CATSKILL, N. Y. (AP)—Two teen-agers were killed Tuesday night when the roof of their car was sheared off by the blade of a bulldozer, state police reported.

They were Robert F. Rossano of Catskill and Rose Bennett of Coxsackie, both 17.

The two and four others in the automobile were traveling on Route 9W, about four miles south of this Greene County village, when their car was struck by the blade of the bulldozer, carried on a flat-bed tractor trailer and traveling in the opposite direction, police said.

The others in the car were injured, one seriously.

Rossano's brother Richard, 22, and Charles Cook, 18, of Catskill, were reported in serious condition in Memorial Hospital here.

Wharton Bill On Mail Is In Senate

A measure providing for the protection of postal patrons from morally offensive mail matters has passed the House, despite the Administration's refusal to endorse it.

Representative Wharton, a longtime sponsor of bills designed to put an end to obscene literature in the mails, noted the sharp increase in traffic of obscene mailings during the past five years and stated that constituent complaints, particularly from parents and school authorities, prompted him to introduce corrective legislation.

The Congressmen continued: "There is no doubt but that this filthy source is a contributing factor in the frightening growth of juvenile delinquency, and it is a sad commentary on our way of life, enactment of this measure is required to protect our traditional moral, ethical, and social standards."

In addition that more than a half-million postal workers are unwilling accomplices to the extension of this blight, Wharton praised the National Association of Letter Carriers for adoption of their resolution calling for "clean mail" legislation along the lines he sponsored.

The bill agreed upon by the committee for consideration in the House Chamber, was based on the promise that a man's home is his castle and offers the protection of one's family from invasion of privacy by delivery of morally offensive material through the mail.

A postal patron would be permitted to return the items to the Post Office Department with a request that no future deliveries be allowed and penalties are provided under the contempt powers of the Federal Courts.

The 28th District Representative was joined by 10 voting New York legislators in upstate New York to support the measure.

However, seven New York City legislators opposed the measure on the grounds that it is an invasion of free speech and enables unlawful searches. The vote was 325-19, and it has been referred to the Senate for final action.

SEATO Is Summoned

In Bangkok, Thailand, headquarters of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, the United States called an urgent meeting today of the permanent SEATO council. SEATO's members — the United States, Britain, Australia, France, New Zealand, Pakistan, the Philippines and Thailand — are pledged to defend the area against Communist aggression.

An unconfirmed report said the U.S. Pacific fleet has been placed on alert and a major show of force was expected off the coast of North Vietnam.

Top South Vietnamese and American military leaders were in conference today, and the organization of a unified command similar to the one created in South Korea during the Korean War appeared imminent.

War Alert Imminent

A general war alert in South Vietnam also appeared imminent.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor met for half an hour with South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Khanh to discuss the U.S. announcements of attacks by North Vietnamese PT boats on U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin and U.S. retaliatory attacks announced by President Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in South Vietnam, conferred separately with South Vietnamese Defense Minister Maj. Gen. Tran Thien Kiem.

Viet Cabinet Meets

The South Vietnamese cabinet went into emergency session after Taylor's report to Khanh.

Despite the deepening crisis, a U.S. spokesman said there was no immediate expectation of evacuating any of the 700 dependents of U.S. civilians in South Vietnam.

American civilians were being asked to take "normal precautions," a spokesman said. This means staying at home.

Vietnamese police were ordered to try to find out the reaction of cells of the Communist Viet Cong to the developments along the coast of North Vietnam.

North Vietnamese Shoot Down Two Planes During Attack; Military Units on Move in Asia

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Navy aircraft made a devastating strike at North Vietnamese PT boats and their shore bases today in retaliation for the two attacks on American craft in the Tonkin Gulf this week.

Then the Washington government apparently sat back to let the lesson soak in — if it will soak in — with this stern word from Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara: "Whether this will be all that is necessary is up to the North Vietnamese."

The account of the explosive U.S. reaction, and the warning, were given by McNamara at a morning news conference, with in hours of a somber announcement by President Johnson of the decision to hit back hard in reply to the attacks.

In a premidnight address to the nation, Johnson said:

"That reply is being given as I speak to you."

"Air action is now in execution against gunboats and certain supporting facilities in North Viet Nam which have been used in these hostile operations."

"The determination of all Americans to carry out our full commitment to the government and people of South Viet Nam will be redoubled by this outrage."

Planes Make 61 Sorties

In summary, McNamara reported four North Vietnamese torpedo boat bases heavily damaged and one oil depot wrecked in 61 sorties by planes from the aircraft carriers Ticonderoga and Constellation, with 25 PT boats destroyed or damaged.

He gave the U.S. cost as two aircraft downed by ground fire and two damaged.

The action, McNamara said, took place between noon and 4 p. m. local time Tuesday.

With Vietnamese time 13 hours ahead of Washington, that means the bombs and rockets were falling within an hour after Johnson's report of his decision. Planes doubtless were going aloft as he spoke.

Johnson referred to the U.S. reaction as a "positive reply" to the aggression by North Vietnamese PT boats against American naval vessels in international waters.

Peace Still Intention

But he stressed the United States' long-range peaceful intentions.

Even before the strikes began, McNamara disclosed "substantial military forces" were being moved into Southeast Asia being falling within an hour after Johnson's report of his decision. Planes doubtless were going aloft as he spoke.

Identify 2 Bodies as CR Workers

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Two of the three bodies found buried in a recently constructed earthen dam near Philadelphia, Miss., were identified early today as missing civil rights workers Andy Goodman and Mickey Schwerner.

All three bodies were undergoing pathological tests early today at the University of Mississippi Medical center where they were brought after being found near Philadelphia late Tuesday.

Still Examining Third

Examination of the third body was continuing. Announcement of the identification of Goodman and Schwerner was made in Washington by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

The Greenwood, Miss., office of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee said it had been told by the Jackson FBI office that the third body had been identified as James Chaney, the Negro companion of Goodman and Schwerner.

There was no immediate confirmation of this from the FBI. The three vanished June 21 after being freed from jail at Philadelphia where they had been arrested on a speeding charge.

Held for Speeding

They had been held in jail at Philadelphia nearly six hours after Chaney was arrested on a speeding charge.

The last person known to have seen them was Neshoba County deputy sheriff Cecil Price, who said he followed them a short distance after their release as they drove south toward Meridian.

The Meridian Star quoted an authoritative source as saying the bodies found in the dam were those of two white males and a Negro male. The source, according to the newspaper, said the bodies were found 20 feet from the top of the loose earth structure, which was being built late in June when Schwerner, Goodman and Chaney vanished.

The charred hulk of the station wagon used by the trio had been located 15 miles north of Philadelphia two days after they disappeared.

Sullivan Crash Kills Ellenville Man, 5 Hurt

A 36-year-old Ellenville man was fatally injured and five other residents of that community were hurt at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday, when the car in which they were riding went out of control and overturned on Route 209 near Summitville, Sullivan County.

Ferndale State Police reported William Lee Ruff, of 28 Clinton Avenue, Ellenville, operator of the car died of a fractured skull.

Others injured were: Frances Ruff, 33, of the Ellenville address, who suffered a fractured leg and lacerations; Joseph Matthews, 63, of 128 Clinton Avenue, facial injuries and possible neck injury; Alfred Manderville, 12, of 50 Clinton Avenue, lacerations of the legs, contusions and lacerations of the arms. Jeffery Tucker, 13, of Leurenkill Road, lacerations of the ears and head.

Ira Barkley, 43, of 188 Center Street, chest injuries. The injured, all residents of Ellenville, were taken to a local hospital for treatment.

Trooper Robert Houghtaling said Ruff was driving north on Route 209 near Summitville when his car veered out of control into the southbound lane. The vehicle then careened back to the northbound lane, went off the east shoulder, spun around and overturned.

Trooper C. S. Van Wagenen of Ferndale investigated the mishap.

Council Called by Mayor For Action on Sidewalks

Lack of Common Council action Tuesday night on a measure dealing with proposed new sidewalks and curbing on Gross Street and a Delaware Avenue section near the new John F. Kennedy School, resulted in the call today by Mayor John J. Schwenk of a Thursday night special session.

The mayor had reported to the council that he had vetoed "with regret" a proposal that would charge 25 per cent of the cost of the project against the city, because it would be in violation of a city charter provision. The mayor's report included an opinion from Corporation Counsel Harry Gold.

Along with the corporation counsel's opinion, the mayor's letter to the aldermen noted that the charter gives the Board

North Vietnamese Shoot Down Two Planes During Attack; Military Units on Move in Asia

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Navy aircraft made a devastating strike at North Vietnamese PT boats and their shore bases today in retaliation for the two attacks on American craft in the Tonkin Gulf this week.

The account of the explosive the lesson soak in — if it will soak in — with this stern word from Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara: "Whether this will be all that is necessary is up to the North Vietnamese."

U.S. reaction, and the warning, were given by McNamara at a morning news conference, with in hours of a somber announcement by President Johnson of the decision to hit back hard in reply to the attacks.

In a premidnight address to the nation, Johnson said:

"That reply is being given as I speak to you."

"An action is now in execution against gunboats and certain supporting facilities in North Viet Nam which have been used in these hostile operations."

"The determination of all Americans to carry out our full commitment to the government and people of South Viet Nam will be redoubled by this outrage."

Planes Make 61 Sorties

In summary, McNamara reported four North Vietnamese torpedo boat bases heavily damaged and one oil depot wrecked in 61 sorties by planes from the aircraft carriers Ticonderoga and Constellation, with 25 PT boats destroyed or damaged.

He gave the U.S. cost as two aircraft downed by ground fire and two damaged.

The action, McNamara said, took place between noon and 4 or 5 p.m. local time Tuesday.

With Vietnamese time 13 hours ahead of Washington, that means the bombs and rockets were falling within an hour after Johnson's report of his decision. Planes doubtless were going aloft as he spoke.

Johnson referred to the U.S. reaction as a "positive reply" to the aggression by North Vietnamese PT boats against American naval vessels in international waters.

But he stressed the United States' long-range peaceful intentions.

Even before the strikes began, McNamara disclosed "substantial military forces" were being moved into Southeast Asia as a precaution against a Red counterthrust from North Viet Nam or Red China. He gave some details on that buildup at today's meeting with newsmen.

The attack was in retaliation for an assault by three Red PT boats last Sunday against the destroyer Maddox, in which one of the boats were sunk and two others damaged, and another fiercer engagement involving two U.S. craft Tuesday.

Up to Vietnamese

The second attack was aimed at the Maddox and the destroyer Turner Joy which had been sent to support the Maddox.

At least three of the attacking small craft were believed sunk in the second attack.

McNamara said in response to questions that "whether this (the retaliatory blow) will be all that is necessary is up to the North Vietnamese."

His summary of the U.S. response was a swift follow-up to the announcement by President Johnson Tuesday night that Navy planes had been sent on the mission to give a "positive reply" to the Red attacks.

The President made his announcement in somber tones at a session with newsmen late Tuesday night after a day-long series of emergency conferences.

The areas of the U.S. bombing attack were given by McNamara as four PT boat bases, the first at Hongay near the mouth of the Red River close to Haiphong and, leading south, Loc Chao, Phuoc Loi, and Quang Khe.

No Civilian Villages

In addition the oil storage depot at Vinh near Quang Khe was brought under attack by the planes from the carriers.

"The oil storage depot containing 14 tanks and representing 10 per cent of the petroleum storage capacity of the country was 90 per cent destroyed," McNamara said, adding: "Smoke was observed rising to 14,000 feet."

McNamara said there were no civilian villages near the target areas.

The secretary said he had moved Tuesday night to reinforce the Pacific area and these moves included:

Other Defense Moves

1. Transfer of an attack carrier group from the First Fleet in the Eastern Pacific to the Western Pacific.

2. Movement of interceptor and bomber aircraft into South Viet Nam.

3. Movement of fighter bombers into Thailand.

4. Transfer of interceptor and fighter-bomber squadrons from

Six Jets on 24-Hour Alert

Rush Combat Fighters To Saigon as Defense

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) —

The United States rushed six

Air Force F102 jet fighters to Saigon today to meet any attacks from Communist North

Viet Nam or Red China that the crisis in the Gulf of Tonkin might generate.

The six Delta Dagger jets from the 16th Fighter Interceptor Squadron based on Okinawa flew to Saigon from Clark Field, in the Philippines. They went on a 24-hour alert.

No Offensive Weapons

The flight commander, Lt. Col. Garnett D. Page of Decatur, Ala., said his planes had no "offensive weapons." He said they carried only antiaircraft rockets for the defense of South Viet Nam.

It is the first time combat jet fighters have been stationed in Saigon.

North Viet Nam, in its first comment on the developments off its coast, acknowledged the clash Sunday between North Vietnamese PT boats and the U.S. destroyer Maddox. But it said the Pentagon's report that four PT boats had attacked two U.S. destroyers in international waters Tuesday was a "sheer fabrication."

Radio Hanoi charged that U.S. ships and planes had been violating and shelling its territory. It said America's "provocative, sabotage and aggressive acts will be severely punished."

SEATO Is Summoned

In Bangkok, Thailand, headquarters of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, the United States called an urgent meeting today of the permanent SEATO council. SEATO's members — the United States, Britain, Australia, France, New Zealand, Pakistan, the Philippines and Thailand — are pledged to defend the area against Communist aggression.

An unconfirmed report said the U.S. Pacific fleet has been placed on alert and a major show of force was expected off the coast of North Viet Nam.

Top South Vietnamese and American military leaders were in conference today, and the organization of a unified command similar to the one created in South Korea during the Korean War appeared imminent.

War Alert Imminent

A general war alert in South Viet Nam also appeared imminent.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor met for half an hour with South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Khanh to discuss the U.S. announcements of attacks by North Vietnamese PT boats on U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin and U.S. retaliatory attacks announced by President Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in South Viet Nam, conferred separately with South Vietnamese Defense Minister Maj. Gen. Tran Thien Khien.

Viet Cabinet Meets

The South Vietnamese Cabinet went into emergency session after Taylor's report to Khanh.

Despite the deepening crisis, a U.S. spokesman said there was no immediate expectation of evacuating any of the 700 dependents of U.S. civilians in South Viet Nam.

American civilians were being asked to take "normal precautions," a spokesman said. This means staying at home.

Vietnamese police were ordered to try to find out the reaction of cells of the Communist Viet Cong to the developments along the coast of North Viet Nam.

While President Johnson did

Resnick Invited To White House For 3-Day Parley

The Democratic candidate for Congress from New York's 28th District, Joseph Y. Resnick, has been invited to attend a series of top-level meetings in Washington this week, Aug. 6-8.

To Meet LBJ Thursday

Resnick will meet with President Johnson at the White House Thursday night. The Ellenville industrialist will pose for pictures with LBJ at the White House reception. Later they will confer.

Among the top governmental officials expected at the three-day session are Secretary of State Rusk, Labor Secretary Wirtz, Defense Secretary McNamara, Attorney-General Kennedy, Interior Secretary Udall, Postmaster General Granoussi, Agriculture Secretary Freeman, Welfare Secretary Celebrezze and Peace Corps Director Schriver. The conference sessions are scheduled for the Sheraton-Park Hotel.

Resnick commenting on the Washington trip said today: "I am pleased and honored at the invitation made by the President and his cabinet officials to take part in the series of conferences this week." The 28th District candidate also noted: "The meetings in Washington will of course be of tremendous help in allowing me to outline some of the things I have learned about the 28th District since my active campaign began. I expect to fully brief President Johnson and his aides on the status of things in the district and to let them know the people of the 28th are behind them 100 per cent."

Will Make Full Report

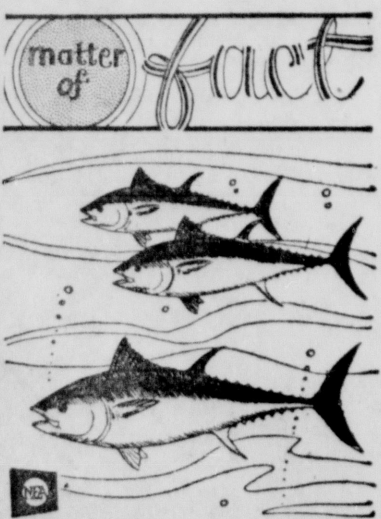

Resnick also said: "I hope to make a full report of my visit public when I return to Ellenville early next week." He said one of the main reasons for the trip and the conference is to allow himself to become more familiar with the many programs available to the residents of the 28th Congressional District.

Resnick concluded with this statement: "The present Congressman who claims to represent this district has not taken advantage of the information and programs made available to his district, and has not even tried to use the programs to aid the district."

Jersey Warns Barbers

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—New Jersey's barbers were told today that refusal to cut the hair of Negroes could result in license suspensions.

In a letter to all barbers, the New Jersey Board of Barber Examiners said: "A statement by any licensed barber given as a reason for denying service to non-white persons that he did not know how to cut or shave their hair would be untrue."

The tunny, often called the bluefin tuna or the horse mackerel, sometimes reaches a length of more than 10 feet and a weight of 1,500 pounds. It is excellent as food and is sought after by commercial fishermen and sports fishermen in the temperate waters of the Mediterranean, in California and in Japan.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Steel output is the lowest point since February. But steelmen are hoping that the June-July slide has brought production to or near its bottom level for the year. From now on the only way to go should be up.

Many also are wondering out loud if rising steel production won't also see rising price increases for further price increases.

Copper stocks of many consumers are at a low point. And mine strikes are putting a further pinch on the supplies. Foreign producers are talking of another copper price hike.

Tin prices have gone up and a global shortage has drained some metal from U.S. government stockpiles. Unless production can be raised, another price increase may be in the making.

Silver demand has been exceeding world output. But the U.S. Treasury stockpile has held the price at the official $1.29 an ounce level. At the moment the small coin shortage in stores and banks.

There is no shortage in steel, with only a few end products subject to delivery stretch-outs because of rising demand. But steelmen say costs keep rising.

And despite the advance in profits this year over last, they want more money to install more efficient and more competitive production equipment. Any desire to raise steel prices is subject to two conditions.

The first is the customer. In many cases he now has other materials to turn to if steel prices go too high. And in recent years inroads of these substitutes — other metals, concrete, plastics, glass — into markets once held by steel have caused much pain to the steel industry.

Customers, especially those on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, also have been able to turn to imports from the growing European and Japanese steel industries.

The second problem steelmen face when debating whether to raise prices as they might wish, is the government's attitude.

Since steel is dubbed a basic industry and its prices affect those of many consumer goods makers, the government is watchful of any increase that might work its way through the whole economy in time.

Leading steelmen now are saying they believe Washington understands their problem and won't offer a stumbling block as it did a couple of years back when steelmen wanted to put a general price increase into effect, and had to back down.

Within a given year, almost 20 per cent of U.S. citizens change address.

How Sweet It Is

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — There was a bit of vinegar in an otherwise sweet report that the number of bee colonies this year in New York was 201,000, the largest in recent years.

The New York State Crop Reporting Service said that, while the July 1 count of colonies was 2 per cent above last year's, the condition of nectar plants was down from 81 per cent last year to 79 per cent this year. The drought in some sections caused the drop.

Critical of Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Harold C. Ostertag, R-N.Y., termed misguided and ill-founded today the recent Supreme Court decision requiring apportionment of both houses of a legislature on a population basis.

He urged a house judiciary subcommittee to approve a proposed constitutional amendment he introduced to permit apportionment of one legislative body on other than a population basis.

Truckman Killed

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — A truck-driver was thrown from his flaming vehicle and killed Tuesday when the truck slammed into a bridge abutment in the south-bound lane of the Northway and rolled over. State Police said Sylvester Harrison, 38, of Troy, was going on the expressway when he apparently lost control and struck the abutment on the Hudson River Bridge near here.

Dear Abby . . .
She's Got Nerve!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor who is the nerviest person I've ever known, but I hate to hurt her. She walks into my house without knocking and has scared me out of my wits so many times it's not even funny. She opens my refrigerator to see what's there. She lifts the lids off my pots to find out what I am cooking. She even adds water if she thinks it needs it. If a letter happens to be laying around, she'll read it. She has even picked up my husband's check stubs and studied them. I could go on and on. Don't tell me to keep my doors locked. With children it's hard. I have never taken such liberties in her house. Is there some nice way I can put a stop to this? I wouldn't hurt her feelings for the world.

DEVOTED READER

DEAR READER: There is no "nice" way to tell a snoop that she's a snoop. Keep all personal mail and check stubs out of sight. And when she adds water to your soup count to ten. But don't complain of HER nerve if YOU haven't the nerve to tell her SHE'S nerdy!

DEAR ABBY: How does a 20-year-old girl who has just announced her engagement with intentions to get married next summer tell her parents that she has to get married as soon as possible?

DEAR GIRL: In plain English. And fast.

DEAR ABBY: Where we live, the houses are very close together. Lately I have seen a boy, who can't be more than nine years old, hanging out of the bathroom window, smoking. I see him almost every day. He is obviously smoking on the Q.T., and blowing the smoke outside. I know his mother just to say "hello" to. Do you think the next time I see her, I should tell her what her son is up to?

A NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOR: Put yourself in her shoes. If YOU had a child that age, doing what hers was doing, wouldn't you want to be told?

DEAR ABBY: I appreciated your column on how much satisfaction some of your readers got from giving away the clothing of their loved one after they had passed away. When my mother died, I couldn't bear to give her clothes away, so I wrapped them in paper and packed them in boxes. Thirty years later, upon opening the boxes, everything was moth-eaten and yellowed with age. How much better it would have been for her lovely clothes to have been worn out by some friend!

GOP Platform May Enliven School Prayer Controversy

By W.B. RAGSDALE JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican platform may pump new life into a bitter controversy that was dying down in Congress — whether to amend the Constitution to permit prayer and Bible reading in public schools.

A total of 146 proposed constitutional amendments have been offered to offset Supreme Court decisions which said that required prayers and Bible reading in public schools conflicted with the First Amendment, and — some contend — implied that any form of prayer or Bible reading also would be objectionable.

After lengthy hearings this spring, however, Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, reported that fervent support of such bills appeared to be slipping.

Most Against Change

Celler said mail received by the committee, and congressmen in general, had reversed and then was running heavily against any changes in the First Amendment.

"There is not the slightest doubt now that Congress will never approve this amendment," he said. "The people have had a chance to learn what really is involved here and in the light of mature reflection and sober judgment they have made it clear they do not want the First Amendment tampered with."

Comment Challenged

Celler's comment was challenged by Rep. Frank J. Becker, a New York Republican who is a sponsor of the proposed amendment which has received the most serious consideration.

Other developments seemed to bear out Celler's opinion until the Republican platform was announced July 14 in San Francisco.

It included support of: "A constitutional amendment permitting those individuals and groups who choose to do so to exercise their religion freely in public places, provided religious exercises are not prepared or prescribed by the state or political subdivision thereof and no person's participation therein is coerced, thus preserving the traditional separation of church and state."

Short of All-Out

This falls short of an all-out backing for the Becker amendment, but it may draw support from the same fundamentalist religious and conservative political groups that support the Becker amendment.

Becker's amendment is a compromise drafted from a number of other proposals. It would add to the First Amendment these words: "Nothing in this Constitution shall be deemed to prohibit the

Rival Suggestion

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Frank Wiedmer, an official of Southern Bell Telephone, was explaining "direct-distance dialing" to the Rotary Club.

Someone suggested that a call be placed to Copenhagen. "No, the call must be within the United States," Wiedmer explained.

"Let's call the Rotary International's president in Los Angeles," another member said. The president was boarding a plane and couldn't be reached.

While Wiedmer debated what call to make next, Newell Smith, a Western Union official, arose and yelled out: "Send a telegram."

Rocky to Attend Barry's Call for Parley on Unity

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller will attend a so-called Republican unity meeting in Hershey, Pa., Aug. 12.

A Rockefeller spokesman said Tuesday night the governor would fly to Hershey for the one-day meeting called by Sen. Barry Goldwater, the GOP presidential nominee.

The announcement was made as Rockefeller attended a dinner in honor of the publisher Samuel I. Newhouse. The dinner was a prelude to today's dedication of a $15-million communications center Newhouse is donating to Syracuse University. The Republican meeting apparently was called to patch up differences in the party after a leadership struggle in the nominating convention in San Francisco. Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania, who lost to Goldwater in the race for the GOP nomination, will be the host at the Hershey meeting.

Rockefeller has been critical of some of Goldwater's policies and abandoned his own campaign for the nomination to help Scranton at the convention.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Steel output is the lowest point since February. But steelmen are hoping that the June-July slide has brought production to or near its bottom level for the year. From now on the only way to go should be up.

Many also are wondering out loud if rising steel production won't also see rising prices on candidates for further price increases.

Copper stocks of many consumers are at a low point. And mine strikes are putting a further pinch on the supplies. Foreign producers are talking of another copper price hike.

Tin prices have gone up and a global shortage has drained some metal from U.S. government stockpiles. Unless production can be raised, another price increase may be in the making. Silver demand has been exceeding world output. But the U.S. Treasury stockpile has held the price at the official $1.29 an ounce level. At the moment the worst problem in silver is the small coin shortage in stores and banks.

There is no shortage in steel, with only a few end products subject to delivery stretch-outs because of rising demand. But steelmen say costs keep rising. And despite the advance in profits this year over last, they want more money to install more efficient and more competitive production equipment. Any desire to raise steel prices in subject to two conditions.

The first is the customer. In many cases he now has other materials to turn to if steel prices go too high. And in recent years inroads of these substitutes — other metals, concrete, plastics, glass — into markets once held by steel have caused much pain to the steel industry.

Customers, especially those on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, also have been able to turn to imports from the growing European and Japanese steel industries.

The second problem steelmen face when debating whether to raise prices as they might wish, is the government's attitude. Since steel is dubbed a basic industry and its prices affect those of many consumer goods makers, the government is watchful of any increase that might work its way through the whole economy in time.

Leading steelmen now are saying they believe Washington understands their problem and won't offer a stumbling block as it did a couple of years back when steelmen wanted to put a general price increase into effect, and had to back down.

Within a given year, almost 20 per cent of U.S. citizens change address.

How Sweet It Is

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — There was a bit of vinegar in an otherwise sweet report that the number of bee colonies this year in New York was 201,000, the largest in recent years.

The New York State Crop Reporting Service said that, while the July 1 count of colonies was 2 per cent above last year's, the condition of nectar plants was down from 81 per cent last year to 79 per cent this year. The drought in some sections caused the drop.

Critical of Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Harold C. Ostertag, R-N.Y., termed misguided and ill-founded today the recent Supreme Court decision requiring apportionment of both houses of a legislature on a population basis.

He urged a house judiciary subcommittee to approve a proposed constitutional amendment he introduced to permit apportionment of one legislative body on other than a population basis.

Truckman Killed

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — A truck-driver was thrown from his flaming vehicle and killed Tuesday when the truck slammed into a bridge abutment in the south-bound lane of the Northway and rolled over. State Police said Sylvester Harrison, 38, of Troy, was going on the expressway when he apparently lost control and struck the abutment on the Hudson River Bridge near here.

Dear Abby . . . She's Got Nerve!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor who is the nervous person I've ever known, but I hate to hurt her. She walks into my house without knocking and has scared me out of my wits so many times it's not even funny. She opens my refrigerator to see what's there. She lifts the lids off my pots to find out what I am cooking. She even adds water if she thinks it needs it. If a letter happens to be lying around, she'll read it. She has even picked up my husband's check stubs and studied them. I could go on and on. Don't tell me to keep my doors locked. With children it's hard. I have never taken such liberties in her house. Is there some nice way I can put a stop to this? I wouldn't hurt her feelings for the world.

DEVOTED READER

DEAR READER: There is no "nice" way to tell a snoop that she's a snoop. Keep all personal mail and check stubs out of sight. And when she adds water to your soup count to ten. But don't complain of HER nerve if YOU haven't the nerve to tell her SHE'S nerve!

DEAR ABBY: How does a 20-year-old girl who has just announced her engagement with intentions to get married next summer tell her parents that she has to get married as soon as possible?

DEAR GIRL: In plain English. And fast.

DEAR ABBY: Where we live, the houses are very close together. Lately I have seen a boy, who can't be more than nine years old, hanging out of the bathroom window, smoking. I see him almost every day. He is obviously smoking on the Q.T., and blowing the smoke outside. I know his mother just to say "hello" to. Do you think the next time I see her, I should tell her what her son is up to?

A NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOR: Put yourself in her shoes. If YOU had a child that age, doing what hers was doing, wouldn't you want to be told?

DEAR ABBY: I appreciated your column on how much satisfaction some of your readers got from giving away the clothing of their loved one after they had passed away. When my mother died, I couldn't bear to give her clothes away, so I wrapped them in paper and packed them in boxes. Thirty years later, upon opening the boxes, everything was moth-eaten and yellowed with age. How much better it would have been for her lovely clothes to have been worn out by some friend!

GOP Platform May Enliven School Prayer Controversy

By W.B. RAGSDALE JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican platform may pump new life into a bitter controversy that was dying down in Congress — whether to amend the Constitution to permit prayer and Bible reading in public schools.

A total of 146 proposed constitutional amendments have been offered to offset Supreme Court decisions which said that required prayers and Bible reading in public schools conflicted with the First Amendment, and — some contend — implied that any form of prayer or Bible reading also would be objectionable.

After lengthy hearings this spring, however, Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, reported that fervent support of such bills appeared to be slipping.

Most Against Change

Celler said mail received by the committee, and congressmen in general, had reversed and then was running heavily against any changes in the First Amendment.

"There is not the slightest doubt now that Congress will never approve this amendment," he said. "The people have had a chance to learn what really is involved here and in the light of mature reflection and sober judgment they have made it clear they do not want the First Amendment tampered with."

Comment Challenged

Celler's comment was challenged by Rep. Frank J. Becker, a New York Republican who is a sponsor of the proposed amendment which has received the most serious consideration.

Other developments seemed to bear out Celler's opinion until the Republican platform was announced July 14 in San Francisco.

It included support of: "A constitutional amendment permitting those individuals and groups who choose to do so to exercise their religion freely in public places, provided religious exercises are not prepared or prescribed by the state or political subdivision thereof and no person's participation therein is coerced, thus preserving the traditional separation of church and state."

Short of All-Out
This falls short of an all-out backing for the Becker amendment, but it may draw support from the same fundamentalist religious and conservative political groups that support the Becker amendment.

Becker's amendment is a compromise drafted from a number of other proposals. It would add to the First Amendment these words: "Nothing in this Constitution shall be deemed to prohibit the

Rival Suggestion

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Frank Wiedmer, an official of Southern Bell Telephone, was explaining "direct-distance dialing" to the Rotary Club.

Someone suggested that a call be placed to Copenhagen. "No, the call must be within the United States," Wiedmer explained.

"Let's call the Rotary International's president in Los Angeles," another member said. The president was boarding a plane and couldn't be reached.

While Wiedmer debated what call to make next, Newell Smith, a Western Union official, arose and yelled out: "Send a telegram."

Rocky to Attend Barry's Call for Parley on Unity

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller will attend a so-called Republican unity meeting in Hershey, Pa., Aug. 12.

A Rockefeller spokesman said Tuesday night the governor would fly to Hershey for the one-day meeting called by Sen. Barry Goldwater, the GOP presidential nominee.

The announcement was made as Rockefeller attended a dinner in honor of publisher Samuel I. Newhouse. The dinner was a prelude to today's dedication of a $15-million communications center Newhouse is donating to Syracuse University.

The Republican meeting apparently was called to patch up differences in the party after a leadership struggle in the nominating convention in San Francisco. Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania, who lost to Goldwater in the race for the GOP nomination, will be the host at the Hershey meeting.

Rockefeller has been critical of some of Goldwater's policies and abandoned his own campaign for the nomination to help Scranton at the convention.

MOON AT CLOSE RANGE

Men have now seen their first closeups of the moon's surface—100 to 1,000 times more detailed than any previously taken through telescopes—thanks to Ranger 7. The taste of success is particularly sweet, for six previous Rangers and as many other U.S. space vehicles intended to place a useful payload on the moon or in orbit around it had failed in their missions.

The practical result of the Ranger 7's success at dispatching thousands of lunar closeups is that space men are now much closer to knowledge about the exact nature of the surface on which they hope to place an astronaut by 1970. The area chosen for the landing is known to be relatively smooth. The unanswered question has been: How smooth? A far better answer than other means had provided is available now. Landing gear to deal with the anticipated surface can now be designed with much more confidence than before.

The Ranger 7 flight is a fine feather in America's space cap. Its pictures of the moon are not the first to be sent back by a space vehicle; a Russian capsule dispatched some fuzzy views of the moon's dark side from 40,000 miles out in 1959. But the Ranger pictures are far superior to those. Taken from a range of 1,000 miles down to almost the point of impact, they provide the first close view of the moon. Getting those photographs was a remarkable feat that augurs well for the success of the first manned lunar flight a few years hence.

CUTTING THE FIRE COST

It is easy to paint a statistical picture of the harm done by various kinds of accidents—automobile crashes, industrial mishaps, fires, and so on. The figures on property loss and injury and death are readily available.

Finding ways to prevent accidents is more difficult. That is why it is so good to hear of an effort along these lines that has had notable success. What we have in mind is the home inspection programs conducted by fire departments in many town and cities. The International Association of Fire Chiefs reports that such programs have brought dramatic reductions in loss of property and life in communities where they have been conducted over a period of several years.

The experience in Wausau, Wis., is cited as an outstanding case in point. During the past six years, the number of fire calls to homes is reported to have gone down 75 per cent; in 1958 there were 247 calls to dwellings, in 1963 only 59. Fire Chief Wilbur G. Petzold of Wausau put his finger on a vital element in the success of the inspection program when he declared that fire prevention "is a reflection of community resourcefulness, not a benefit of tax payments."

Many other communities have had similar experience, and more could do so. A sufficiently broad and zealous inspection program might sharply cut the fire toll, which last year amounted to 11,800 lives and $1.7 billion in property loss.

DECLINE OF 'DOWNTOWN'

What was once the most vibrant part of many American cities can no longer be so described. Downtown areas once the scene of greatest growth and excitement seem subject these days to an alarming deterioration.

One of the sad indicators of this trend is the current fortune of downtown real estate. The results of a national survey, as reported in the Wall Street Journal are illustrative of what is happening. In more than a thousand buildings surveyed, there was 20 per cent more space vacant now than a year ago.

Besides, the alarming prevalence of "For Rent" signs are the other indices. While rental revenues go down, taxes generally continue to rise. Higher costs force building owners to lose interest in maintenance and refurbishment. What used to be, a generation or so ago, a showplace to be

WHEN LABOR IS FOR PRIVATE OWNERSHIP

When labor opposes government ownership or control of any phase of the electrical power business, it ought to be news of the man-bites-dog variety. Yet far more fuss and furor resulted from Barry Goldwater's statement that some functions of TVA should be transferred to private ownership than is provoked by the present insistence of the United Mine Workers that the government should get out of its supporting role in the atomic reactor business.

Joseph E. Moody, who speaks for both the coal mine workers and the mine owners from his post as President of the National Coal Policy Conference, has conveyed the feeling of the miners in this matter to the Congressional Joint Committee on Atomic Energy. Mr. Moody's demands run directly counter to those of the Atomic Energy Commission. The AEC, trying to keep control of fissionable materials for as long as it can, has proposed a transition period lasting until 1971 in which fuel may be leased instead of sold outright if that is what private power companies desire. By leasing the fuel at a subsidized charge, the AEC is, in effect, in a position to guarantee an artificial market.

The coal people rather naturally object to this as unfair competition in fuels. Says Mr. Moody, "There is no valid reason for any delay in making private ownership of all special nuclear materials mandatory upon enactment of legislation. Moreover, there is no clear and present need for the government to guarantee artificial markets, using the taxpayers' money, for materials, special nuclear or other, which the operators of commercial nuclear power plants would like to dispose of at advantageous but fictitious values."

The utilities now using atomic fuel to manufacture electric power have, according to Mr. Moody, been on notice for three years that Congress has had private ownership of fissionable fuels in mind. This warning, says Mr. Moody, has given them plenty of time "to digest the economic impact, whatever it may be."

Mr. Moody is willing to permit the AEC to waive charges for private use of Commission-owned fuel for a period, provided contracts for such use have already been signed. But he thinks it only fair to coal that the present subsidized lend-lease arrangements for the use of atomic fuels should not apply to new commitments. "It is not too surprising," he says, "that most of those who profess to believe in private ownership of special nuclear materials nevertheless want a gradual transition period before it becomes mandatory, as well as the continuation of government-guaranteed buy-back of certain materials. It is clear, as Chairman Holifield, in effect, pointed out during last year's Congressional hearings, that the nuclear industry, specifically the utilities, 'want a little private ownership but not too much.'"

At present the AEC is losing as much as $8 a gram on its purchase and long-term stockpiling of plutonium. Since plutonium is a by-product of civilian power reactors, used in making electric power, the AEC is, in effect, promising to make a present to private power companies every time it guarantees a buy-back operation. The attitude of the coal people is that if "plutonium has potential value as a reactor fuel, private industry can be counted on to develop a market for this material on its own initiative."

If the mine workers are up in arms against federal subsidy of electric power plants using atomic fuels, it is difficult to see why the same labor in the coal producing Appalachians should care when politicians attack the TVA. After all, water power is as much of an enemy of coal-derived power as is the atom. Yet it is considered suicidal to his chances in Appalachia when Barry Goldwater speaks up in favor of unsubsidized private power in Tennessee.

The only valid conclusion is that consistency in politics is not considered a virtue. There are things one "mustn't say," even if those things are entirely consistent with other things that one must say. Can it be that everyone "wants a little private ownership but not too much"? Want to Avoid Hay Fever?
Take a Mountain Vacation
BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Hay fever is almost never caused by hay and is rarely associated with fever. In fact, if you have fever with it, you should look for some other cause. For this reason we doctors prefer to call it allergic rhinitis.

Hay fever may occur at any time of the year because a great variety of allergens may cause it, but for most victims—and there are about 9 million in the United States—the attacks start in early August. Sneezing, running nose and red-tened eyes for most sufferers are ushered in with the pollination of ragweed plants and the misery lasts until the first frost.

The exact day when the pollination of ragweed or any other allergenic plant starts varies in different parts of the country and will vary in the same part from year to year because of changes in the weather. An unusually warm summer will not only cause earlier pollination but will also increase the quantity of pollen in the air.

This is especially true if the hot weather is attended by an abundant rainfall. The date of the first frost is also subject to variation.

For those who want to have a vacation in a region where the ragweed pollen count is low, most of Canada can be recommended. Other favored spots include the area west of the Cascade Mountains in Oregon and Washington, the woods of northern Michigan, Minnesota, New Hampshire and Maine, the central Adirondacks region and the southern tip of Florida. Ocean voyagers are also pollen-free and pleasant (for those who do not get seasick).

Your vacation should be scheduled, if possible, to coincide with the period of heaviest pollination in your community.

It is important to treat your hay fever by every means known because if so often paves the way for serious infections in the sinuses and the middle ear. But you never should attempt to treat this disease without medical supervision.

The most effective treatment is the taking of desensitizing injections before the hay fever starts. This can be done only after careful testing has revealed what allergen or allergens are causing hay fever in you.

For temporary relief of symptoms one of the many antihistamines may be prescribed by your doctor. The effectiveness of these drugs is greatly enhanced if they are given in combination with methylprednisolone. Nose drops and nasal sprays are best avoided because of the rebound reaction that occurs when the shrinking effect on the mucous membranes wears off.

sought out by tourists and the like may now be going downhill fast.

This is not the case, however, in all cities. Urban renewal has done great things for some large urban areas, and will probably do the same for others. But in order to stop or reverse the exodus of business, drastic steps may have to be taken.

It can be done, as architects and city planners have shown. But imagination to widen streets—not for more automobiles, but for pedestrians and an augmented public transportation system is needed. Possibly also a liberal sprinkling of greenery would lift our downtowns from their doldrums.

Something must be done. To allow all commerce to escape to the city's periphery would leave a decaying center.

LBJ Leans Toward Barry In South Pacific Clutch

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — From the waters of the far Pacific has come a piece of news that, oddly enough, clarifies a lot of the debate surrounding the Johnson-Goldwater political campaign.

A U. S. Navy destroyer was attacked by armed vessels of the North Vietnamese and fought back immediately. The enemy ships were repulsed and one was put out of action. There was no telephone call to Washington to ask the civilian commander-in-chief in the White House what to do. The naval commander "in the field" had to use his own discretion, and he quickly ordered the firing of the ship's guns.

President Johnson not only confirmed at once the field commander's right to shoot back, but has since supplemented instructions to the naval forces with orders to destroy any enemy ships that attack them in international waters. The order presumably applies to any Soviet ships as well.

This is analogous to what Sen. Goldwater, the Republican Presidential nominee, has been saying about instructions that should be given to the commander of our forces in Europe. Yet he has been bitterly assailed by Secretary of Commerce

Hodges and by Secretary of Agriculture Freeman as "trigger-happy," as "reckless" and as being "ready to plunge America into a nuclear war."

All that the Arizona Senator has said is that the supreme commander of NATO should have direct command over the tactical nuclear weapons which are a part of the battlefield arsenal of NATO forces in Europe. These, of course, aren't the same thing as mammoth nuclear bombs, but are essentially artillery pieces of one kind or another with nuclear warheads of generally low-yield power. They are designed not to wipe out vast areas but to be effective in deterring the advance of enemy armies. Frequently only the commander on the scene would know whether and when they should be used.

Sen. Goldwater on July 13 said: "I have suggested that we never remove this responsibility from the President, but that the commander of NATO have a little more leeway in the election of weapons and the timeliness of the weapons."

All that Sen. Goldwater has urged has now been confirmed in principle by President Johnson in issuing a blanket instruction to the Navy to attack any force which attacks them in international waters, and to attack with the objective not only of driving off the force but of destroying it.

It is puzzling why Sen. Goldwater should have been so vehemently criticized for recommending the same kind of discretion for the commander in the field as Mr. Johnson has authorized. The only explanation is that the criticism serves as a political gimmick to try to scare people and make them believe that the Arizona Senator would, if elected President, plunge the country into a nuclear war.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, who is being mentioned for the Vice-Presidential nomination on the Democratic ticket, said only last Sunday on the CBS "Face the Nation" broadcast that the American people would rather not have a man as President "who is uncertain, has a nervous finger on the nuclear trigger, and may very well give an irrational response to an international crisis." He said that to avoid this the people should vote for Mr. Johnson. The Minnesota Senator's characterization of Sen. Goldwater was most unfortunate, and it may be had not read the correct version of what the Arizona Senator really has said.

Last Sunday, Rep. William E. Miller, the Republican Vice-Presidential nominee, was talking about this very point on the ABC program, "Issues and Answers," he said: "Sen. Goldwater is not as misunderstood, in my judgement, as he is misreported. In other words, you can remember the statement he made in connection with defoliation of the (supply) lines. And he said there are five or six things you could do, and one of them might be the use of low-yield atom bombs in the defoliation of the cover lines in Cambodia, Laos, North Vietnam, into South Vietnam. He quickly said: 'We probably wouldn't do any of these things'—you remember that—but the headlines in the newspapers the next day were: 'Goldwater would use atom bombs.'"

Actually, one of the wire services had erroneously reported Sen. Goldwater as having "proposed" the use of nuclear bombs to "defoliate" the enemy's protection cover. But even after this was denied and the actual stenographic text of what Sen. Goldwater had said was published widely, two cabinet officers repeated the charge just the same in subsequent speeches. So when the reporting errors have been corrected, the press can hardly be blamed for distortions made by the politicians in its stamp, who either haven't read or have chosen to disregard the factual statements published.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The great novelist sat down to his typewriter. He was a short man with sandy colored hair in swirls. His skin was like amber cellophane, stretched too tight around the package. He rubbed his finger tips together and studied the blank sheet of paper. He needed a strong opening scene for the new book: he had spawned one hit and three successive flops.

The sheet of paper terrified the Great Novelist. He had to fill it with thoughts, images, people, dialogue. He would prefer to write about other writers. They were easy to dissect and grind-under-heel. He had felt this way after the second flop—Dawn's Dust—because it represented an easy opportunity to drop from the plateau of creativity to the valley of destructiveness without losing face.

"The mimosa tree was dying," he wrote. He looked up, and sighed. Five words. Well, it was a start. He had etched a thin scratch on a large rock. He lit a cigarette, and stared at his secretary, and then at a painting of himself on the wall. He liked the painting. The secretary was young and efficient, a little too moral for his bony hands.

"The mimosa tree was dying." The great novelist studied the words and they grew smaller. How doing? Why? Of what importance was this to a book? "In the dead of winter," he wrote, "the starving zebras came down from the highlands, crossed the veld fighting off the female lions, and had torn the bark from the tree. Now it was dying slowly, almost sedately, the prickly leaves falling in pairs, so that little shade was left."

The Great Novelist read it and went to the bathroom. He was gone a little while and he came back red-eyed. He read the paragraph again, and wondered what his novel would be about. MOON AT CLOSE RANGE

Men have now seen their first closeups of the moon's surface—100 to 1,000 times more detailed than any previously taken through telescopes—thanks to Ranger 7. The taste of success is particularly sweet, for six previous Rangers and as many other U.S. space vehicles intended to place a useful payload on the moon or in orbit around it had failed in their missions.

The practical result of the Ranger 7's success at dispatching thousands of lunar closeups is that space men are now much closer to knowledge about the exact nature of the surface on which they hope to place an astronaut by 1970. The area chosen for the landing is known to be relatively smooth. The unanswered question has been: How smooth? A far better answer than other means had provided is available now. Landing gear to deal with the anticipated surface can now be designed with much more confidence than before.

The Ranger 7 flight is a fine feather in America's space cap. Its pictures of the moon are not the first to be sent back by a space vehicle; a Russian capsule dispatched some fuzzy views of the moon's dark side from 40,000 miles out in 1959. But the Ranger pictures are far superior to those. Taken from a range of 1,000 miles down to almost the point of impact, they provide the first close view of the moon. Getting those photographs was a remarkable feat that augurs well for the success of the first manned lunar flight a few years hence.

CUTTING THE FIRE COST

It is easy to paint a statistical picture of the harm done by various kinds of accidents—automobile crashes, industrial mishaps, fires, and so on. The figures on property loss and injury and death are readily available.

Finding ways to prevent accidents is more difficult. That is why it is so good to hear of an effort along these lines that has had notable success. What we have in mind is the home inspection programs conducted by fire departments in many town and cities. The International Association of Fire Chiefs reports that such programs have brought dramatic reductions in loss of property and life in communities where they have been conducted over a period of several years.

The experience in Wausau, Wis., is cited as an outstanding case in point. During the past six years, the number of fire calls to homes is reported to have gone down 75 per cent; in 1958 there were 247 calls to dwellings, in 1963 only 59. Fire Chief Wilbur G. Petzold of Wausau put his finger on a vital element in the success of the inspection program when he declared that fire prevention "is a reflection of community resourcefulness, not a benefit of tax payments."

Many other communities have had similar experience, and more could do so. A sufficiently broad and zealous inspection program might sharply cut the fire toll, which last year amounted to 11,800 lives and $1.7 billion in property loss.

DECLINE OF 'DOWNTOWN'

What was once the most vibrant part of many American cities can no longer be so described. Downtown areas once the scene of greatest growth and excitement seem subject these days to an alarming deterioration.

One of the sad indicators of this trend is the current fortune of downtown real estate. The results of a national survey, as reported in the Wall Street Journal are illustrative of what is happening. In more than a thousand buildings surveyed, there was 20 per cent more space vacant now than a year ago.

Besides, the alarming prevalence of "For Rent" signs are the other indices. While rental revenues go down, taxes generally continue to rise. Higher costs force building owners to lose interest in maintenance and refurbishment. What used to be, a generation or so ago, a showplace to be

WHEN LABOR IS FOR PRIVATE OWNERSHIP

When labor opposes government ownership or control of any phase of the electrical power business, it ought to be news of the man-bites-dog variety. Yet far more fuss and furor resulted from Barry Goldwater's statement that some functions of TVA should be transferred to private ownership than is provoked by the present insistence of the United Mine Workers that the government should get out of its supporting role in the atomic reactor business.

Joseph E. Moody, who speaks for both the coal mine workers and the mine owners from his post as President of the National Coal Policy Conference, has conveyed the feeling of the miners in this matter to the Congressional Joint Committee on Atomic Energy. Mr. Moody's demands run directly counter to those of the Atomic Energy Commission. The AEC, trying to keep control of fissionable materials for as long as it can, has proposed a transition period lasting until 1971 in which fuel may be leased instead of sold outright if that is what private power companies desire. By leasing the fuel at a subsidized charge, the AEC is, in effect, in a position to guarantee an artificial market.

The coal people rather naturally object to this as unfair competition in fuels. Says Mr. Moody, "There is no valid reason for any delay in making private ownership of all special nuclear materials mandatory upon enactment of legislation. Moreover, there is no clear and present need for the government to guarantee artificial markets, using the taxpayers' money, for materials, special nuclear or other, which the operators of commercial nuclear power plants would like to dispose of at advantageous but fictitious values."

The utilities now using atomic fuel to manufacture electric power have, according to Mr. Moody, been on notice for three years that Congress has had private ownership of fissionable fuels in mind. This warning, says Mr. Moody, has given them plenty of time "to digest the economic impact, whatever it may be."

Mr. Moody is willing to permit the AEC to waive charges for private use of Commission-owned fuel for a period, provided contracts for such use have already been signed. But he thinks it only fair to coal that the present subsidized lend-lease arrangements for the use of atomic fuels should not apply to new commitments. "It is not too surprising," he says, "that most of those who profess to believe in private ownership of special nuclear materials nevertheless want a gradual transition period before it becomes mandatory, as well as the continuation of government-guaranteed buy-back of certain materials. It is clear, as Chairman Hollifield, in effect, pointed out during last year's Congressional hearings, that the nuclear industry, specifically the utilities, want a little private ownership but not too much."

At present the AEC is losing as much as $8 a gram on its purchase and long-term stockpiling of plutonium. Since plutonium is a by-product of civilian power reactors used in making electric power, the AEC is, in effect, promising to make a present to private power companies every time it guarantees a buy-back operation. The attitude of the coal people is that if "plutonium has potential value as a reactor fuel, private industry can be counted on to develop a market for this material on its own initiative."

If the mine workers are up in arms against federal subsidy of electric power plants using atomic fuels, it is difficult to see why the same labor in the coal producing Appalachians should care when politicians attack the TVA. After all, water power is as much of an enemy of coal-derived power as is the atom. Yet it is considered suicidal to his chances in Appalachia when Barry Goldwater speaks in favor of unsubsidized private power in Tennessee.

The only valid conclusion is that consistency in politics is not considered a virtue. There are things one "mustn't say," even if those things are entirely consistent with other things that one must say. Can it be that everyone "wants a little private ownership but not too much?" Want to Avoid Hay Fever?

Take a Mountain Vacation

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Hay fever is almost never caused by hay and is rarely associated with fever. In fact, if you have fever with it you should look for some other cause. For this reason we doctors prefer to call it allergic rhinitis.

Hay fever may occur at any time of the year because a great variety of allergens may cause it, but for most victims—and there are about 9 million in the United States—the attacks start in early August. Sneezing, running nose and reddened eyes for most sufferers are ushered in with the pollination of ragweed plants and the misery lasts until the first frost.

The exact date when the pollination of ragweed or any other allergenic plant starts varies in different parts of the country and will vary in the same part from year to year because of changes in the weather. An unusually warm summer will not only cause earlier pollination but will also increase the quantity of pollen in the air.

This is especially true if the hot weather is attended by an abundant rainfall. The date of the first frost is also subject to variation.

For those who want to have a vacation in a region where the ragweed pollen count is low, most of Canada can be recommended. Other favored spots include the area west of the Cascades Mountains in Oregon and Washington, the woods of north of Michigan, Minnesota, New Hampshire and Maine, the central Adirondacks region and the southern tip of Florida. Ocean voyagers are also pollen-free and pleasant (for those who do not get seasick).

Your vacation should be scheduled, if possible, to coincide with the period of heaviest pollination in your community.

It is important to treat your hay fever by every means known because it so often paves the way for serious infections in the sinuses and the middle ear. But you never should attempt to treat this disease without medical supervision.

The most effective treatment is the taking of desensitizing injections before the hay fever starts. This can be done only after careful testing has revealed what allergen or allergens are causing hay fever in you.

For temporary relief of symptoms one of the many antihistamines may be prescribed by your doctor. The effectiveness of these drugs is greatly enhanced if they are given in combination with methylprednisolone. Nose drops and nasal sprays are best avoided because of the rebound reaction that occurs when the shrinking effect on the mucous membranes wears off.

sought out by tourists and the like may now be going downhill fast.

This is not the case, however, in all cities. Urban renewal has done great things for some large urban areas, and will probably do the same for others. But in order to stop or reverse the exodus of business, drastic steps may have to be taken.

It can be done, as architects and city planners have shown. But imagination to widen streets—not for more automobiles, but for pedestrians and an augmented public transportation system is needed. Possibly also a liberal sprinkling of greenery would lift our downtowns from their doldrums.

Something must be done. To allow all commerce to escape to the city's periphery would leave a decaying center.

CHICAGO — (NEA) — "I'm voting Republican for President and so are three others in my family."

The words, uttered by a normally Democratic civil servant, were those of a Polish-American deeply upset by the influx of Negroes into his area of this city.

They are pure "backlash." And they reflect a sentiment that seems to be flowing in particularly great volume since the Republican convention in San Francisco.

As of today, the white backlash is very real in Chicago, and it looks big. Reports of it are engulfing a variety of political headquarters. They come from city sectors inhabited by citizens of Polish, Italian, German, Ukrainian and Lithuanian descent.

WITH THE TOWERS OF CHICAGO'S LOOP rising just a few miles away, this reporter sat in the office of a prominent Polish-American politician and lawyer—anonymous here—and heard him discuss his sentiments candidly.

He describes the Polish-Americans he sees in great numbers as shocked by heavy Negro incursions. Their present mood, obviously, is one of political revolt.

But he does not think the Democrats have yet completely lost most of these people for November.

Much depends, he says, on what sort of civil rights plank the Democrats hammer into their platform at Atlantic City.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Aug. 5, 1944 — Eleven polio cases were reported in the county.

Area temperatures ranged in the high 90's as a heat wave continued.

The Fifth War Loan bond sale total in the county was reported at $9,516,641.

A community blackout test was held at Woodstock.

Aug. 5, 1954 — A contract for building the superstructure of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge was awarded to the Harris

Structural Steel Co., of New York, which had bid $9,496,431.80.

An Albany report said top priority had been given a road project to by-pass a route at Liberty where three persons were killed in a recent accident.

The Gardiner Fire Department was due to open its two-day carnival Aug. 6.

July travel over the three bridges under control of the New York State Bridge Authority was 7.93 per cent above that in 1953.

The problem hits the national minorities in many ways. They have no wish to move. They cherish their homes, their costly churches, their long-time neighbors, their familiar shopping streets.

Beyond this, moving usually means to them a drastic economic setback. It means going from a mortgage-free home, one often modernized inside, to a new place twice as costly that may saddle them with debt for the rest of their lives.

Their response to this prospect is: "Why should we have to go into debt again when we have worked so hard and long to get clear of it?"

This, says the Polish lawyer-politician, is just "too much all at one time for these people to comprehend."

And that is why many are preparing to vote for Sen. Barry Goldwater as the only protest they know how to make.

IN CHICAGO, AS IN MILWAUKEE, DETROIT, CLEVELAND, Philadelphia and other northern industrial centers, the real core of national minorities' distress over racial change is in the housing field.

The threat these people feel is far more to their homes than to their jobs. To them, the home is the vital symbol of all they have gained in America.

The lawyer-politician, interrupting his comments now and then to chatter in Polish over the telephone, says:

"They see themselves losing all they have built. Poles, more than most people, own their own homes. When they came to this country they used the first thousand dollars they saved to buy a home, often taking second and even third mortgages. Then they worked night and day to pay off those mortgages."

TO THESE FOLKS THE NEGRO INFELUX spells just one thing — decline. They believe firmly that they have eyeball evidence of it. They are convinced that Negroes let their properties run down, never painting or repairing or otherwise caring for them.

There is a bitter joke going the rounds of Chicago's Polish-American areas. This is it:

"A modern-day Paul Revere is with us. He's riding up and down Milwaukee Avenue shouting 'The Negroes Are Coming.'"

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — From the waters of the far Pacific has come a piece of news that, oddly enough, clarifies a lot of the debate surrounding the Johnson-Goldwater political campaign.

A U. S. Navy destroyer was attacked by armed vessels of the North Vietnamese and fought back immediately. The enemy ships were repulsed and one was put out of action. There was no telephone call to Washington to ask the civilian commander-in-chief in the White House what to do. The naval commander "in the field" had to use his own discretion, and he quickly ordered the firing of the ship's guns.

President Johnson not only confirmed at once the field commander's right to shoot back, but has since supplemented instructions to the naval forces with orders to destroy any enemy ships that attack them in international waters. The order presumably applies to any Soviet ships as well.

This is analogous to what Sen. Goldwater, the Republican Presidential nominee, has been saying about instructions that should be given to the commander of our forces in Europe. Yet he has been bitterly assailed by Secretary of Commerce Hodges and by Secretary of Agriculture Freeman as "trigger-happy," as "reckless," and as being ready to plunge America into a nuclear war.

All that the Arizona Senator has said is that the supreme commander of NATO should have direct command over the tactical nuclear weapons which are a part of the battlefield arsenal of NATO forces in Europe. These, of course, aren't the same thing as mammoth nuclear bombs, but are essentially artillery pieces of one kind or another with nuclear warheads of generally low-yield power. They are designed not to wipe out vast areas but to be effective in deterring the advance of enemy armies. Frequently only the commander on the scene would know whether and when they should be used.

Sen. Goldwater on July 13 said: "I have suggested that we never remove this responsibility from the President, but that the commander of NATO have a little more leeway in the election of generally low-yield weapons." The timeliness of the weapons.

All that Sen. Goldwater has urged has now been confirmed in principle by President Johnson in issuing a blanket instruction to the Navy "to attack any force which attacks them in international waters, and to attack with the objective not only of driving off the force but of destroying it."

It is puzzling why Sen. Goldwater should have been so vehemently criticized for recommending the same kind of discretion for the commander in the field as Mr. Johnson has authorized. The only explanation is that the criticism serves as a political gimmick to try to scare people and make them believe that the Arizona Senator would, if elected President, plunge the country into a nuclear war.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, who is being mentioned for the Vice-Presidential nomination on the Democratic ticket, said only last Sunday on the CBS "Face the Nation" broadcast that the American people would rather not have a man as President "who is uncertain, has a nervous finger on the nuclear trigger, and may very well give an irrational response to an international crisis." He said that to avoid this the people should vote for Mr. Johnson. The Minnesota Senator's characterization of Sen. Goldwater was most unfortunate, and it may be he had not read the correct version of what the Arizona Senator really has said.

Last Sunday, Rep. William E. Miller, the Republican Vice-Presidential nominee, was talking about this very point on the ABC program, "Issues and Answers," he said:

"Sen. Goldwater is not as misunderstood, in my judgement, as he is misrepresented. In other words, you can remember the statement he made in connection with defoliation of the (supply) lines. And he said there are five or six things you could do, and one of them might be the use of low-yield atom bombs in the interdiction of the supply lines in Cambodia, Laos, North Vietnam, into South Vietnam. He quickly said: 'We probably wouldn't do any of these things'—you remember that—but the headlines in the newspapers the next day were: 'Goldwater would use atom bombs.'"

Actually, one of the wire services had erroneously reported Sen. Goldwater as having "proposed" the use of nuclear bombs to "defoliate" the enemy's protection cover. But even after this was denied and the actual stenographic text of what Sen. Goldwater had said was published, wider and wider headlines repeated the charges just the same in subsequent speeches. So when the reporting errors have been corrected, the press can hardly be blamed for distortions made by the politicians on the stump, who either haven't read or have chosen to disregard the factual statements published.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The great novelist sat down to his typewriter. He was a short man with sandy colored hair in swirls. His skin was like amber cellophane, stretched too tight around the package. He rubbed his finger tips together and studied the blank sheet of paper. He needed a strong opening scene for the new book: he had spawned one hit and three successive flops.

The sheet of paper terrified the Great Novelist. He had to fill it with thoughts, images, people, dialogue. He would prefer to write about other writers.

They were easy to dissect and grind-under-heel. He had felt this way after the second flop—Dawn's Dust—because it represented an easy opportunity to drop from the plateau of creativity to the valley of destructiveness without losing face.

"The mimosa tree was dying," he wrote. He looked up, and sighed. Five words. Well, it was a start. He had etched a thin scratch on a large rock. "In the dead of winter," he wrote, "the starving zebras had come down from the highlands, crossed the void fighting off the female lions, and had torn the bark from the tree. Now it was dying slowly, almost sedately, the prickly leaves falling in pairs, so that little shade was left."

The Great Novelist read it and went to the bathroom. He was gone a little while and he came back red-eyed. He read the paragraph again, and wondered what his novel would be about. afternoon thinking of sentences and then criticizing them before they hit the blank paper. He phoned some friends and managed to manufacture a gay tone and to apologize for haste because "I'm in the middle of the first big scene."

He ran out of phone calls. At five, his secretary said goodnight and left. He sat studying the painting of himself. In it, he looked big and frowning. He wished that he felt big and frowning. He looked at the sheet of paper and wrote "The mimosa tree was dying. Dying it was—the mimosa tree. Only God can make a tree, but He also makes hungry zebras." The Great Novelist read it, chuckled to himself, and threw it into the waste basket. He felt his throat constrict. He didn't want to cry again.

His wife appeared in the doorway, leading from house to the office. "You work too hard," she said. "How about knocking off for a while, and going to tomorrow?" The Great Novelist pretended to be reluctant. "I can't stand these interruptions," he said. "Damn it, a writer has to create. It's a lonely, lonesome job..."

The Great Novelist went into the kitchen and made out the grocery list for his wife. When he finished, she kissed him on the cheek. "Thank you, dear," she said. "It's the best piece of writing I've seen in months..."

Then, as an act of mercy, his wife called him and he sat moodily, sipping coffee and harassing a sandwich.

His wife had white hair, tinted blue. Some said she was old enough to be his mother. De facto, she was. She babied him, petted him, bound his wounds and sent him off each morning to play with his typewriter. The lady understood the Great Novelist for what he was: an egotist without courage.

After lunch, she wiped his mouth with a napkin and sent him back to write the first scene of the new book. He sat all

Multi-Million Dollar Communications Site

Both Rocky and Newhouse Cite Responsibility at News Center

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Publisher Samuel I. Newhouse, who is donating a multi-million dollar communications center to Syracuse University, says the nation's mass media bear "special responsibility" in reporting news accurately and meaningfully.

And Gov. Rockefeller says the Newhouse center might look into "the problems of responsibility" arising from fierce competition among mass news media.

Prelude to Dedication
Newhouse and Rockefeller shared the speaker's platform Tuesday night at a dinner at Syracuse University. The dinner was a prelude to today's dedication of the center. President Johnson scheduled a flying trip here to help dedicate the new building.

Newhouse told a Syracuse audience Tuesday night that the influence of newspapers, radio and television is enormous.

"They can lull a community into complacency or charge the atmosphere with reforming zeal. They can appeal to the grossest urges or cultivate the highest aspirations. They can subvert the entire nation or they can enhance an open society."

Newhouse, 68, was guest of honor at the dinner.

Policies of nations and people alter too quickly for journalists to make flexible judgments, he said.

"Today's so-called enemy is tomorrow's friend. Indeed, we have no lasting enemies so much as we have ill-informed peoples."

The responsibility for accurate reporting of news also rests, Newhouse said, "with all of us, from the lowliest private citizen to the highest officials of industry, labor, education and government."

Questions CR Action
"It is our hope," he added, "that great leaders of this nation and the world will be drawn to its (the new center's) forums and seminars to shed the light of their experience and judgment on the great issues of the day."

Rockefeller questioned the recent action of radio and television in permitting civil rights leaders to make "sensational and negative" comments on the air immediately after Mayor Robert F. Wagner's appeal to end racial rioting in New York City.

He also contended that newspapers and magazines, as well as radio and television, had lifted

ed Negro nationalist leader Malcolm X to national prominence because "his extremism produced attention-getting stories and broadcasts."

The governor also challenged the use of electronic computers to project the outcome of national elections before balloting is ended.

Such projections, he said, can influence the outcome of an election by creating a "bandwagon psychology" and by discouraging some people from voting because they might conclude the result already is settled.

Treated as Folk Hero
On the potential function of the Newhouse Center, Rockefeller said it "might very well look carefully into the problems of responsibility which arise from the speed and immediate impact of modern communications and from the fierce competition within and among the media."

Referring to racial difficulties,

the governor said Malcolm X "was relatively unknown and had only a small following 'when'

tion and radio discovered that his extremism produced attention-getting stories and broadcasts."

By the time of the recent New York racial riots, however, Rockefeller said, "the media were treating him as a folk hero and he was being held up as the standard of behavior for the less responsible elements of the population involved."

2 Greene B of E Members Resign

Two members of the Board of Education of the Greenville Central School District, Greene County, have resigned.

They are T. Merritt Elliott, a member of the board for 24 years and clerk of the board the last 13 years, and Webster F. Jennings, a board member since 1953. At a special meeting of the board, Mrs. David Gumpert of Norton Hill, was appointed to serve out the unexpired term of Elliott, and Curtis Applebee of Dormansville was named to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Jennings.

U. S. Has 250,000 in Readiness Many Planes, 125 Ships in Sector

WASHINGTON (AP) — The military strength of the United States in the Pacific includes nearly a quarter of a million men, thousands of planes and about 125 Navy ships in the 7th Fleet alone, with other ships ready elsewhere.

Move Up Begins
Part of the "substantial military reinforcements to Southeast Asia" which Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara announced were being moved up, apparently come from units already located in the central and northwest Pacific regions.

First indications of the nature of the buildup came from Saigon today with an announcement by a U.S. spokesman that U.S. Air Force F102 jet fighters were being rushed to South Viet Nam.

Six of the supersonic Delta Dagger jets from the 16th Fighter Interceptor Squadron based on Okinawa flew to Saigon from Clark Field in the Philippines. The flight commander, Lt. Col. Garrett D. Page of Decatur, Ala., said they carried no "offense weapons" and only had antiaircraft rockets for the defense of South Viet Nam.

Other F102 jets are stationed in Japan.

As the reinforcements head from Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines. Others are stationed on Okinawa and in Japan.

As the reinforcements head for the Southeast Asian zone, the Defense Department will draw on planes, ships and men now in the continental United States. These will take up stations from which the beefed-up Southeast Asia force has been taken.

Pacific Setup
Here is how the U.S. military setup in the Pacific stood as the crisis intensified:

Manpower — A total of about 229,000, including 68,000 Army, 30,000 Marines, 70,000 Air Force, 60,000 Navy in the 7th Fleet deployed along the Asian coastline.

Ships — The 125 ships of the 7th fleet include three attack carriers, the Ticonderoga, Constellation and Bon Homme Richard, plus an antisubmarine warfare carrier, the Kearsarge.

Air Force — The Pacific Air Force, with headquarters in Hawaii, operates 40 tactical squadrons of aircraft. They are strike, support and air defense types and include many super-sonic jet fighters.

The Marine Corps, in addition to the approximate 20,000 ground force personnel based in Okinawa, has a Marine air wing of about 10,000 men and 300 to 400 planes in the western Pacific.

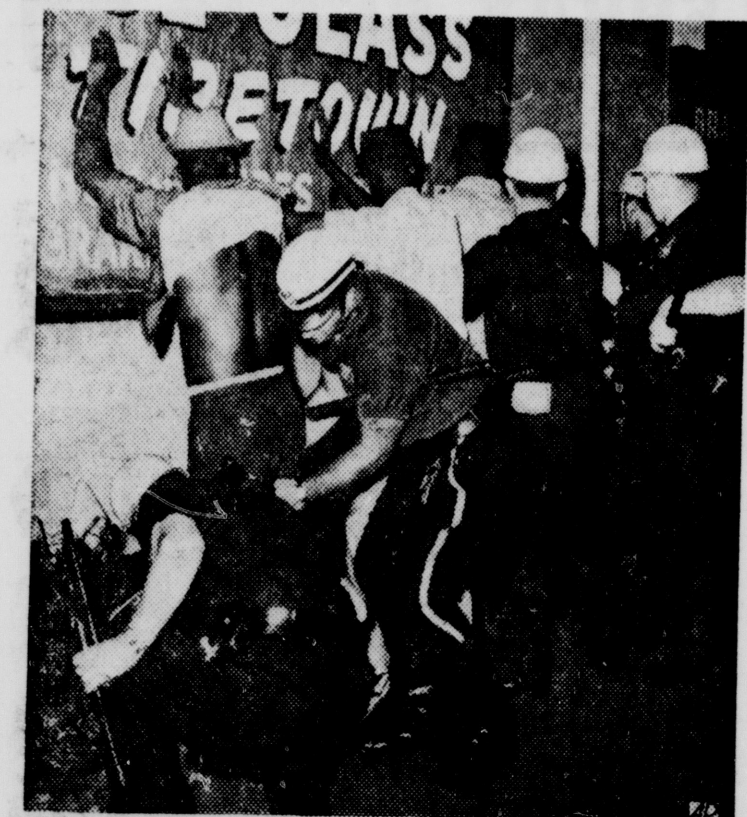

A battalion landing team of Marines, about 2,000 men, is rotated on sea duty from Okinawa with the 7th Fleet's amphibious force.

Sponges are animals. They are the simplest form of the subkingdom Metazoa, which comprises all multicellular forms. They were not believed to be living animals until 1765 when John Ellis demonstrated their nature by observing contractions on the surface of the body and water currents produced by sponges.

Multi-Million Dollar Communications Site

Both Rocky and Newhouse Cite Responsibility at News Center

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Publisher Samuel I. Newhouse, who is donating a multi-million dollar communications center to Syracuse University, says the nation's mass media bear "special responsibility" in reporting news accurately and meaningfully.

And Gov. Rockefeller says the Newhouse center might look into "the problems of responsibility" arising from fierce competition among mass news media.

Prelude to Dedication

Newhouse and Rockefeller shared the speaker's platform Tuesday night at a dinner at Syracuse University. The dinner was a prelude to today's dedication of the center. President Johnson scheduled a flying trip here to help dedicate the new building.

Newhouse told a Syracuse audience Tuesday night that the influence of newspapers, radio and television is enormous. "They can lull a community into complacency or charge the atmosphere with reforming zeal. They can appeal to the grossest urges or cultivate the highest aspirations. They can subvert the entire nation or they can enhance an open society."

Newhouse, 68, was guest of honor at the dinner. Policies of nations and people alter too quickly for journalists to make flexible judgments, he said.

"Today's so-called enemy is tomorrow's friend. Indeed, we have no lasting enemies so much as we have ill-informed peoples."

The responsibility for accurate reporting of news also rests, Newhouse said, "with all of us, from the lowliest private citizen to the highest officials of industry, labor, education and government."

Questions CR Action

"It is our hope," he added, "that great leaders of this nation and the world will be drawn to its (the new center's) forums and seminars to shed the light of their experience and judgment on the great issues of the day."

Rockefeller questioned the recent action of radio and television in permitting civil rights leaders to make "sensational and negative" comments on the air immediately after Mayor Robert F. Wagner's appeal to end racial rioting in New York City.

He also contended that newspapers and magazines, as well as radio and television, had lifted

Safety Network

To follow America's astronauts in orbit, a 16-station network has been set up around the world. These Mercury-tracking outposts can locate a spacecraft flying 5 miles a second, talk to the man it carries, measure performance of the astronaut and his vehicle and, by radio signals, bring him back to earth safely.

Matter of Fact

Sponges are animals. They are the simplest form of the subkingdom Metazoa, which comprises all multicellular forms. They were not believed to be living animals until 1765 when John Ellis demonstrated their nature by observing contractions on the surface of the body and water currents produced by sponges.

ed Negro nationalist leader Malcolm X to national prominence because "his extremism produced attention-getting stories and broadcasts."

The governor also challenged the use of electronic computers to project the outcome of national elections before balloting is ended.

Such projections, he said, can influence the outcome of an election by creating a "bandwagon psychology" and by discouraging some people from voting because they might conclude the result already is settled.

Treated as Folk Hero

On the potential function of the Newhouse Center, Rockefeller said it "might very well look carefully into the problems of responsibility which arise from the speed and immediate impact of modern communications and from the fierce competition within and among the media."

Referring to racial difficulties,

the governor said Malcolm X and radio discovered that he was relatively unknown and had his extremism produced attention-getting stories and broadcasts.

By the time of the recent New York racial riots, however, Rockefeller said, "the media were treating him as a folk hero and he was being held up as the standard of behavior for the less responsible elements of the population involved."

2 Greene B of E Members Resign

Two members of the Board of Education of the Greenville Central School District, Greene County, have resigned. They are T. Merritt Elliott, a member of the board for 24 years and clerk of the board the last 13 years, and Webster F. Jennings, a board member since 1953.

At a special meeting of the Board, Mrs. David Gumpert of Norton Hill, was appointed to serve out the unexpired term of Elliott, and Curtis Applebee of Dormansville was named to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Jennings.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — After 10 days spent with people involved in next season's new television programs, a reporter becomes convinced they have all memorized the same basic, all-purpose script for interviews.

Usual procedure is to set up confrontations with the stars-to-be and producers or creators of entertainment programs, with a press agent confidentially passing along his personal opinion that the show will be a smash. Then, no matter who is trotted out, the interview drops into familiar ruts.

It goes about like this: Interviewer is conducted by press agent to studio commissary or nearby restaurant and, after a few minutes, subject arrives for lunch break.

If it is an actor, he wears his make-up, costume and a happy smile. If it is the producer, he wears a sharply pressed sports jacket and slacks, and is always pressed for time. "Creators," who are usually writers by trade, look as if they had just stepped off a sailboat, and act worried. But the words are the same.

Interviewer: "So how are things going?"
Interviewee: "Just marvelously! I must say that I've never been a part of such a talented team. The scripts are just great, every one funny, unusual and full of real entertainment values."

Interviewer: "There were reports in the trade papers that you were having script trouble and the sponsor was unhappy."
Interviewee: "Scripts? You'll be laughing at some, like the one where I want to play golf on Saturday but my wife wants me to clean the cellar."

Interviewer: "Yes, yes, but—" Interviewee: "Wow, time's up. I've got to get back to the set. They are very strict about being on time, you know. Anyway, you can see how well it's going, and I think that with some help and backing from people like you, we'll be in great shape. Gosh, it's been a pleasure talking with you."

Current scuttlebutt — or maybe just adroit press agency — has NBC's "Rogues" looming as a hit; ABC's "Bing Crosby Show" turning up good comedy scripts, and CBS' "Living Doll" emerging as a bright, off-beat series.

Buried in Cathedral

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Cathedral in downtown Columbus became the monument and tomb of its chief builder, Bishop Sylvester Rosecrans, who also had acquired the site. The evening after the cathedral's consecration in 1878, the bishop died at 51. He is buried beneath the sanctuary.

On warm summer evenings, a chilled compote of fruits, served with delicately flavored coconut cookies, makes a welcome and really pleasing dessert.

With so much excellent fresh fruit in the market, you'll have no trouble in selecting a variety. POACHED FRUIT COMPOTE (Serves 4)

One can (6 ounces) frozen concentrate for lemonade, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup water, 1 stick cinnamon, 4 whole cloves, 2 pounds fresh fruit.

*Use peaches, apricots, plums, grapes or nectarines. Remove pits, seeds and skin as necessary.

Bring lemonade, sugar, water and spices to a boil in a 2-quart saucepan. Reduce heat. Add part of the fruit. (Do not crowd fruit in saucepan. Poach only one type of fruit at a time.) Cover tightly and poach until fruit is tender. (See guide below for poaching times.) Remove fruit from liquid and place in a large compote or serving dish. After all fruit is poached, discard spices. Pour liquid over fruit. Chill.

COOKING TIMES

Stolen Skeleton Puts

Apartments in Uproar
COPENHAGEN (AP) — Police are looking for boys who stole a skeleton and scared residents of a suburban Copenhagen apartment house.

The skeleton, nicknamed Jokum, vanished from a neighborhood school's natural history department Monday night.

Tuesday an 8-year-old girl in an apartment house answered a knock on the door of her apartment. On the landing outside was Jokum.

The girl ran screaming back into the apartment. As her father jumped to the door, the skeleton fell in his arms. The staircase echoed to female screams and male curses as neighbors hurried out. One man said he saw at least three boys running out of the house.

Apology to Dog

SOHAM, England (AP)—Bert Peacock, 67, made a public apology to a dog today. Peacock had complained to police that Tina, hairdresser Ruth Harvey's 2-year-old Alsatian, bit his son. The police found another dog was the culprit.

The Soham Advertiser carried this advertisement today: "Mr. B. Peacock wishes to apologize for a false accusation against Mrs. R. Harvey's dog."

Below 600 feet in the Black Sea the water contains so much hydrogen sulfide that only a few bacteria can survive.

BERRY'S WORLD

"I have in mind the perfect running mate—he even has 34 per cent fewer cavities, and brushes his teeth after every meal!"

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Some time ago, Mr. Tom Walsh of 37 Boulevard, a collector of Ulster County, Catskill Mountain and Kingston, historical items gave me an 1872-73 Kingston City directory. It is a nice little hard covered book and contains some 200 pages and even illustrations. In 1872 the villages of Rondout and Kingston became the City of Kingston. Sometimes I wonder if they stayed separated would it have been better or worse for the taxpayers.

James G. Lindsley was the first mayor, and also agent for the Cement Company. He lived on Hasbrouck Avenue opposite Meadow Street. I would say there was much more originality to the printing of the advertisements than there is today. Every line seemed to have a different print, and most of them are very ornamental. One advertisement reads: "Allen & Murrin, 27 Garden Street, two doors from Hasbrouck Avenue. Wholesale and retail dealers in all kinds of imported and domestic liquors, segars, etc., London and Dublin porter and ales, Chow-Chow, pickles, catsups, mustard and sauce, John S. Allen-B. Murrin, Kingston (Rondout) N. Y."

In 1872 the American Hotel was owned by P. L. Osterhoudt, and was on the corner of Union Avenue (now Broadway) and St. James Street. Jacob J. Arnold was a hairdresser in the Savings Bank Building on Wall Street. Martha and Annie Atkinson were milliners at 5 Mansion House Building, Hasbrouck Avenue corner Union Street. To my way of thinking, it should have been Division Street, which is Broadway today. Perhaps there were two Mansion House buildings at the time, for there is a listing for the Mansion House, Division corner Lackawana.

From some old records I see Mrs. C. A. Murdock on Sunday, June 10, 1906 had rounded out half a century as keeper of the Rondout Lighthouse. In 1856 her husband was appointed keeper, and a month later he died. Mrs. Murdock was appointed to succeed him, and continued active for a number of years. On her retirement from active service as the lady lighthouse tender, her son, Capt. James Murdock, took over till he retired and moved to Brooklyn. It was said when Mrs. Murdock was appointed the light keeper the light was housed in an old wooden building. In 1868 the old stone lighthouse was built and continued in service until another lighthouse was built in 1913, which I see is in "At Century's Turn" H. L. Van Deusen's column. This column, which was sent to me by Attorney Henry Klein is dated December 14, 1946 and up to that time the old stone lighthouse still stood on the Esopus side of the creek. The government required that the buyer remove it from the site.

Going through the 1872-73 Kingston Directory some more I see Albert Loughran, physician, Fair near North Front Street. Elbert H. Loughran, medical student, John Street between Wall and Fair Street. Robert Loughran, physician, office and residence John between Wall and Fair Street. Lounsberry and DeWitt were lawyers at 33 Wall Street. Barney McBride was a confectioner at Union Avenue (now Broadway) corner O'Neil Street. C. M. O'Neil and Company were wholesale and retail dealers in dry goods, crockery, groceries, provisions, flour, grain, feed, farming implements, clover and timothy seed, pine and hemlock lumber, bath, lime, fertilizing compost etc., 16 and 18 North Front Street, Kingston, New York.

Going Native

HONOLULU (AP)—The East-West Center at the University of Hawaii sent out a memo to its students of many nations asking them to wear their native dress for a center celebration.

One student sent back this reply: "I always wear my native costume."

It was from Sister Andre Nilles of the Order of St. Joseph of Carondelet in Grand Forks, N. D.

Party Chiefs Pledge Speed on Resolution

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican and Democratic leaders agreed today to seek swift bi-partisan Senate approval of a declaration of support of President Johnson's actions in the Southeast Asian crisis.

Sens. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., the majority and minority leaders, reached the agreement in a conference in the Senate chamber in advance of today's Senate session.

Speed of Essence

Declaring "Speed is of essence," Dirksen said he believed a resolution expressing bipartisan support of the President should receive immediate action, without waiting for the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees to clear it first.

Mansfield said he agreed. Thus, a vote might come before tonight on a historic resolution throwing the Senate's support behind the President's declaration that the United States is determined "to take all necessary measures" to defend peace and freedom in Southeast Asia.

The two leaders held their meeting in the Senate at Dirksen's desk, with newsmen clustered around them and able to hear their every word.

Requested in Talk

Johnson requested the resolution in a talk to the nation Tuesday night in which he disclosed the United States had launched an air strike against North Vietnamese gun boats and shore facilities in retaliation for two attacks by PT boats on U.S. destroyers.

The President had discussed the resolution earlier at a meeting with congressional leaders and Mansfield said there had been no opposition to it.

"It seemed to me that the group there was unanimous in its approval of this sort of action," the Montana Democrat said.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, chairman of the conference of all Republican senators, said, "I believe the Republicans in Congress will support the President in any necessary action he may take to obtain a measure of security for the free world in the Far East."

New Election Law Article Is Noted

Ulster County Board of Election officials today made known a new article of the Election Law explaining the qualifications of a voter in this state.

The new article provides that every person who shall move from another state to this state or from one county, city, or village within the state to another county, city or village within the state, and who shall have been an inhabitant of this state, in any event, for 90 days preceding an election at which electors are to be chosen for the office of President and Vice-President of the United States, shall be entitled to vote in this state solely for such electors, provided such person is otherwise qualified to vote for such electors in this state and is not able to qualify to vote for such electors in any other state, and he possesses the qualifications required of other voters of his state except the residential requirement of one year in the state and the county, city or village for four months preceding the election.

In order to vote for said electors, an application for a special Presidential Ballot must be made personally at the office of the Ulster County Board of Elections, 74 John Street, Kingston, no later than Oct. 6, 1964.

The local election commission also noted a reminder that Central Registration is in effect until Sept. 21. Anyone, who is eligible, may register now and also apply for an absentee ballot if they expect to be away on Election Day. If anyone is sick or physically disabled they may also apply for absentee registration and at the same time an absentee ballot.

If anyone has a question pertaining to the Special Presidential Ballot, registration or voting, contact should be made with the Ulster County Board of Elections.

Leopoldville Reported in Rebel Hands

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Stanleyville, key city of the northeastern Congo, was reported tonight in the hands of Communist-backed rebel warriors. A message from Stanleyville airport at 5 p.m. said: "The entire city is in rebel hands."

A garbled message saying the same thing reached the United Nations in Leopoldville.

The radio message from Stanleyville Airport's control tower said: "The A.N.C. (Congolese Army) has been pushed back."

Senate Confirms Raskin as PM For Ellenville

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The Senate confirmed today these postmaster nominations by President Johnson for New York State:

Nathan Raskin, Ellenville; Robert J. Piper, Herkimer; Thomas A. Napier, Lewiston; Edward R. Perrin, Palmyra; Frances W. Schillaci, Rock Glen; and Florence P. Harrad, Van Hornesville.

City Library Film Festival Well Attended

There was standing room only at the first night showing at the Kingston City Library Film Festival. Visitors sat on stools, stairs and tables to see the first five award winning films at the festival.

Seating arrangements are being changed and more chairs are being obtained to make provisions for increased attendance at the remainder of the festival going through August 7.

The festival continues tonight with the following films: "Sea Island" — Another of the Walt Disney award winning true-life adventure films showing the return of the giant fur-bearing seals to the Aleutian Islands. Excellent color photography turns the seemingly barren islands into a starkly beautiful background for truly dramatic action.

New York, New York — The winner of the American Film Festival is a photographic essay of the great city covering the little known and unusual spots. Glooscap Country — With the skilled artistry of a nature photographer, this color film relates an ancient legend of the Micmac Indians of Nova Scotia.

Gardens of Japan — Painted in soft brush strokes against the pastel backdrop of peaceful ancient Japanese countryside, the film shows the dynamic growth of modern Japan.

Legend of the Raven — This film is another winner of the American Film Festival award. It explains how the Eskimos banished the raven for his greed in time of famine. Stone carvings are used as characters to express authentic Eskimo folklore and music.

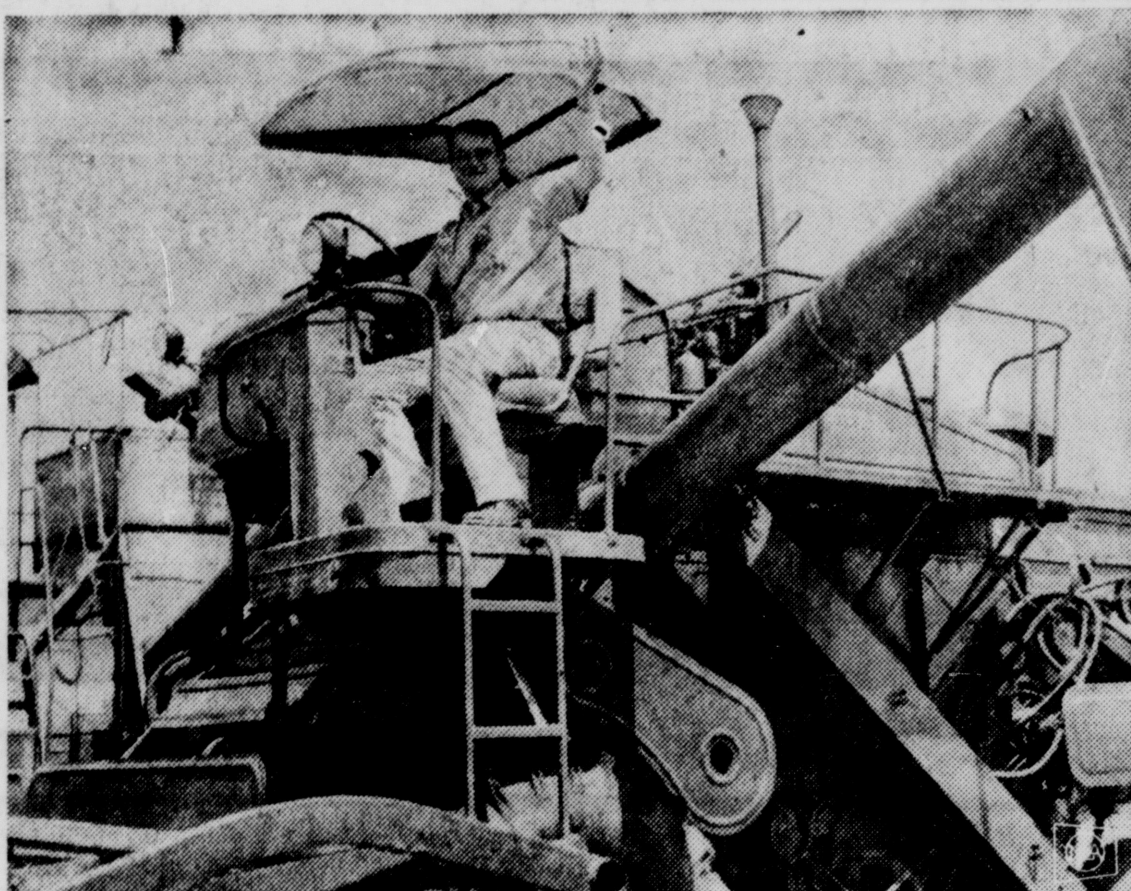

Memorable Bermuda — Color photography permits an enchanting late summer vacation to this British island.

Several organizations have already taken the opportunity during the film festival to look through the library's film catalogs to order films for programs during the fall. Other groups are urged to contact the library concerning their film requests as soon as possible to insure booking dates. Several hundred films are now listed in library's film catalogs for free loan.

Card of Thanks

U.S. Planes Blast

the United States "to advanced bases in the Pacific."

5. Movement of an anti-submarine force into the South China Sea.

6. The alerting and readying of selected Army and Marine forces.

The Army maintains the 25th Division in a high state of combat readiness at Honolulu. The Marines have their 3rd Division at Okinawa and a brigade at Honolulu.

Will Check Damage

McNamara told the news conference that reconnaissance flights would be carried out later to determine precisely what destruction had been wrought by the carrier plane assault.

Asked if he could give any reason for the unusual North Vietnamese naval activities, McNamara replied, "I can't explain them."

He also said the Navy would continue its patrols in the Gulf of Tonkin and would continue "to protect itself against aggression."

No North Vietnamese aircraft attempted to intercept the attack aircraft from the two carriers. McNamara said he could not give a more precise estimate of damage to the four torpedo boat bases other than to say it was "very substantial."

McNamara said names of the two downed U.S. pilots would be released as soon as their next of kin had been notified, probably sometime today.

President Johnson, in his statement Tuesday night, called the air strikes a "positive reply" to attacks on the two destroyers.

"Yet our response, for the present, will be limited and fitting," he added. "We Americans know, although others appear to forget, the risks of spreading conflict — we still seek no wider war."

Makes Somber Address

The President, facing the most explosive international crisis since the Cuban missile showdown, announced the U.S. air assaults in a somber, pre-midnight address to the nation Tuesday night.

Even as he was speaking, Johnson said, "air action is now in execution against gun boats and certain supporting facilities in North Viet Nam which have been used in these hostile operations against the U.S. ships."

Johnson said Sunday's PT boat attacks on the destroyer Maddox were repeated Tuesday against two destroyers and "we believe at least two of the attacking boats were sunk. There were no U.S. losses."

Asks U. N. Action

The President said he had directed Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson to raise "immediately and urgently" before the U.N. Security Council the torpedo boat assaults that the United States charged were unprovoked and in international waters.

Stevenson, breaking off a Maine vacation, immediately called for the session and it was swiftly scheduled for today.

As part of the beefing up operation the United States rushed F102 jet fighters to South Viet Nam to be on hand in case of any attacks from North Viet Nam or Communist China.

Six Delta Dagger Air Force jets from the 16th Fighter Interceptor Squadron based on Okinawa flew to Saigon from Clark Field in the Philippines and promptly went on a 24-hour-a-day alert.

The flight commander, Lt. Col. Garnett D. Page of Decatur, Ala., said the planes had no "offensive weapons." He said they carried antiaircraft rockets for the defense of South Viet Nam. They are the first combat jet fighters to be stationed in Saigon.

Peking Issues Warning

The first indication of Peking's reaction to Johnson's announcement, the Chinese Communist New Evening Post warned today that Red China "will not wait until the flames of war come too close" before retaliating against what it called provocative U.S. attacks in the Tonkin Gulf area. The Hong Kong paper is owned and operated by Chinese Communist officials and normally follows the Peking line rigidly.

The Soviet news agency Tass reported Johnson's announcement without comment in a nine-line dispatch.

Communist North Viet Nam, in a broadcast early today, asserted the American charge of another PT boat raid Tuesday was "sheer fabrication by the U.S. imperialists aimed at covering up their illegal acts which brazenly violated the security of the Democratic Republic of (North) Viet Nam and are aggravating further the situation in Southeast Asia."

In a news briefing after the President spoke, McNamara declined to pinpoint just what areas in North Viet Nam were being hit by carrier planes.

Not Attacking Hanoi

"We are not attacking Hanoi," but only the PT boats and their supporting bases, McNamara said in the jammed, after-midnight conference at the Pentagon.

The defense secretary also disclosed other military movements, saying:

"In view of the unprovoked and deliberate attack in international waters upon U.S. naval vessels, the United States has taken the precaution of moving substantial military reinforcements to Southeast Asia."

"It is also making replacement deployments to the western Pacific from the continental United States."

In announcing the U.S. reply to the new Communist challenges, the President placed the development in the context of guerrilla fighting in U.S.-supported South Viet Nam.

"Aggression by terror against the peaceful villagers of South Viet Nam has now been joined by open aggression on the high seas against the United States of America," he said. "The determination of all Americans to carry out our full commitment to the people and government of South Viet Nam will be redoubled by this outrage."

Johnson, in his 500 word statement, said he had met with congressional leaders of both parties and told them he would immediately request Congress "to pass a resolution making it clear that our government is united in its determination to take all necessary measures in support of freedom, and in defense of peace, in Southeast Asia."

He said he had received assurance the resolution would be passed with overwhelming support.

Barry Supports Action

The President received support for his course of action even before he announced it from Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential nominee.

Johnson reached Goldwater, vacationing in Balboa, Calif., to tell him what he was going to say. And Goldwater told newsmen the President's decision was "the only thing he can do under the circumstances."

"I am sure that every American will subscribe to the actions outlined in the President's statement," Goldwater said.

Johnson declared it is a "solemn responsibility to have to order even limited military action by forces whose over-all strength is as vast and awesome as those of the United States of America. But it is my considered conviction, shared throughout your government, that firmness in the right is indispensable today for peace. That firmness will always be measured. Its mission is peace."

Decision of NSC

U.S. officials said the air strikes were decided upon unanimously by Johnson and his National Security Council advisers after receiving word of the second attack on U.S. destroyers.

They said the aim of the action was to remove the threat to U.S. ships without widening the war. The idea, they said, was to try to stop the sea attacks before the situation ignited into a full-scale Asian war.

Also at stake was the U.S. position in the struggle over the future of Southeast Asia, a struggle that has been going poorly for the United States.

Time of Crisis

U.S. officials calculate that the next few days will be the time of crisis as Communist China's leaders try to decide what to do about the U.S. action.

Sources said Johnson understood the possibility of a Red Chinese counteraction when he made his decision for the air strikes.

Both China and the Soviet Union have defense treaties with North Viet Nam. U.S. officials said they believe Moscow has been trying to disengage itself from Southeast Asia where its influence has been receding.

A. P. Bonacci, Grill Proprietor, Dies at Age 59

Anthony P. Bonacci, 59, of Lucas Avenue Extension, well known church soloist and proprietor of the Sunnyside Grill, 47 North Front Street the last 30 years, died in this city Tuesday afternoon following a long illness.

Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Keating Acting Like Candidate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., is acting very much like a candidate for re-election.

Although Keating says he has not yet decided whether to run for a second-year term, he continues to make weekend trips to New York for speeches and maintains a busy schedule in Washington.

He continues to tape radio and television programs for use by New York stations and is available — for the asking — to answer the scores of questions newsmen throw at him.

At a news conference following the National GOP convention, Keating withheld support of the national Republican ticket. He said the conservative Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona should modify his views and disassociate himself from extremist groups.

Fred A. Young, New York GOP chairman, has said the party has cooperated all along on the understanding that Keating will run.

And Keating's top aides expect him to seek re-election although they are convinced he has not yet made up his mind.

One source said Keating has never suggested that he's considering retirement. All the senator said was that he has not yet made up his mind whether to run, the source added.

Keating's speech-making in New York reached somewhat of a climax last weekend when he made seven major appearances throughout the length of the state.

There also is encouragement for the senator in the 3,500 letters he has received on his Goldwater stand. Aides said the letters support him by a 10-1 margin.

Party Chiefs Pledge Speed on Resolution

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican and Democratic leaders agreed today to seek swift bi-partisan Senate approval of a declaration of support of President Johnson's actions in the Southeast Asian crisis.

Sens. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., the majority and minority leaders, reached the agreement in a conference in the Senate chamber in advance of today's Senate session.

Speed of Essence

Declaring "Speed is of essence," Dirksen said he believed a resolution expressing bipartisan support of the President should receive immediate action, without waiting for the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees to clear it first.

Mansfield said he agreed. Thus, a vote might come before tonight on a historic resolution throwing the Senate's support behind the President's declaration that the United States is determined "to take all necessary measures" to defend peace and freedom in Southeast Asia.

The two leaders held their meeting in the Senate at Dirksen's desk, with newsmen clustered around them and able to hear their every word.

Requested in Talk

Johnson requested the resolution in a talk to the nation Tuesday night in which he disclosed the United States had launched an air strike against North Vietnamese gun boats and shore facilities in retaliation for two attacks by PT boats on U.S. destroyers.

The President had discussed the resolution earlier at a meeting with congressional leaders and Mansfield said there had been no opposition to it.

"It seemed to me that the group there was unanimous in its approval of this sort of action," the Montana Democrat said.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, chairman of the conference of all Republican senators, said, "I believe the Republicans in Congress will support the President in any necessary action he may take to obtain a measure of security for the free world in the Far East."

New Election Law Article Is Noted

Ulster County Board of Election officials today made known a new article of the Election Law explaining the qualifications of a voter in this state.

The new article provides that every person who shall move from another state to this state or from one county, city, or village within the state to another county, city or village within the state, and who shall have been an inhabitant of this state, in any event, for 90 days preceding an election at which electors are to be chosen for the office of President and Vice-President of the United States, shall be entitled to vote in this state solely for such electors, provided such person is otherwise qualified to vote for such electors in this state and is not able to qualify to vote for such electors in any other state, and he possesses the qualifications required of other voters of this state except the residential requirement of one year in the state and the county, city or village for four months preceding the election.

In order to vote for said electors, an application for a special Presidential Ballot must be made personally at the office of the Ulster County Board of Elections, 74 John Street, Kingston no later than Oct. 6, 1964.

The local election commission also noted a reminder that Central Registration is in effect until Sept. 21. Anyone who is eligible, may register now and also apply for an absentee ballot if they expect to be away on Election Day. If anyone is sick or physically disabled they may also apply for absentee registration and at the same time an absentee ballot.

If anyone has a question pertaining to the Special Presidential Ballot, registration or voting, contact should be made with the Ulster County Board of Elections.

Leopoldville Reported in Rebel Hands

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Stanleyville, key city of the northeastern Congo, was reported tonight in the hands of Communist-backed rebel warriors. A message from Stanleyville airport at 5 p.m. said: "The entire city is in rebel hands."

A garbled message saying the same thing reached the United Nations in Leopoldville.

The radio message from Stanleyville Airport's control tower said: "The A.N.C. (Congolese Army) has been pushed back."

Senate Confirms Raskin as PM For Ellenville

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The Senate confirmed today these postmaster nominations by President Johnson for New York State:

Nathan Raskin, Ellenville; Robert J. Piper, Herkimer; Thomas A. Napier, Lewiston; Edward R. Perrin, Palmyra; Frances W. Schillaci, Rock Glen, and Florence P. Harrad, Van Hornesville.

City Library Film Festival Well Attended

There was standing room only at the first night showing at the Kingston City Library Film Festival. Visitors sat on stools, stairs and tables to see the first five award winning films at the festival.

Seating arrangements are being changed and more chairs are being obtained to make provisions for increased attendance at the remainder of the festival going through August 7.

The festival continues tonight with the following films:

Sea Island — Another of the Walt Disney award winning true-life adventure films showing the return of the giant furbearing seals to the Aleutian Islands. Excellent color photography turns the seemingly barren islands into a starkly beautiful background for truly dramatic action.

New York, New York — The winner of the American Film Festival is a photographic essay of the great city covering the little known and unusual spots. Gloosecap Country — With the skilled artistry of a nature photographer, this color film relates an ancient legend of the Micmac Indians of Nova Scotia.

Gardens of Japan — Painted in soft brush strokes against the pastel backdrop of peaceful ancient Japanese countryside, the film shows the dynamic growth of modern Japan.

Legend of the Raven — This film is another winner of the American Film Festival award. It explains how the Eskimos banished the raven for his greed in time of famine. Stone carvings are used as characters to express authentic Eskimo folklore art and music.

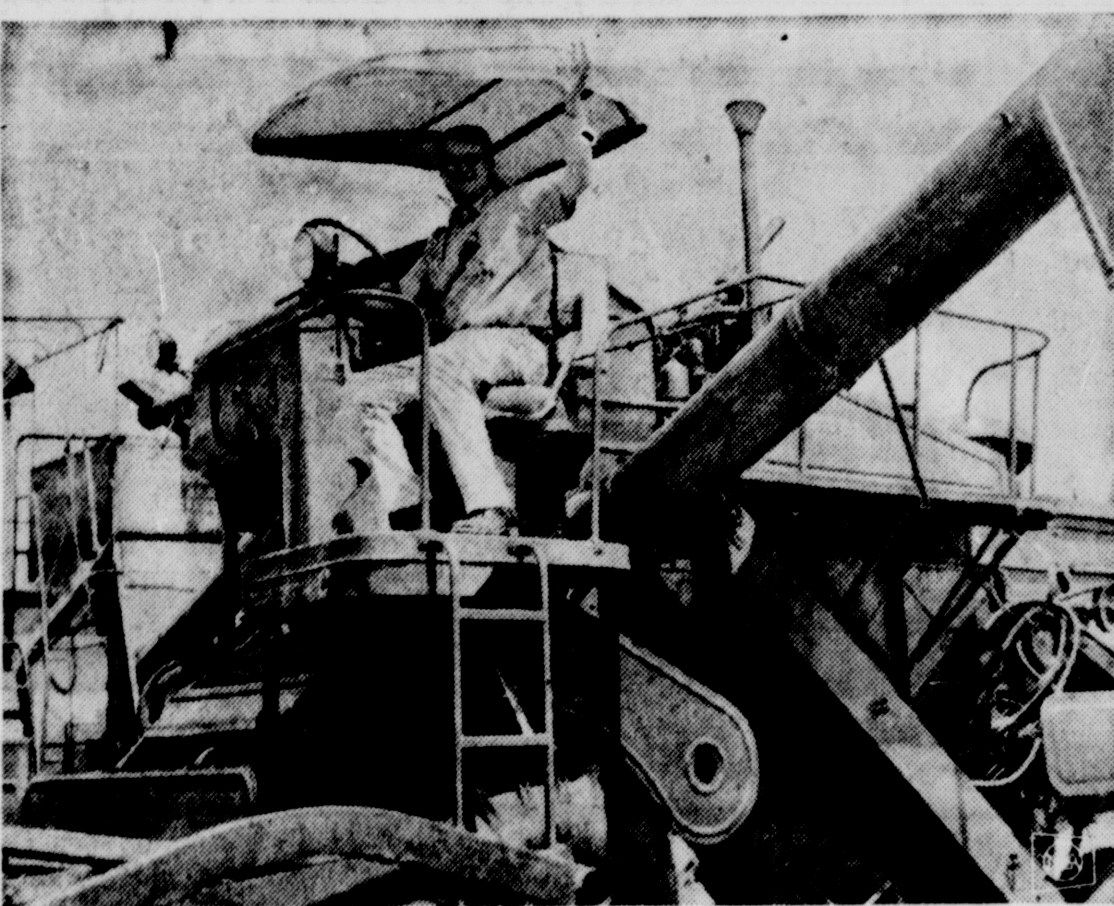

Memorable Bermuda — Color photography permits an enchanting late summer vacation to this British island.

Several organizations have already taken the opportunity during the film festival to look through the library's film catalogs to order films for programs during the fall. Other groups are urged to contact the library concerning their film requests as soon as possible to insure breaking dates. Several hundred films are now listed in library's film catalogs for free loan.

the United States "to advanced bases in the Pacific."

5. Movement of an anti-submarine force into the South China Sea.

6. The alerting and readying of selected Army and Marine forces.

The Army maintains the 25th Division in a high state of combat readiness at Honolulu. The Marines have their 3rd Division at Okinawa and a brigade at Honolulu.

Will Check Damage

McNamara told the news conference that reconnaissance flights would be carried out later to determine precisely what destruction had been wrought by the carrier plane assault.

Asked if he could give any reason for the unusual North Vietnamese naval activities, McNamara replied, "I can't explain them."

He also said the Navy would continue its patrols in the Gulf of Tonkin and would continue "to protect itself against aggression."

No North Vietnamese aircraft attempted to intercept the attack aircraft from the two carriers. McNamara said he could not give a more precise estimate of damage to the four torpedo boat bases other than to say it was "very substantial."

McNamara said names of the two downed U.S. pilots would be released as soon as their next of kin had been notified, probably sometime today.

President Johnson, in his statement Tuesday night, called the air strikes a "positive reply" to attacks on the two destroyers.

Yet our response, for the present, will be limited and fitting," he added. "We Americans know, although others appear to forget, the risks of spreading conflict — we still seek no wider war."

Makes Somber Address

The President, facing the most explosive international crisis since the Cuban missile showdown, announced the U.S. air assaults in a somber, pre-midnight address to the nation Tuesday night.

Even as he was speaking, Johnson said, "air action is now in execution against gun boats and certain supporting facilities in North Viet Nam which have been used in these hostile operations" against the U.S. ships.

Johnson said Sunday's PT boat attacks on the destroyer Maddox were repeated Tuesday against two destroyers and "we believe at least two of the attacking boats were sunk. There were no U.S. losses."

Asks U. N. Action

The President said he had directed Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson to raise "immediately and urgently" before the U.N. Security Council the torpedo boat assaults that the United States charges were unprovoked and in international waters.

Stevenson, breaking off a Maine vacation, immediately called for the session and it was swiftly scheduled for today.

As part of the beefing up operation the United States rushed F102 jet fighters to South Viet Nam to be on hand in case of any attacks from North Viet Nam or Communist China.

Six Delta Dagger Air Force jets from the 18th Fighter Interceptor Squadron based on Okinawa flew to Saigon from Clark Field in the Philippines and promptly went on a 24-hour-a-day alert.

The flight commander, Lt. Col. Garnett D. Page of Decatur, Ala., said the planes had no "offensive weapons." He said they carried anti-aircraft rockets for the defense of South Viet Nam. They are the first combat jet fighters to be stationed in Saigon.

Peking Issues Warning

The first indication of Peking's reaction to Johnson's announcement, the Chinese Communist New Evening Post warned today that Red China "will not wait until the flames of war come too close" before retaliating against what it called provocative U.S. attacks in the Tonkin Gulf area. The Hong Kong paper is owned and operated by Chinese Communist officials and normally follows the Peking line rigidly.

The Soviet news agency Tass reported Johnson's announcement without comment in a nine-line dispatch.

Communist North Viet Nam, in a broadcast early today, asserted the American charge of another PT boat raid Tuesday was "sheer fabrication by the U.S. imperialists aimed at covering up their illegal acts which brazenly violated the security of the Democratic Republic of (North) Viet Nam and are aggravating further the situation in Southeast Asia."

In a news briefing after the President spoke, McNamara declined to pinpoint just what areas in North Viet Nam were being hit by carrier planes.

Not Attacking Hanoi

"We are not attacking Hanoi," but only the PT boats and their supporting bases, McNamara said in the jammed, after-midnight conference at the Pentagon.

The defense secretary also disclosed other military movements, saying:

"In view of the unprovoked and deliberate attack in international waters upon U.S. naval vessels, the United States has taken the precaution of moving substantial military reinforcements to Southeast Asia."

"It is also making replacement deployments to the western Pacific from the continental United States."

In announcing the U.S. reply to the new Communist challenges, the President placed the development in the context of guerrilla fighting in U.S.-supported South Viet Nam.

"Aggression by terror against the peaceful villagers of South Viet Nam has now been joined by open aggression on the high seas against the United States of America," he said. "The determination of all Americans to carry out our full commitment to the people and government of South Viet Nam will be redoubled by this outrage."

Johnson, in his 500 word statement, said he had met with congressional leaders of both parties and told them he would immediately request Congress "to pass a resolution making it clear that our government is united in its determination to take all necessary measures in support of freedom, and in defense of peace, in Southeast Asia."

He said he had received assurance the resolution would be passed with overwhelming support.

Barry Supports Action

The President received support for his course of action even before he announced it from Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential nominee.

Johnson reached Goldwater, vacationing in Balboa, Calif., to tell him what he was going to say. And Goldwater told newsmen the President's decision was "the only thing he can do under the circumstances."

"I am sure that every American will subscribe to the actions outlined in the President's statement," Goldwater said.

Johnson declared it is a "sole responsibility to have to order even limited military action by forces whose overall strength is as vast and awesome as those of the United States of America. But it is my considered conviction, shared throughout your government, that firmness in the right is indispensable today for peace. That firmness will always be measured. Its mission is peace."

Decision of NSC

U.S. officials said the air strikes were decided upon unanimously by Johnson and his National Security Council advisers after receiving word of the second attack on U.S. destroyers.

They said the aim of the action was to remove the threat to U.S. ships without widening the war. The idea, they said, was to stop the sea attacks before the situation ignited into a full-scale Asian war.

Also at stake was the U.S. position in the struggle over the future of Southeast Asia, a struggle that has been going poorly for the United States.

Time of Crisis

U.S. officials calculate that the next few days will be the time of crisis as Communist China's leaders try to decide what to do about the U.S. action.

Sources said Johnson understood the possibility of a Red Chinese counteraction when he made his decision for the air strikes.

Both China and the Soviet Union have defense treaties with North Viet Nam. U.S. officials said they believe Moscow has been trying to disengage itself from Southeast Asia where its influence has been receding.

A. P. Bonacci, Grill Proprietor, Dies at Age 59

Anthony P. Bonacci, 59, of Lucas Avenue Extension, well known church soloist and proprietor of the Sunnyside Grill, 47 North Front Street the last 30 years, died in this city Tuesday afternoon following a long illness.

He was born in Saugerties on Nov. 9, 1904, son of Mrs. Theresa Costanza Bonacci and the late Nicholas Bonacci. He was widely known as a church soloist for many years prior to his illness.

He was a member of St. Joseph's Church, Kingston Council 275, Knights of Columbus and the Ulster County Hotel and Restaurant Liquor Dealers Association.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Ethel Cole Bonacci, city two sons, Noel P. Bonacci of Sidney, and Joseph A. Bonacci of Albany; his mother, Mrs. Theresa Costanza Bonacci and a brother, Frank, of this city. Three sisters, Mrs. Patrick (Jean) Stephano, Kingston; Mrs. George (Elizabeth) Knoepfle, North Bergen, N. J., and Miss Mary Bonacci, and three grandchildren and several nieces, nephews and cousins also survive.

Friends may call at the W. N. Conner Funeral Home Inc., 236 Fair Street, Wednesday 7-9 p.m., and Thursday 2-4 and 7-9 p.m., where funeral will be held Friday at 9 a.m., thence to St. Joseph's Church where at 9:30 a.m. a high Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of his soul. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Keating Acting Like Candidate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., is acting very much like a candidate for re-election.

Although Keating says he has not yet decided whether to run for a second-year term, he continues to make weekend trips to New York for speeches and maintains a busy schedule in Washington.

He continues to tape radio and television programs for use by New York stations and is available — for the asking — to answer the scores of questions newsmen throw at him.

At a news conference following the National GOP convention, Keating withheld support of the national Republican ticket. He said the conservative Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona should modify his views and disassociate himself from extremist groups.

Fred A. Young, New York GOP chairman, has said the party has cooperated all along on the understanding that Keating will run.

And Keating's top aides expect him to seek re-election although they are convinced he has not yet made up his mind.

One source said Keating has never suggested that he's considering retirement. All the senator said was that he has not yet made up his mind whether to run, the source added.

Keating's speech-making in New York reached somewhat of a climax last weekend when he made seven major appearances throughout the length of the state — Syracuse, Gloversville, New Paltz, Orange County, Buffalo, Jamestown and the Chautauque Press Seminar.

There also is encouragement for the senator in the 3,500 letters he has received on his Goldwater stand. Aides said the letters support him by a 10-1 margin.

Memoriam
In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Alida H. Dudley who passed away 9 years ago Aug. 5, 1955.

She has not left us as we thought,
Nor has she traveled far;
Just entered God's most lovely room

Memoriam
In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Dionisio Mauro Sr., who passed away three years ago today, Aug. 3, 1961.

Someone remembers, someone cares
Your name is whispered in all our prayers
A smile, a tear, a thought sincere
How often we wish that you were here.

President Warns Aggressors in Dedication Talk

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — President Johnson declared today that "aggression unchallenged is aggression unleashed," and said the United States has met deliberate aggression with deliberate action against the North Vietnamese.

In an address aimed to the peoples of all nations, as well as of the United States, Johnson recounted the attacks on U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin and the counteraction he ordered against the hostile ships, and shore bases, and said:

Nation No Divided
"We welcome — and we invite — the scrutiny of all men who seek peace, for peace is the only purpose of the course we pursue."
And he declared that no friendly country need fear, and no foe hope, "that this is a nation divided in this election year."

The President spoke at ceremonies dedicating a journalism building as the first unit of a $15-million communications center at Syracuse University.

He said it was fitting to dedicate the center to better understanding among all men, for that was his purpose in speaking now.

When he turned to the attacks on U.S. destroyers, he said: "The attacks were deliberate."

"The attacks were unprovoked."

"The attacks have been answered."

Johnson listed a long string of promises broken, and said the government of North Vietnam is engaged in aggression against South Vietnam, the Kingdom of Laos, and now against the United States on the high seas.

He said there could be no doubt about the policy or purpose — and "no doubt about the responsibilities of men and nations devoted to peace."

Johnson said peace requires that "we and all our friends stand firm against the present government of North Vietnam, which he said is flouting the will of the world."

"The world is challenged," he said, "to make its will against war known and known clearly — felt and felt decisively."

Speaking then to America's friends of the Atlantic Alliance, Johnson said the challenge in Southeast Asia now is the same we faced with courage and met with strength in Greece and Turkey, Berlin and Korea, Lebanon and Cuba.

"To any who may be tempted to support — or to widen — the present aggression," Johnson declared, "I say this. There is no threat to any peaceful power from the United States of America. But there can be no peace by aggression and no immunity from reply. That is what is meant by the actions taken yesterday."

U.S. Ships Sail
TOKYO (AP) — More than 20 U.S. warships that were in the U.S. Navy base at Yokosuka, 50 miles south of here, left for unknown destinations tonight, the Kyodo News Service said. The Navy refused to confirm the Kyodo report.

Kyodo, quoting reliable sources, said all shore leave for U.S. Navy servicemen in the naval base had been canceled.

Made Own Jobs
HENDERSON, Ky. (AP) — Teen-agers Carole King and Bonnie Halsey weren't the least disturbed when they failed to find a summer job.

They talked school officials into letting them use a room at Seventh Street School, persuaded mothers to enroll their youngsters and soon had 15 pupils in a kindergarten.

Thursdays night's special council session for consideration of the vetoed measure, starts at 7:30 p. m.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market early today reeled under the worst selling since President Kennedy's assassination but was firming and cutting its losses early this afternoon.

The Viet Nam crisis brought typical "war scare" selling, accompanied in traditional fashion by strength in the commodity markets because of apprehension of shortages in the event of conflict.

President Johnson's speech was of a nature that the selling began to dry up and some stocks began to convert losses into gains as "bargain hunters" picked up high-quality stocks at lower prices that have prevailed for some time.

IBM, which had been down about 2 points, snapped back to show a net rise of half a dozen points. New York Central wiped out a loss of 1½. Xerox canceled a loss of a couple of points and showed a 1-point advance.

First-hour volume was 1.72 million shares, the biggest since April 2 when 1.78 million shares changed hands in the initial 60 minutes.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 2.8 to 313.0 with industrials off 4.0, rails off 2.2 and utilities off 1.0.

Some brokers likened the present situation to the mid market slide and tremendous rebound following the Cuban missile crisis.

The Dow Jones industrial average — which had been down as much as 8.90 at the end of the first hour — had cut its loss to 4.40 at noon when it stood at 828.37.

CHICAGO (AP)—Samples of soil scraped from the bottom of a tractor-trailer seized in New York containing 2,418 gallons of moonshine led to the arrest of a Georgia moonshiner.

Through the use of evidence based on atomic analysis, the U.S. attorney was able to prove to the satisfaction of judge and jury that illicit whiskey had been transported to New York from Georgia, according to Commerce Clearing House.

Soil samples were later collected around a still in Georgia, where government officials believed the illegal whiskey had been loaded onto the trailer.

Justice Department officials shipped samples of the soil to an atomic research institute in Maryland for activation analysis.

Q) My husband recently died, leaving me with a house, two sons, $100 a month income, some E bonds, and $25,000 in banks. I'm 40 years old, single, and my sons are married and away and I have only myself to rely on. I haven't worked for a great many years. I am not well and would like to stay home. M. E. A) You have my deepest sympathy on the loss of your husband.

In your position, I would approach an agent for a good insurance company and find out what you would receive on a straight life annuity. If your age is 60, you would probably get around $100 a month by putting in $20,000 — leaving $5,000 in the bank for contingencies.

Your annuity would end with your death, but it seems to me that you owe little to your sons and much to yourself. Your annuity, plus your other income, should enable you to stay home, as you wish.

I would exchange Series E for Series H bonds which pay current income.

CIRCULATION

One in a series of messages to advertisers

As a youngster, perhaps you too enjoyed the game of shadow tag. What fun it was in the late afternoon, when shadows were long and easy to catch. As we recall, there was a way of winning at shadow tag. As long as the one who was "it" was kept between you and the sun, he never got close enough to your shadow for a tag. If the real you got caught, so did your shadow.

We got to thinking about this game the other day, during a discussion of circulation and how many different ways there are to "determine" the size of a circulation audience for advertising. You can multiply units of circulation by units of people and maybe you will get reader audience. Studies and surveys can produce age, sex, income, and all sorts of other factors which, when multiplied by units of circulation, might give you other kinds of audience figures.

No matter how it is figured, a circulation audience can never be more reliable than the circulation figures from which the shadow is projected. While the size and shape of the shadow changes in the light of varying points of interest, the child at tag and the circulation under study remains the same.

We believe it is our obligation, as a seller of the commodity of advertising space, to provide you with complete and accurate circulation figures. We believe in full disclosure of circulation facts, based on uniform standards, permitting close examination from any point of interest. We believe, further, that such facts and figures should come not from us or our agents, but from an independent, objective circulation measuring and reporting service.

That's why the Audit Bureau of Circulations was organized 50 years ago, and why more than 4,000 advertisers, advertising agencies, and publishers support this voluntary, self-regulatory effort today. That's why we are ABC members.

Come to think of it, we never were much good at shadow tag. Just ask to see a copy of our latest ABC report—it will let you tag the real us.

ABC FACTS—THE BASIC MEASURES OF CIRCULATION VALUES

President Warns Aggressors in Dedication Talk

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — President Johnson declared today that "aggression unleashed" is aggression unchallenged, and said the United States has met deliberate aggression with deliberate action against the North Vietnamese.

In an address aimed to the peoples of all nations, as well as the United States, Johnson recounted the attacks on U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin and the counteraction he ordered against the hostile ships, and shore bases, and said:

Nation No Divided

"We welcome — and we invite — the scrutiny of all men who seek peace, for peace is the only purpose of the course we pursue."

And he declared that no friendly country need fear, and no foe hope, "that this is a nation divided in this election year."

The President spoke at ceremonies dedicating a journalism building as the first of a $15-million communications center at Syracuse University.

He said it was fitting to dedicate the center to better understanding among all men, for that was his purpose in speaking now.

When he turned to the attacks on U.S. destroyers, he said:

"The attacks were deliberate."

"The attacks were unprovoked."

"The attacks have been answered."

Johnson listed a long string of promises broken, and said the government of North Vietnam is engaged in aggression against South Vietnam, the Kingdom of Laos, and now against the United States on the high seas.

He said there could be no doubt about the policy or purpose — and "no doubt about the responsibilities of men, and nations devoted to peace."

Johnson said peace requires that "we and all our friends stand firm against the present government of North Vietnam, which he said is "flouting the will of the world."

"The world is challenged," he said, "to make its will against war known and known clearly — felt and felt decisively."

Speaking then to America's friends of the Atlantic Alliance, Johnson said the challenge in Southeast Asia now is the same we faced with courage and met with strength in Greece and Turkey, Berlin and Korea, Lebanon and Cuba.

"To any who may be tempted to support — or to widen — the present aggression," Johnson declared, "I say this. There is no threat to any peaceful power from the United States of America. But there can be no peace by aggression and no immunity from reply. That is what is meant by the actions taken yesterday."

U.S. Ships Sail

TOKYO (AP) — More than 20 U.S. warships that were in the U.S. Navy base at Yokosuka, 50 miles south of here, left for unknown destinations tonight, the Kyodo News Service said. The Navy refused to confirm the Kyodo report.

Kyodo, quoting reliable sources, said all shore leave for U.S. Navy servicemen in the naval base had been canceled.

Made Own Jobs

HENDERSON, Ky. (AP) — Teen-agers Carole King and Bonnie Hensley weren't the least disturbed when they failed to find a summer job.

They talked school officials into letting them use a room at Seventh Street School, persuaded mothers to enroll their youngsters and soon had 15 pupils in a kindergarten.

Motions Are Due For Murder Trio On September 8

Accused of slaying Percy Ray Barnes, 83, a Dutchess County church organist and music teacher, in his trailer home on Hollow Road, Town of Clinton, three men today appeared before County Judge John R. Schwartz at Poughkeepsie.

The three face a six-count indictment charging murder in the first degree. They previously pleaded innocent and were ordered held without bail.

The case had been adjourned until 10 a. m. today to give the defendants an opportunity to obtain counsel. Melvin Earl Knapp, 27, a construction worker, of 33 Wilbur Terrace, Town of Poughkeepsie, was the only one of the trio to appear with counsel.

John F. Hawkins, former Poughkeepsie city judge, represents Knapp. The other defendants, Carl Frank Curtis Jr., 25, a taxi driver, of 115 Smith Street, Poughkeepsie, and Norman Decker, 44, a sanitation department employee, of 7 Morgan Avenue, that city, said they could not afford to obtain counsel.

Judge Schwartz adjourned the case for motions until Tuesday, Sept. 8 at 10 a. m. and said the court would assign attorneys for Curtis and Decker.

State Police charged the men entered Barnes' home with intent to rob the elderly organist, and after they were apparently seen by the man, they allegedly beat him and ransacked the trailer home.

Council Called

The mayor said, "I am resubmitting the Board of Public Works request for a bond ordinance to finance the construction of the necessary sidewalks and curbs and the legal 100 per cent special assessment to the property owners involved."

Considers Children

If, he said, "the council refuses to grant these funds, and establish the responsibility for 100 per cent payment by the property owners, in accordance with the city charter, the children, who will attend the school, will be denied the safety protection of sidewalks and curbs."

"I do not believe the council wishes to deny these children the protection they deserve, nor to pass illegal bond ordinances, and I hope they will justify my confidence on Thursday evening by providing the necessary funds in a legal manner," he concluded.

Another letter from the mayor was left in committee. It requested an appropriation of $2,400 for 1,500 feet of sidewalk, which remains to be installed on the North side of Mary's Avenue.

City Engineer Thomas J. Wickman, the mayor noted, "at my direction and authorized by the Board of Public Works," submitted the estimate for the work, a copy of which, was forwarded.

The sum, the mayor noted, "represents the amount necessary for construction of said sidewalk, made necessary as a result of the new Sophie G. Finn School." The cost of the work, "pursuant to provisions of the city charter, will be borne by the property owners." The latter have until Sept. 1 to install sidewalks.

Thursday night's special council session for consideration of the vetoed measure, starts at 7:30 p. m.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market early today reeled under the worst selling since President Kennedy's assassination but was firming and cutting its losses early this afternoon.

The Viet Nam crisis brought typical "war scare" selling, accompanied in traditional fashion by strength in the commodity markets because of apprehension of shortages in the event of conflict.

President Johnson's speech was of a nature that the selling began to dry up and some stocks began to convert losses into gains as "bargain hunters" picked up high-quality stocks at lower prices that have prevailed for some time.

IBM, which had been down about 2 points, snapped back to show a net rise of half a dozen points. New York Central wiped out a loss of 1½. Xerox canceled a loss of a couple of points and showed a 1-point advance.

First-hour volume was 1.72 million shares, the biggest total since April 2 when 1.78 million shares changed hands in the initial 60 minutes.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 2.8 to 333.0 with industrials off 4.0, rails off 2.2 and utilities off 1.0.

Some brokers likened the present situation to the mid market slide and tremendous rebound following the Cuban missile crisis.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which had been down as much as 8.90 at the end of the first hour — had cut its loss to 4.40 at noon when it stood at 828.37.

How to win at shadow tag

As a youngster, perhaps you too enjoyed the game of shadow tag. What fun it was in the late afternoon, when shadows were long and easy to catch. As we recall, there was a way of winning at shadow tag. As long as the one who was "it" was kept between you and the sun, he never got close enough to your shadow for a tag. If the real you got caught, so did your shadow.

We got to thinking about this game the other day, during a discussion of circulation and how many different ways there are to "determine" the size of a circulation audience for advertising. You can multiply units of circulation by units of people and maybe you will get reader audience. Studies and surveys can produce age, sex, income, and all sorts of other factors which, when multiplied by units of circulation, might give you other kinds of audience figures.

No matter how it is figured, a circulation audience can never be more reliable than the circulation figures from which the shadow is projected. While the size and shape of the shadow changes in the light of varying points of interest, the child at tag and the circulation under study remains the same.

We believe it is our obligation, as a seller of the commodity of advertising space, to provide you with complete and accurate circulation figures. We believe in full disclosure of circulation facts, based on uniform standards, permitting close examination from any point of interest. We believe, further, that such facts and figures should come not from us or our agents, but from an independent, objective circulation measuring and reporting service.

That's why the Audit Bureau of Circulations was organized 50 years ago, and why more than 4,000 advertisers, advertising agencies, and publishers support this voluntary, self-regulatory effort today. That's why we are ABC members.

Come to think of it, we never were much good at shadow tag. Just ask to see a copy of our latest ABC report—it will let you tag the real us.

Night of Crisis After Sea Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was a night of crisis, and crowds gathered at the White House gates under a starless sky.

A flash from Tonkin Bay had ignited Tuesday's tensions. North Vietnamese PT boats were attacking two American destroyers.

Air of Emergency

An air of emergency spread quickly through the capital, blanketing the White House, the Pentagon, the State Department and Capitol Hill.

In its initial hours, only those in the top echelons of government were aware that a new showdown was brewing. Across the Potomac at the Pentagon, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara was informed by phone as soon as the first flash was received from the fleet.

With his top civilian and military strategists and advisers, he hurried into the national command post. That's the heavily guarded, locked-door, secret room called "the tank."

There, McNamara remained through much of the day, studying a flow of reports, talking tersely with aides.

On Capitol Hill, it was business as usual.

When rumors began circulating of a new naval engagement, many congressmen expressed disbelief and shock. Apparently only four members of the House received prompt official notification.

In Deep Conference

Down at the State Department, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and top officials concerned with Southeast Asian affairs were in deep conference. There was an urgent, secretive air about them that comes when something big is in the works.

At the White House, a stream of official cars flowed through the southwest gate after the President summoned members of the National Security Council, the Cabinet and the Joint Chiefs of Staff for emergency meetings.

At dusk, crowds began gathering on Pennsylvania avenue at the gates of the executive mansion. Many of them were tourists.

Some came out of curiosity. Some came out of concern. Some said they hoped for a glimpse of the President.

The makeup of the crowd at the White House was much like that which had gathered there on an October night in 1962 as President Kennedy reported to the nation on the Cuban missile showdown.

But Tuesday night it was a new crisis and a new president.

SHE COMES FOR PLUMS—Still a popular pastime in the sandhills of central Kansas is the picking of sand hill plums, which grow wild in the area. Jane Hyde's pail of plums will make plum butter or jelly. The fruit is also good right off the bush.

Leaders Say N. J. Riots Not Breach Of Summit Parley

NEW YORK (AP) — Three of six top Negro leaders say the Jersey City, N.J., riots are not a planned breach of the recent "summit meeting" call for curtailment or cessation of civil rights demonstrations until after election day.

Leaders of national civil rights organizations issued the call for the moratorium last Wednesday, after the New York and Rochester riots. The Jersey City violence broke out Sunday.

The summit statement said Negroes should concentrate on voter registration and political activity until after the Nov. 3 election.

Two of the six leaders of the summit meeting—James Farmer of the Congress of Racial Equality and John Lewis of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee—later disassociated themselves from the moratorium call, although both emphasized they were against violence.

Both Farmer and Lewis, reached in Washington, said the Jersey City riots had nothing to do with the moratorium because they were not demonstrations.

Roy E. Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said Jersey City had a "spontaneous outbreak" and the NAACP chairman there is "working hard with city authorities to prevent further violence."

Wilkins also was in Washington.

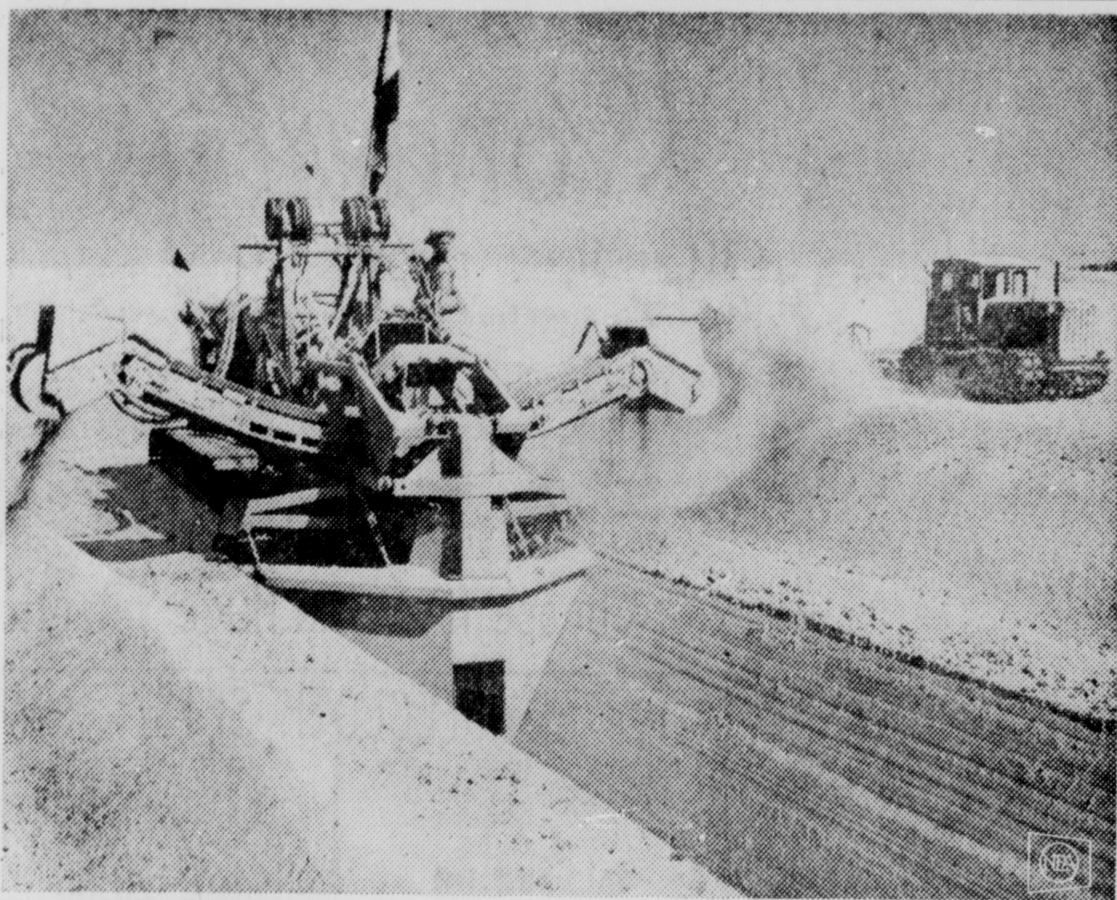

But A. Philip Randolph, an AFL-CIO vice president who also heads the Negro American Labor Council, said "undoubtedly it (Jersey City) is the first major breach of the moratorium."

In Atlanta, a secretary to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said King did not have any comment immediately.

Whitney Young, executive director of the National Urban League, was attending the organization's convention in Louisville, Ky., and could not be reached for comment.

Hollywood News and Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The first casualties have returned from Otto Preminger's replay of Pearl Harbor and its aftermath, "In Harm's Way."

One returnee from the Hawaiian location is Hugh O'Brian, who promptly entered a hospital for a four-week treatment of a tropical virus. Another is Paula Prentiss, who came back to the mainland with one of her lengthy legs in a cast.

Didn't Dare Quit

"Broke the darned thing in a scene," she reported. "Worked the rest of the day, though. Didn't dare quit, you know Ott."

Indeed I do. He is the hard-headed taskmaster whose bite is seldom as fierce as his bark. Paula, who stands 5 feet 9 without a cast, said she got along marvelously with him.

"We had some wonderful fights," said the San Antonio, Tex., beauty. "Whenever we had a difference of opinion over a scene, he and I had a fine shouting match. I think he likes it that way. It was good for me, too; by the time I did the scenes I had a good steam of emotion up."

Her accident occurred on her last day of shooting. She and John Wayne were supposed to be running through the cane fields during the Japanese bombing. The cane had been chopped down to photographable height, but the runners had little vision of where they were stepping. Paula stepped into a three-foot pothole. Crunch!

She finished her work with the ankle swollen like a coconut, then sought treatment.

"For eight days I had to keep my foot elevated so the swelling would go down," she related. "I kept looking at it and say to myself, 'If I'm going to break my leg doing a picture, I ought to get paid for it.'"

The source of her dissatisfaction was her contract with MGM, which allowed the studio to collect handsome fees for loanouts like "Man's Favorite Sport?" "The World of Henry Orient" and "In Harm's Way" while paying her only her usual salary. Meanwhile the studio had no work of its own for Paula.

Paula's contract has now been adjusted to one film a year. That leaves her free to do movies and plays for her own personal profit.

Leaders Say N.J. Riots Not Breach Of Summit Parley

NEW YORK (AP) — Three of six top Negro leaders say the Jersey City, N.J., riots are not a planned breach of the recent "summit meeting" call for curtailment or cessation of civil rights demonstrations until after election day.

Leaders of national civil rights organizations issued the call for the moratorium last Wednesday, after the New York and Rochester riots. The Jersey City violence broke out Sunday.

The summit statement said Negroes should concentrate on voter registration and political activity until after the Nov. 3 election.

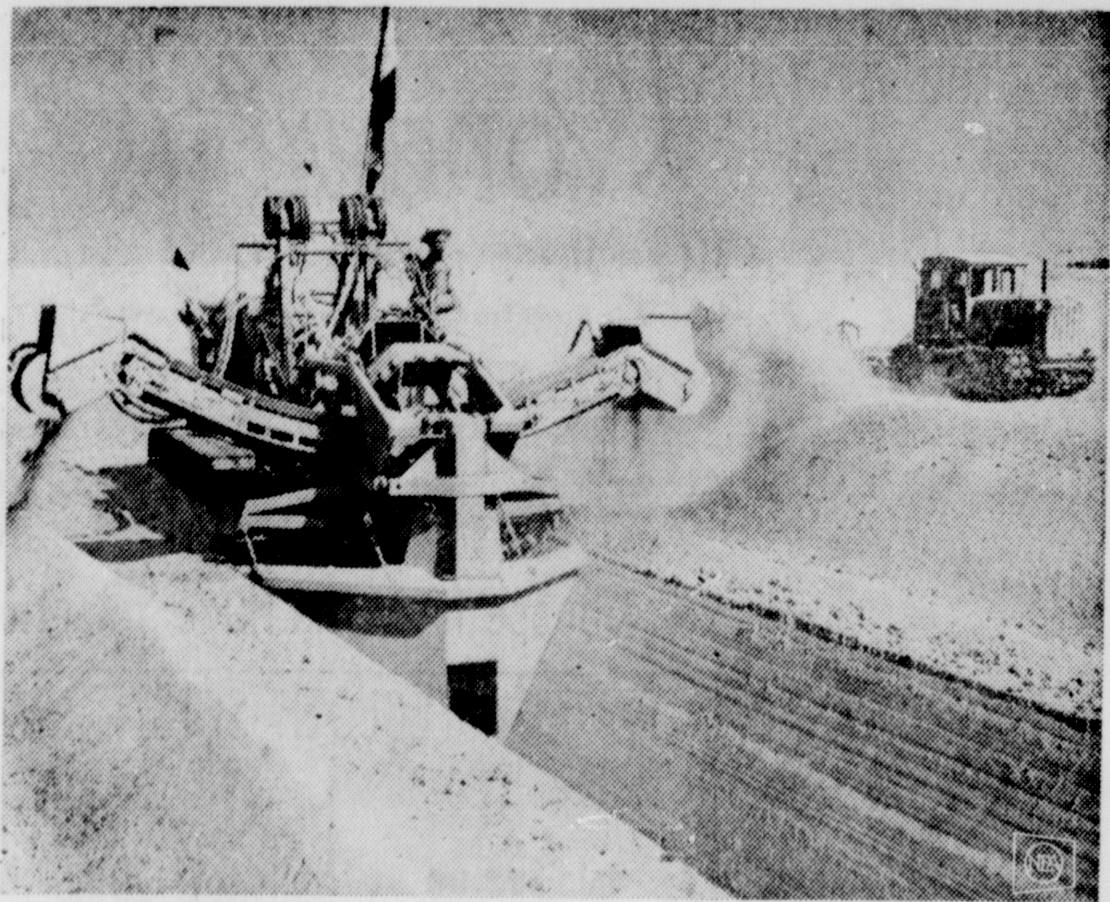

Two of the six leaders of the summit meeting—James Farmer of the Congress of Racial Equality and John Lewis of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee—later disassociated themselves from the moratorium call, although both emphasized they were against violence.

Both Farmer and Lewis, reached in Washington, said the Jersey City riots had nothing to do with the moratorium because they were not demonstrations.

Roy E. Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said Jersey City had a "spontaneous outbreak" and the NAACP chairman there is "working hard with city authorities to prevent further violence."

Wilkins also was in Washington.

But A. Philip Randolph an AFL-CIO vice president who also heads the Negro American Labor Council, said "undoubtedly it (Jersey City) is the first major breach of the moratorium," immediately.

Whitney Young, executive director of the National Urban League, was attending the organization's convention in Louisville, Ky., and could not be reached for comment.

In Atlanta, a secretary to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said King did not have any comment.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The first casualties have returned from Otto Preminger's replay of Pearl Harbor and its aftermath, "In Harm's Way."

One returnee from the Hawaiian location is Hugh O'Brian, who promptly entered a hospital for a four-week treatment of a tropical virus. Another is Paula Prentiss, who came back to the mainland with one of her lengthy legs in a cast.

Didn't Dare Quit
"Broke the darned thing in a scene," she reported. "Worked the rest of the day, though. Didn't dare quit, you know Ott."

Indeed I do. He is the hard-headed taskmaster whose bite is seldom as fierce as his bark. Paula, who stands 5 feet 9 without a cast, said she got along marvelously with him.

"We had some wonderful fights," said the San Antonio, Tex., beauty. "Whenever we had a difference of opinion over a scene, he and I had a fine shouting match. I think he likes it that way. It was good for me, too; by the time I did the scenes I had a good steam of emotion up."

Her accident occurred on her last day of shooting. She and John Wayne were supposed to be running through the cane fields during the Japanese bombing. The cane had been chopped down to photographable height, but the runners had

The source of her dissatisfaction was her contract with MGM, which allowed the studio to collect handsome fees for loanouts like "Man's Favorite Sport?" "The World of Henry Orient?" and "In Harm's Way," while paying her only her usual salary. Meanwhile the studio had no work of its own for Paula.

Paula's contract has now been adjusted to one film a year. That leaves her free to do movies and plays for her own personal profit.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Aug. 5, the 218th day of 1964. There are 148 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1864, a federal fleet commanded by Admiral David Farragut steamed into Mobile Bay, the last outlet on the Gulf of Mexico held by Confederate forces. It was there that Farragut shouted his command from the rigging: "Damn the torpedoes; full speed ahead." When the smoke of battle cleared, Mobile Bay was in federal hands.

On this date

In 1884, the cornerstone of that Statue of Liberty was laid at the entrance to New York Harbor.

In 1892, Congress passed a bill for the coinage of five million silver half dollars as souvenirs of the World's Columbian Exposition.

In 1912, Theodore Roosevelt was nominated for president by the Progressive party.

In 1915, British nurse Edith Cavell was arrested by the Germans and later executed as a spy.

In 1942, Britain repudiated the 1938 Munich Pact with Nazi Germany.

Ten years ago — An agreement to resume Iranian oil production was signed by the Tehran government and eight of the world's largest oil companies.

Five years ago — Vice President Richard M. Nixon returned to Washington after a tour of the Soviet Union and his confrontation with Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

One year ago — The United States, British and Russian foreign ministers signed a treaty in Moscow for a partial nuclear test ban.

Finally Lay It on Line

Crimes of Nazi Past Being Told to Berlin Youths Now

By KLAUS SCHULZ-VOBACH

BERLIN (AP) — The bus stopped in front of a crumbling half-ruined building, standing in a wasteland created by wartime bombing. A group of 16-year-old boys and girls formed a ring around a guide. It was a hot day, and the girls wore gay summer prints.

"Here," said the guide, "Adolf Eichmann issued his orders that meant death for millions of Jews."

The youngsters looked solemn. They had read reports of the trial and execution of Eichmann in Jerusalem. They had been following recent trials of Nazi criminals in West Germany.

But this was their first direct encounter with a relic of the criminal past. They were not born when the Third Reich crumbled in defeat in 1945.

Facts Laid on Line

This was part of a new approach to a problem that has plagued many of Germany's educators and parents since the war: how to deal with the Nazi past. Some have ducked it, possibly because of their own feelings of guilt and shame. Now, in the West Berlin Borough of Wedding, the facts were being laid on the line.

The students' guide, a 30-year-old municipal official, told them:

"The Nazis regarded Germans as a master race. In their eyes the Jews were of the most inferior value. They were gassed, shot and hanged. Eichmann's office was the headquarters of systematic mass murder."

As the bus rolled for three hours through the city the guide repeatedly switched on a tape recorder. It played the voices of Adolf Hitler, his propaganda minister Josef Goebbels, of Nazi judges condemning opponents of the regime and of Jewish survivors of death camps.

Restoring Reichstag

The Reichstag, the parliament building that mysteriously burned in 1933, giving Hitler the excuse to seize total power, is now being slowly restored for possible use by the West German Parliament.

With this historic backdrop, close up against the wall dividing the city, the guide told of the weakness of German democracy between the two world wars:

"Hitler's policy was war. When he advocated peace and self-determination he did not mean it."

He traced the course of Nazi conquests, noting that open resistance to Hitler emerged only after he suffered defeats.

Then came the questions: "Why were so few people against Hitler?"

One earnest boy remarked resignedly: "What could people do? It was the parallel to the situation in East Germany today. There is no real resistance to the Communists. The people are frightened."

Moore's Their Man

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — They still have and need doctors at Mercy Hospital but the man most in demand is Tom Moore.

He is the maintenance engineer. "The hospital isn't falling apart; it just happens Moore can fix anything from a broken water pipe to an oxygen tent.

More even is called into the operating rooms to fix an auto-clave (sterilizer) and into the laboratory to see why a researcher's artificial kidney design won't work. He may even make a new part for the kidney in his shop.

Moore says of his job: "I love making things work—stuff nobody else can make work."

But of Course

NEW YORK (AP) — Norbert Builaume, a Frenchman who specializes in teaching Frenchmen driving to qualify for a New York license says:

French drivers are the worst in New York, with the Italians a little better. "The French people in automobiles, they are Crazy," he declared.

She thought she was alone among strangers... until an unexpected friend helped.

Sometimes it seems people are too busy these days to take time to help someone in trouble. But lots of folks are still ready to help, as one elderly lady discovered this year.

Somehow, in the rush-hour swirl of New York City's huge Pennsylvania Station, she missed her connection for the last train to Gainesville, Florida, where her daughter was expecting her. Upset, tired, a stranger in New York... she wasn't sure what to do next.

And then she saw a friendly face. She stepped up to Mrs. Helen MacBean, the New York Telephone operator on duty at the station's public attended phones. And Mrs. MacBean did help. She sat down with the lady over a cup of coffee. She learned about the missed train, and that the lady might have to spend the night in New York... somewhere. Mrs. MacBean knew what to do. She arranged to change the lady's train ticket for the following day. She reserved a room for her to stay overnight. She saw her safely to a cab, making sure all details about tomorrow's train were clear. Then Mrs. MacBean phoned Gainesville and told the folks who were waiting what had happened.

Later, Mrs. MacBean received a letter —

"I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart for being so nice to my mother, and for phoning to tell us what had happened that night."

"It is now two weeks since you phoned the second time to ascertain that mother had finally reached Gainesville and I thought you might like to know that she is safely home...."

"May people always be as nice to you!"

Do people take the trouble to help strangers any more? Yes. Lots of them do. Telephone people do. We're glad when they do.

False-Card Play Wins for South

BY OSWALD JACOBY

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

One of the most interesting hands in Fred Karpin's "Winning Play in Contract Bridge" involves an astonishing false-card. You may not agree with South's six diamond bid. I'm not sure that I agree with it myself, but South felt that he would make six diamonds against a spade lead.

West opened the four of spades and South noticed four spades in dummy including the three spot. South's own low spade was the deuce, so that South was not only pretty sure that West had opened a singleton spade, but South also was sure that if he followed with his deuce, East would know the situation and lead a second spade to give his partner a ruff. South did all this thinking quickly and instead of playing the deuce he false-carded with the king. He did it right away. There is no point in making an elaborate ceremony about this type of play.

East's next play wasn't nearly as quick. He thought and thought, but finally led the king of hearts, whereupon South discarded his deuce of spades and spread his hand.

East really should not have fallen for the false-card. South had bid six diamonds by himself. Still it is far easier to play when you see all the cards as we do.

Wednesday Night Concert Program Listed by Jaycees

The program for the band concert sponsored by the Saugerties Jaycees to be held 8 p. m. Wednesday, Aug. 12 at Main Street School, was announced today.

The first portion of the concert will open with Semper Fidelis March by Sousa; The Light Cavalry Overture; Seventy-six Trombones from The Music Man; Londonderry Air; King Cotton March by Sousa; Pan the Piper, a novelty number; Estrellita, a Rhumba; and will conclude with Block Band Jazz, a swing march.

After a short intermission the band continues with The Thunderer March by Sousa; Bugler's Holiday, a cornet trio; Wedding of the Winds; Everything's Coming Up Roses from "Gypsy"; Rocking Rhythm, a swing march; and will conclude with The Stars and Stripes Forever March.

This presentation by the Kingston Concert Band under the direction of Marlin Morrette, is made possible by a grant from the Music Performance Trust Fund through the American Federation of Musicians, Local 215.

Barclay Heights Fire

Glascio Fire Company volunteers quickly extinguished a brush fire Tuesday at Barclay Heights in the vicinity of Paul's Service Station. The alarm was sounded at 2:23 and firemen returned to station at 2:35 p. m.

Jaycees, Jaynees Picnic Set Aug. 23

Arrangements for the combined Jaycee-Jaynees family picnic were outlined at a special meeting of Saugerties Jaycees recently at the home of Mrs. William Hicken, 27 Austin Avenue.

Two guests were present at this meeting, Mrs. Michael Catalinotto and Mrs. M. Durer. Social chairman, Mrs. George Lombardo, reported that plans are underway with the Jaycees for a picnic to be held on August 23.

The budget for the year 1964-1965 was presented, discussed and approved. Discussion was held on various new projects for the organization.

Following the short business meeting, a social hour was held with Mrs. Hicken and Mrs. Ralph Quosig acting as hostesses. Refreshments consisted of favorite desserts provided by each Jaycee.

The next regular membership meeting of Saugerties Jaynees will be held Tuesday evening, Aug. 25th at the meeting room in the Saugerties Savings Bank building.

Katsbaan Church Fair

The annual church fair and supper at Katsbaan Dutch Reformed Church will be served Wednesday, Aug. 19 at 5, 6 and 7 p. m. in the church hall. Ticket reservations may be secured by calling Mrs. William Fiero or Mrs. Fred Elveleit. Virginia baked ham will be served with all the trimmings. Fair booths will include homemade food items, fancy work, aprons, specialty items and a booth for the children.

Utility Firms Settle Out Of Court on Antitrust Act

A litigation group of 44 electric utility companies, generally referred to as the Atlantic City Group, representing approximately 16 percent of the nation's investor-owned utilities, has settled out of court its antitrust damage suits against Westinghouse Electric Corporation for an aggregate amount of $11,500,000. The settlement, which is the culmination of long negotiations, was announced today by Lelan F. Sillin Jr., president of Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, in his capacity as chairman of the executive steering committee of the group.

Arose From 1960 Charges

The suits arose out of the 1960 charges of antitrust conspiracies and were based on claims that the 44 utilities had been overcharged for electrical equipment.

In April the group reached an out-of-court agreement with General Electric Company for $26,500,000 and, having now settled with Westinghouse, the group has reached settlements with the two largest electrical equipment manufacturers.

Sillin said that, although discussions are in progress with other suppliers involved in these actions, settlements have not yet been reached with any of them.

The action is pending in the Southern District of New York and an application will be made to the Court for dismissal of the actions against Westinghouse.

Paramount Theater Is Closed Down

NEW YORK (AP) — The Paramount Theater on Times Square, one of the last survivors of the big film palaces built on Broadway after World War I, was closed to the public after Tuesday night's performances.

The 3,650-seat theater went dark as a result of negotiations by William Zeckendorf, chairman of the real estate firm of Webb & Knapp, to take over the Paramount Building which contains offices and stores as well as the theater.

The transaction is not yet complete. But the lease on the theater, which was held by American Broadcasting - Paramount Theaters Inc., was terminated by mutual consent with the Paramount Pictures Corp., which owns the building and theater.

The Paramount opened in 1926 and presented stage shows as well as films. In 1934, the theater dropped the old-style stage presentations and since then had mostly a straight film presentation policy.

CONTACT LENSES

STERLING OPTICAL'S NEW POUGHKEEPSIE OFFICE

will answer all your questions on modern contact lenses.

What are Modern Contacts like?

Over the past few years, contact lenses have undergone vast technological improvements. The contact lens used by Sterling is less than one-third of an inch in diameter. It is of tissue-thin optically ground plastic that requires no fluid.

Who wears Contact Lenses?

Today, millions of men, women and children wear contacts — and for more reasons than improvement of appearance. Most people who are near-sighted, far-sighted or astigmatic derive as much visual acuity from contacts as from eyeglasses. For some eye conditions, contact lenses provide corrective qualities not offered by glasses.

Are Contact Lenses Safe?

The best answer to this is that many athletes in such active sports as football and basketball actually prefer contacts for reasons of safety.

Can You Adjust to Contacts?

Sterling's experience shows that most people who sincerely want contact lenses can and do adjust satisfactorily. To aid you in making a decision before you purchase contacts, you can "pre-test" the comfort by wearing a blank lense. At Sterling qualified personnel will gladly answer your questions about contact lenses.

Complete Facilities for Eyeglasses, Eyeglass Repairs, Contact Lenses and Optical Accessories.

Where are Contact Lenses Made?

Sterling sends your prescription to one of the nation's largest contact lens laboratories. It is not likely that your prescription need ever be changed. Usually, a contact lens prescription will serve for a lifetime.

How Do You Find Out About Contacts?

Invest less than an hour of your time at Sterling's Contact Lens Information Center. You will get the whole story on modern contact lenses. You do not need an appointment — but it would be wise to phone so that you are spared unnecessary waiting.

Crisis Becomes Way of Life in Pentagon

Tonkin Gulf Strategists Are Aware Plan Might Draw Red Reaction

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Crisis has become a way of life in the Pentagon.

The Red patrol boat attacks on American destroyers in international waters off the North Viet Nam coast is only the latest in a series of alarms that have been sounding with growing frequency in almost two decades of cold war tension.

All Communist Tests

With the exception of Korea, the incidents have been Communist testing of free world determination. In one, the Cuban missile showdown, nations hovered on the brink of atomic war.

Always there was the chance that an incident and its reactions could flare into major war. And this is true of the naval clashes between the United States naval vessels and the patrol boats of North Viet Nam.

The Pentagon has files packed with plans for coping with contingencies. The plans have existed and been constantly revised for years. They cover a broad spectrum of probable, possible or remotely conceivable emergencies.

Thus, it may be said that when the Defense Department ordered the close-in patrol by surface ships in the Gulf of Tonkin off the Red Vietnamese coast, it considered and put into a contingency plan things that might evolve from the patrol.

The planners certainly were aware the destroyer patrols might draw Red reaction. They assessed the capabilities of the North Vietnamese to react, alone or in concert with their big neighbor to the north. When the destroyer patrols were started more than a year ago, a carrier was kept steaming near the mouth of the gulf, ready to send her planes to help the destroyers if they encountered shooting trouble.

Contingency to Battle

When the Tonkin Gulf situation moved from a contingency situation into a sea battle, the plan went into operation. A quick radio message from the destroyer brought fighter plane help from a carrier.

In Tuesday's engagement planes were in the area above the destroyers Maddox and Turner Joy, on President Johnson's orders, when PT boats darted in through a storm and a three-hour battle opened.

In the opening incident Sunday, the Maddox radioed its call for air help from the carrier without coding it because of the extreme urgency of the situation. This is accepted procedure in such critical moments.

Both military and civilian chiefs in Washington were informed of the attack almost before the echoes of gunfire had died away.

System Expanded

This is made possible under the elaborate worldwide communications system, maintained as part of the over-all command and control setup. With this system, all interested officials, from the President on down, can communicate with commanders in the field anywhere — instantly.

A "command and control" system has existed since the beginning of World War II. But with improvements in equipment and the deadly danger growing out of missile warfare perfection, it has been expanded and improved.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara uses the communications network to make his own personal, surprise tests to see if everything is working.

The system also requires that the whereabouts of each military official in the upper and operating echelons be known constantly, including the President.

Assemblymen Fight Order on Reapportionment

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Angry Republican assemblymen are clamoring for the state attorney general to appeal a court ruling that will require New York State legislators to run for election three times within the next three years.

The assemblymen, meeting here Tuesday, also endorsed a U.S. Senate bill that would enable the Legislature to postpone action on reapportionment for two years.

At the same time, Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino unveiled a plan for reapportionment that would preserve the feature of the current formula guaranteeing at least one assemblyman for each of the state's 62 counties.

Ask Vigorous Fight

Carlino said the GOP majority believed "very strongly that an appeal of the federal court decision should be pursued vigorously." State Atty. Gen. Louis K. Lefkowitz, who attended the meeting of assemblymen, told the Associated Press his staff was studying the matter but he had not "come to a decision yet." He said he had until Aug. 27 to decide whether to appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

three-member panel, acted last month after the U.S. Supreme Court held that the present formula for distributing Assembly and Senate seats was unconstitutional. Democrats had brought a test case against the plan, arguing that it was designed to preserve Republican control of the Legislature.

The special federal court ruled that the new apportionment formula, assigning seats on a population basis, must be enacted by April 1, 1965. It also ruled that all members would have to run for reelection in the fall of 1965 and again in the regularly scheduled election in the fall of 1966.

Means Three Runs

Coupled with the regular election this year, this means that members of the Legislature, although ordinarily elected for two-year terms, would have to stand for election three years in a row.

The prospect of three consecutive elections prompted the GOP assemblymen yesterday to declare support for a U.S. Senate measure that would delay action on reapportionment.

They sent a telegram to the Senate sponsor, Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., and to all New York members of the House and Senate expressing support for the measure, which was reported out of committee yesterday.

Carlino said the federal court ruling "completely upsets the pattern of legislative elections," and "ignores state constitutional provisions that specify members are to be elected for two-year terms."

"If we enact a new apportionment law by next April 1, that should be the end of their (the court's) concern," the speaker declared.

Gov. Rockefeller is believed to be planning to call the Legislature into special session in December to act on reapportionment.

Keating Attitude On Road Only Lukewarm Now

Area businessmen and residents fighting the proposal for a skyline drive along the crest of the Kittatinny-Shawangunk Mountains have finally gotten their message across to legislators in Washington, D.C.

From remarks made by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.) during his recent visit at New Paltz, it is apparent he is now lukewarm to the idea.

The bill which provides $5,000 for study and survey of the project, passed the Senate, but is buried in a House committee.

No Action This Session

Sen. Keating said there was no chance for further action on the bill, regardless of any change in attitudes on the proposal, during this session.

Sen. Keating introduced the bill in the Senate as a result of what was called unanimous resolutions and what appeared to be solid support for the mountain highway.

He indicated that many of the county supervisors are opposed to the idea and there appears to be increasing opposition to the whole thing.

Opponents to the proposal have emphasized that the running of a highway through the middle of the mountain range would cut it up into small sections and completely destroy its wilderness character.

Point to Present Roads

Opponents also stressed there was no justification for another highway through the area because of the present alignment of highways such as the State Thruway and Route 209 and other good roads through and adjacent to the mountain area.

Prominent among the opposition to the highway were Kenneth B. Phillips, proprietor of Lake Minnewaska resort; Daniel Smiley, who operates Lake Mohonk, and Architect Albert E. Milliken of Accord and Kingston.

The highway proposal called for a national parkway from Stroudsburg, Pa., northeast to Kingston financed entirely by federal funds.

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Crisis has become a way of life in the Pentagon.

The Red patrol boat attacks on American destroyers in international waters off the North Viet Nam coast is only the latest in a series of alarms that have been sounding with growing frequency in almost two decades of cold war tension.

All Communist Tests

With the exception of Korea, the incidents have been Communist testing of free world determination. In one, the Cuban missile showdown, nations hovered on the brink of atomic war.

Always there was the chance that an incident and its reactions could flare into major war. And this is true of the naval clashes between the United States naval vessels and the patrol boats of North Viet Nam. Red China, powerful ally of the Vietnamese Communists, is close — and watchful.

The Pentagon has files packed with plans for coping with contingencies. The plans have existed and been constantly revised for years. They cover a broad spectrum of probable, possible or remotely conceivable emergencies.

Thus, it may be said that when the Defense Department ordered the close-in patrol by surface ships in the Gulf of Tonkin off the Red Vietnamese coast, it considered and put into a contingency plan things that might evolve from the patrol.

The planners certainly were aware the destroyer patrols might draw Red reaction. They assessed the capabilities of the North Vietnamese to react, alone or in concert with their big neighbor to the north. When the destroyer patrols were started more than a year ago, a carrier was kept steaming near the mouth of the gulf, ready to send her planes to help the destroyers if they encountered shooting trouble.

Contingency to Battle

When the Tonkin Gulf situation moved from a contingency situation into a sea battle, the plan went into operation. A quick radio message from the destroyer brought fighter plane help from a carrier.

In Tuesday's engagement planes were in the area above the destroyers Maddox and C. Turner Joy, on President Johnson's orders, when PT boats darted in through a storm and a three-hour battle opened.

In the opening incident Sunday, the Maddox radioed its call for air help from the carrier without coding it because of the extreme urgency of the situation. This is accepted procedure in such critical moments.

Both military and civilian chiefs in Washington were informed of the attack almost before the echoes of gunfire had died away.

System Expanded

This is made possible under the elaborate worldwide communications system, maintained as part of the over-all command and control setup. With this system, all interested officials, from the President on down, can communicate with commanders in the field anywhere — instantly.

A "command and control" system has existed since the beginning of World War II. But with improvements in equipment and the deadly danger growing out of missile warfare perfection, it has been expanded and improved.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara uses the communications network to make his own personal, surprise tests to see if everything is working.

The system also requires that the whereabouts of each military official in the upper and operating echelons be known constantly, including the President.

Assemblymen Fight Order on Reapportionment

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Angry Republican assemblymen are clamoring for the state attorney general to appeal a court ruling that will require New York State legislators to run for election three times within the next three years.

The assemblymen, meeting here Tuesday, also endorsed a U.S. Senate bill that would enable the Legislature to postpone action on reapportionment for two years.

At the same time, Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino unveiled a plan for reapportionment that would preserve the feature of the current formula guaranteeing at least one assemblyman for each of the state's 62 counties.

Ask Vigorous Fight
Carlino said the GOP majority believed "very strongly that an appeal of the federal court decision should be pursued vigorously."

State Atty. Gen. Louis K. Lefkowitz, who attended the meeting of assemblymen, told the Associated Press his staff was studying the matter but he had not "come to a decision yet." He said he had until Aug. 27 to decide whether to appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Olin Dows Will Talk at Art Gallery Friday

Art being the controversial subject that it is, the Woodstock Artists Association is presenting yet another outstanding member of the art world, who is both artist and administrator, Olin Dows who will talk at the Woodstock Art Gallery Friday, August 7 at 8:30 p. m. He is thus qualified to offer various sides of the question.

Dows' educational background includes the best colleges and artist instructors that the country afforded. His War efforts took him to Europe, after which he returned to Rhinebeck to paint murals, exhibit his work and write.

Because of his interest in the role, the government has played in the field of art, he wrote a pamphlet on the New Deals Treasury of Art Programs. This movement brought him in contact with many of the Woodstock Artists who had active parts in the government sponsored murals in public buildings.

Having traveled extensively in Spain and North Africa, his recent paintings are on these subjects, where they have been shown in the Macbeth and Sagittarius Galleries.

Following his lecture a short question and answer period will offer an opportunity for audience participation. Almost two thousand years ago, Juvenal complained, "Must I always be listening and not pay them back?" Not so at the Woodstock Art Gallery. Mr. Dows will welcome an opportunity to hear from his longtime friends and neighbors.

Christian Science Subject Is 'Spirit'

Using "Spirit" as a name for God, the Christian Science Bible Lesson on Sunday will explore how the qualities of Spirit bring harmony into human affairs.

Bible readings will include this description: "The fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance; against such there is no law (Gal. 5)."

In Woodstock Sunday services are held at 11 a. m.

Baseball Assn. Plans Father-Son Game August 16

At a recent meeting of the Woodstock Township Baseball Association, formerly the Woodstock Township Little League, plans were made to have the annual Father-Son game Sunday, August 16 at 2 p. m. at the Andy Lee Memorial Field. There will be refreshments as in past years.

The association also decided to hold an All Star Fathers game in September. The date will be announced later.

The fund raising campaign, which is now underway, also was discussed. Contributions are needed for the purchase of uniforms for the boys and other expenses of the league such as baseballs, bats and equipment. In addition, trophies that are awarded at the annual banquet must be purchased.

The association points out that in the age group of 9 to 12 the youths are becoming interested in playing ball and they can be started off on the right road. In its appeal for financial support, the association stresses the importance of helping the youth become better ball players and young men of the future.

Duncan Wilson, Box 158, Bearsville is the treasurer of the Woodstock Baseball Association.

Vols Plan Fund Drive on Aug. 15

The annual fund raising drive of the Woodstock Fire Company No. 1 will start Aug. 15. Plans were made at the monthly meeting Monday night at the firehall.

Chief George Haythorne reported that there were six alarms during the month of July; two mutual aid calls; two brush fires; one building and one bulldozer.

The company will go to Rosendale to participate in the annual parade of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association Saturday. They will be led by the Continental Cadet Corps of Catskill.

Milton Combs was elected a life member of the company.

Starting Aug. 12 there will be resuscitator instruction for members. Course will continue every second Wednesday and fourth Thursday of the month.

ances of the Laterna Magika in Carnegie Hall and the Prague Pantomime Theater in Philharmonic Hall (Lincoln Center), followed by a reception at the representative's United Nations headquarters.

Can't Reverse Standards

CAIRO (AP)—A jobless husband failed to stop his wife's divorce action even though he offered to do all the housework while she held a steady job.

The wife claimed that he forced her to work so he could laze around the house all day. In granting the divorce, Judge Ahmed Lutfy declared it was "irregular to current social standards" for the husband to do housework.

Truman's Man Is Beaten Tuesday In Missouri Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—Missouri Democrats apparently gave Secretary of State Warren E. Hearnes their nomination for governor in an upset Tuesday and renominated Rep. Richard Bolling as three states held primaries.

Hearnes held to a margin of more than 30,000 votes over Lt. Gov. Hilary A. Bush early today, and his campaign staff claimed victory. Bush was backed by former President Harry S. Truman and retiring John M. Dalton.

If his margin holds up, Hearnes, 40, would face Republican Ethan Shepley in November in normally Democratic Missouri.

Bolling, Sen. Stuart Symington and all other incumbent congressmen won easily.

In Missouri's predominantly Republican neighbor, Kansas, the GOP gubernatorial primary held top billing. Rep. William H. Avery emerged with a margin of some 6,000 votes over the nearest of seven opponents.

Avery had resigned as a member of the powerful House Rules Committee to make the race. Nearly complete returns gave him 72,870 votes to 66,073 for McDill Boyd and 59,111 for

State Sen. Paul R. Wunsch. Avery's November opponent will be State Corporation Commissioner Harry G. Wiles who swamped five foes.

Bolling, a powerful Johnson Administration voice in the House Rules Committee, had been challenged by Judge Hunter Phillips.

Symington, seeking a third senate term, defeated two little-known challengers and faces Republican Jean Paul Bradshaw, one-time candidate for governor, in November.

In Idaho, Chief Justice E. T. Knudsen won a second six-year term on the State Supreme Court in the chief contest. Knudsen easily defeated former state Atty. Gen. Frank L. Benson.

Idaho has no senate seats at stake this year and Gov. Robert Smylie is midway through a four-year term.

Plan Bus Trip To See Mets Play At Shea Stadium

Kingston YMCA announces that the next bus trip to be taken by the Boy's Department group will be to Shea Stadium, Monday, Aug. 17. The bus will leave at 9:30 a. m. sharp and will return at 7:30 p. m. The cost of the trip includes transportation and admittance to the game. The boys will sit as a group and will be under the supervision of three adult and five junior leaders. Boys do not have to be YMCA members in order to attend. However, there will be only one bus and when full no more applications will be accepted. Thus far there are 14 boys signed. We urge that anyone intending to go, sign up immediately at the Boy's Department office.

The trip last Monday to Baird Park was attended by 21 boys and two junior leaders. Those attending were Raymond Blume, James McGowan, Ralph Christian, David Christian, Clayton Pollacco, Vincent Yonta, Thomas Yonta, Michael Corrado, Martin Castle, Edward Koeppen, Vincent Hart, Gary DiDonna, Brian Jackson, Richard Scheffel, Jeffrey Dymond, Timothy Engel, Steven Wolff, Steven Josefski, Karen Egan, Patrick Malloy, William Koeppen.

Physical Director, Charles "Buddie" Sims, and Executive Secretary, Louis H. Schafer also made the trip with the boys to Baird Park. The boys swam, used the playground facilities, roller skated, and shot archery. A good time was had by all.

Anyone desiring information concerning the Shea Stadium trip should contact the YMCA.

The president of the United States is addressed as Mr. President.

Tight Squeeze

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Two house trailers met on the long, narrow bridge between here and Long Key. There wasn't enough room for both vehicles.

Several hours later, as cars, trucks and buses back up for two miles in each direction, the drivers jacked up one of the trailers and tilted it to one side, allowing the other to squeeze past.

THOMAS T. BARRINGER

Seaman Apprentice Thomas T. Barringer, USN, returned recently from an eight weeks tour of duty in northern Europe. Serving in on-the-job training aboard the USS Forrest B. Royal, he visited Oslo, Antwerp, Le-Havre and Southampton.

Barringer is a 1963 graduate of Kingston High School and attended Ulster County Community College. He completed his basic training this year at Great Lakes, Ill.

He is the son of Patrolman and Mrs. George Barringer of 166 Henry Street.

Theft of Checks

Hudson police last night continued investigation of the reported theft of nine checks amounting to about $800 from Zima's Grill at Columbia and Second Streets, that city. Mrs. Blazie Zima, proprietor of the tavern, told police she had placed the checks on the bar prior to closing Tuesday morning.

Can't Reverse Standards

CAIRO (AP)—A jobless husband failed to stop his wife's divorce action even though he offered to do all the housework while she held a steady job.

The wife claimed that he forced her to work so he could laze around the house all day. In granting the divorce, Judge Ahmed Lutfy declared it was "irregular to current social standards" for the husband to do housework.

Truman's Man Is Beaten Tuesday In Missouri Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—Missouri Democrats apparently gave Secretary of State Warren E. Hearnes their nomination for governor in an upset Tuesday and renominated Rep. Richard Bolling as three states held primaries.

Hearnes held a margin of more than 30,000 votes over Lt. Gov. Hilary A. Bush early today, and his campaign staff claimed victory. Bush was backed by former President Harry S. Truman and retiring John M. Dalton.

If his margin holds up, Hearnes, 40, would face Republican Ethan Shepley in November in normally Democratic Missouri.

Bolling, Sen. Stuart Symington and all other incumbent congressmen won easily.

In Missouri's predominantly Republican neighbor, Kansas, the GOP gubernatorial primary held top billing. Rep. William H. Avery emerged with a margin of some 6,000 votes over the nearest of seven opponents.

Avery had resigned as a member of the powerful House Rules Committee to make the race. Nearly complete returns gave him 72,870 votes to 66,073 for McDill Boyd and 59,111 for

State Sen. Paul R. Wunsch. Avery's November opponent will be State Corporation Commissioner Harry G. Wiles who swamped five foes.

Bolling, a powerful Johnson Administration voice in the House Rules Committee, had been challenged by Judge Hunter Phillips.

Symington, seeking a third senate term, defeated two little-known challengers and faces Republican Jean Paul Bradshaw, one-time candidate for governor, in November.

In Idaho, Chief Justice E. T. Knudsen won a second six-year term on the State Supreme Court in the chief contest. Knudsen easily defeated former state Atty. Gen. Frank L. Benson.

Idaho has no senate seats at stake this year and Gov. Robert Smylie is midway through a four-year term.

SKETCH OF PROPOSED LANDFILL—Pictured here is the City Engineer's conception of the proposed sanitary landfill whose site has been established in the swampland area of the Fifth Ward near Kingston Point. According to the engineer's plan, the vicinity would be bounded roughly by Delaware Avenue on the north, the Hudson River on the east and south and surrounded by marsh land on the west. Members of the Fifth Ward Community Association, who oppose the landfill idea are scheduled to meet with Mayor John J. Schwenk to discuss the measure.

Cites Cost, Health Factors

Sanitary Landfill Superior For City at Present: Mayor

Mayor John J. Schwenk said today that the two methods of refuse disposal permitted under the state sanitary code, sanitary landfill is far superior to incineration for the City of Kingston at this time.

"All recognized authorities in the field agree," the mayor said, "that if you have the available space for sanitary landfill within reasonable trucking distance, then the cost, health, and public acceptance factors weigh against incineration."

"We have available space in the swampland area of Kingston Point," the mayor stated, "and at present this land produces nothing but mosquitoes, rats, and bad odors."

Under sanitary land fill, he explained, "it can be turned into useful, attractive terrain. It can free considerable dry land in the proposed John F. Kennedy Park for badly needed recreational purposes by providing adequate parking space on presently unusable land. And," he added, "it can provide a stable shoreline for a beautiful waterfront lagoon with a marina and boat livery."

"In helping to restore Kingston Point to what it was in the past," the mayor said, "sanitary fill can meet the city's dire need for an economical method of refuse disposal."

Establishing a sanitary land fill project at Kingston Point will require no more investment of public funds than already is provided by the 1964 budget plus the small budgetary note approved for fencing by the Common Council at its July 7th meeting.

Would Cost Million
"The building of an incinerator, on the other hand, would require a capital investment of almost one million dollars," the mayor pointed out.

"Furthermore," he continued, "the annual operating cost of an incinerator would be more than three times the annual cost of conducting a sanitary landfill project at Kingston Point."

"Nor would an incinerator solve the entire problem of refuse disposal," he explained, "for 20 per cent of the material burned in an incinerator remains as a residue which must itself be buried."

Bogs abound in sphagnum moss, cotton grass, black spruce and Labrador tea. The bogs of Cape Cod support cranberries, those of New Jersey, blueberries.

Pass Defense Bill
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress passed and sent to President Johnson Tuesday a compromise defense appropriations bill of $46,752,051,000 — about $1.5 billion less than last year.

The bill provides $718.9 million less than President Johnson requested. The final figure is $22 million less than the Senate approved originally and about $7 million under the original House figure.

The amendment was developed by a judiciary subcommittee headed by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind.

The amendment states that the vice president "shall become president" in case of the death, resignation or removal of a president from office.

The amendment must be approved by two-thirds of the House and Senate, and three-fourths of the 50 states with seven years. Action appears unlikely at the current session of Congress.

The vice president would become "acting president" if the president declares in writing he is unable to discharge his duties, or if he, with support of a majority of the Cabinet, informs Congress that the president is unable to serve.

Upon recovery, the president would resume office by informing Congress in writing.

Frolic Ends In Tragedy At Funhouse

WILDWOOD, N. J. (AP) — A ride through a funhouse tunnel began as a frolic and ended in fiery death for three Pennsylvania children, who were identified tentatively early today.

Police said the children, burned beyond recognition Tuesday evening, were believed to be Gregory Thompson, 10, his brother Michael, 8, and their cousin, Melody Dye, 8, all of Levittown, Pa.

They were here with the vacationing parents of the boys, Mr. and Mrs. David Thompson of Levittown, police said. Melody's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dye.

The small, fire-charred bodies were found in the ruins of the Mars Ride tunnel after fire swept through a large section of an amusement arcade at this Atlantic Ocean resort's boardwalk.

In the one hour it took for firemen to bring the general alarm blaze under control, the Mars Ride, a shooting gallery, an indoor miniature golf course and an upstairs dance hall were destroyed.

LBJ to Dedicate Newhouse Center In Orange City

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — President Johnson put a flying trip to Syracuse high on his schedule today for dedication of the first building of a $15-million communications center at Syracuse University.

The chief executive and his wife, Lady Bird, faced a warm welcome from crowds expected to total upwards of 20,000 persons.

To Remain 2½ Hours

The agenda called for the presidential party to remain here about 2½ hours before flying back to Washington.

The last time Syracuseans had a glimpse of a president was when Franklin D. Roosevelt campaigned here in 1936.

The presidential jet, Air Force One, was to touch down at Hancock Field at 9:05 a.m. E.S.T. The agenda then called for the presidential party to motor the 13 miles to the university and the dedication of the journalism building.

The building is the first of three structures that will comprise the Newhouse Communications Center envisioned by its donor as the "world's largest and most advanced study center in mass communications." The university drafted an honorary degree of doctor of laws for presentation to the President.

Rocky, Others on Hand
Gov. Rockefeller and other state and city officials were on hand to greet Johnson.

Syracuse Police Chief Wil-

Bee Blamed for Mishap

A bee was blamed for a motor vehicle accident which occurred at 10 a. m. Tuesday on Route 9W, near Saugerties. Trooper Robert Houghtaling of the Lake Katrine sub-station said Antoinette Zibella, 54, of 26 Washington Avenue, Saugerties, was driving south on Route 9W when she reached to brush a bee off the windshield. She lost control of the car and hit a utility pole. Troopers said the woman received lacerations of the nose and bruises. She was treated by a local physician.

Completion in 1966
Newhouse said the center—scheduled for completion in 1966—will "devote itself to both research and education, especially in new ideas, techniques, and effectiveness of various communications media in informing readers, viewers and listeners."

At a dinner given in his honor last night, Newhouse said it was fitting that the center be located "within a dynamic university with world-embracing interests."

He said he hoped that national and international leaders would come to the center to "shed the light of their experience and judgment on the great issues of the day."

Editorial Says Red China Not Waiting for Long

HONG KONG (AP) — The Chinese Communist New Evening Post warned the United States today that Red China "will not wait until the flames of war come too close" before retaliating against what it called provocative U.S. attacks in the Tonkin Gulf area.

"This is a very serious crisis and we cannot predict what may happen," the Hong Kong paper said, "but the United States will have to bear all the consequences."

The paper did not specify what form of retaliatory action Red China would take.

The editorial was the first Chinese Communist reaction to President Johnson's announcement that U.S. air strikes were under way against Communist supply facilities in North Viet Nam.

There was no direct comment from Peking. But the New Evening Post is owned and operated by Chinese Communist officials and normally follows the Peking line rigidly.

"North Viet Nam and China are as close together as lips and teeth," the paper said. "North Viet Nam has already warned the United States that it will take defensive action. China has also warned the United States it is not going to sit idly by and watch its fraternal partner, North Viet Nam, invaded."

Expect 9th Child

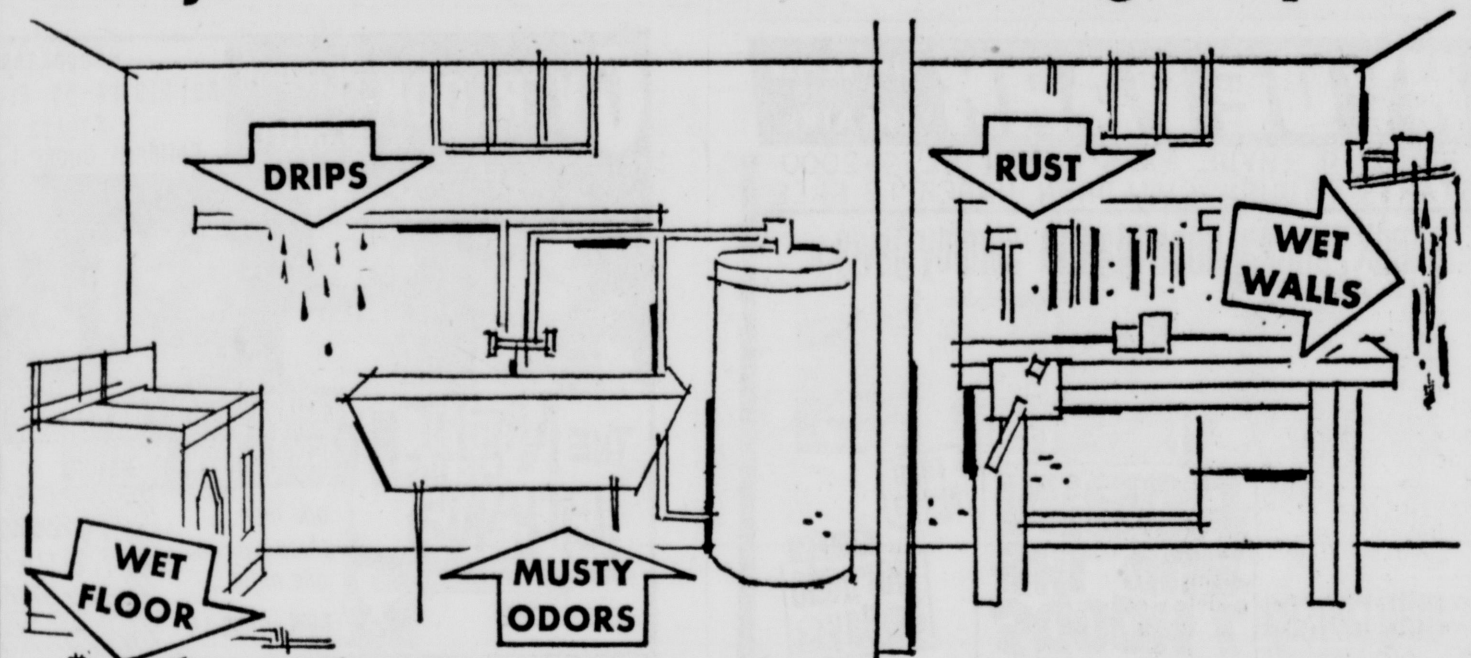

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. and Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy are expecting their ninth child in December, according to a friend of the family.

The Kennedys now have five boys and three girls. The youngest, Christopher George Kennedy, was born July 4, 1963. Kennedy is 38 and his wife, the former Ethel Skakel of Greenwich, Conn., is 36. They were married in 1950.

Miller Goes Home

M. Clifford Miller, assistant superintendent of schools in the Kingston Consolidated District, has been discharged from Kingston Hospital and returned to his home in Elmendorf Tract, Hurley. He was a patient at the hospital several days following an attack suffered at his home.

SKETCH OF PROPOSED LANDFILL—Pictured here is the City Engineer's conception of the proposed sanitary landfill whose site has been established in the swampland area of the Fifth Ward near Kingston Point. According to the engineer's plan, the vicinity would be bounded roughly by Delaware Avenue on the north, the Hudson River on the east and south and surrounded by marsh land on the west. Members of the Fifth Ward Community Association, who oppose the landfill idea are scheduled to meet with Mayor John J. Schwenk to discuss the measure.

Cites Cost, Health Factors

Sanitary Landfill Superior For City at Present: Mayor

Mayor John J. Schwenk said today that the two methods of refuse disposal permitted under the state sanitary code, sanitary landfill is far superior to incineration for the City of Kingston at this time.

"All recognized authorities in the field agree," the mayor said, "that if you have the available space for sanitary landfill within reasonable trucking distance, then the cost, health, and public acceptance factors weigh against incineration."

"We have available space in the swampland area of Kingston Point," the mayor stated, "and at present this land produces nothing but mosquitoes, rats, and bad odors."

Can Become Useful
"Under sanitary land fill," he explained, "it can be turned into useful, attractive terrain. It can provide a stable shoreline for a beautiful waterfront lagoon with a marina and boat livery."

"In helping to restore Kingston Point to what it was in the past," the mayor said, "sanitary fill can meet the city's dire need for an economical method of refuse disposal."

Establishing a sanitary land fill project at Kingston Point will require no more investment of public funds than already is provided by the 1964 budget plus the small budgetary note approved for fencing by the Common Council at its July 7th meeting.

Would Cost Million
"The building of an incinerator, on the other hand, would require a capital investment of almost one million dollars," the mayor pointed out.

"Furthermore," he continued, "the annual operating cost of an incinerator would be more than three times the annual cost of conducting a sanitary land fill project at Kingston Point."

"Nor would an incinerator solve the entire problem of refuse disposal," he explained, "for 20 per cent of the material burned in an incinerator remains as a residue which must itself be buried."

Pass Defense Bill
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress passed and sent to President Johnson Tuesday a compromise defense appropriations bill of $46,752,051,000 — about $1.5 billion less than last year.

The bill provides $718.9 million less than President Johnson requested. The final figure is $22 million less than the Senate approved originally and about $7 million under the original House figure.

Bogs abound in sphagnum moss, cotton grass, black spruce and Labrador tea. The bogs of Cape Cod support cranberries, those of New Jersey, blueberries.

"In addition," he noted, "the fumes and ash produced by even the most modern incineration equipment presents more of a health hazard and serious nuisance than any possible effect of a sanitary land fill project."

"I submit that those opponents of sanitary landfill in the Fifth Ward who call for an incinerator would have far more discomfort, and would face a more probable threat of property devaluation than they shall from a land reclamation project which will turn their swamp into a beautiful park within 10 years," the mayor said.

"And I hope," he concluded, "that they will come forth to support that unfortunate mayor of 10 years hence who will be faced with making a decision as to where to locate a city incinerator."

For Amendment As Proposed on President, VP
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee has approved a proposed constitutional amendment to deal with presidential disability and a vacancy in the vice presidency.

Under the amendment, the office of vice president would be filled by nomination of a president and confirmation by a majority of both houses of Congress.

The amendment was developed by a judiciary subcommittee headed by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind.

The amendment states that the vice president "shall become president" in case of the death, resignation or removal of a president from office.

The amendment must be approved by two-thirds of the House and Senate, and three-fourths of the 50 states with seven years. Action appears unlikely at the current session of Congress.

The vice president would become "acting president" if the president declares in writing he is unable to discharge his duties, or if he, with support of a majority of the Cabinet, informs Congress that the president is unable to serve.

Upon recovery the president would resume office by informing Congress in writing.

Nearly 87 per cent of all milk beverages are consumed at home, with 8 per cent at schools and less than 2 per cent in commercial establishments.

Editorial Says Red China Not Waiting for Long

HONG KONG (AP) — The Chinese Communist New Evening Post warned the United States today that Red China "will not wait until the flames of war come too close" before retaliating against what it called provocative U.S. attacks in the Tonkin Gulf area.

"This is a very serious crisis and we cannot predict what may happen," the Hong Kong paper said, "but the United States will have to bear all the consequences."

The paper did not specify what form of retaliatory action Red China would take.

The editorial was the first Chinese Communist reaction to President Johnson's announcement that U.S. air strikes were under way against Communist supply facilities in North Viet Nam.

There was no direct comment from Peking. But the New Evening Post is owned and operated by Chinese Communist officials and normally follows the Peking line rigidly.

"North Viet Nam and China are as close together as lips and teeth," the paper said. "North Viet Nam has already warned the United States that it will take defensive action. China has also warned the United States it is not going to sit idly by and watch its fraternal partner, North Viet Nam, invaded."

Expect 9th Child
WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. and Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy are expecting their ninth child in December, according to a friend of the family.

The Kennedys now have five boys and three girls. The youngest, Christopher George Kennedy, was born July 4, 1963. Kennedy is 38 and his wife, the former Ethel Skakel of Greenwich, Conn., is 36. They were married in 1950.

Miller Goes Home
M. Clifford Miller, assistant superintendent of schools in the Kingston Consolidated District, has been discharged from Kingston Hospital and returned to his home in Elmendorf Tract, Hurley. He was a patient at the hospital several days following an attack suffered at his home.

Frolic Ends In Tragedy At Funhouse

WILDWOOD, N. J. (AP) — A ride through a funhouse tunnel began as a frolic and ended in fiery death for three Pennsylvania children, who were identified tentatively early today.

Police said the children, burned beyond recognition Tuesday evening, were believed to be Gregory Thompson, 10, his brother Michael, 8, and their cousin, Melody Dye, 8, all of Levittown, Pa.

They were here with the vacationing parents of the boys, Mr. and Mrs. David Thompson of Levittown, police said. Melody's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dye.

The small, fire-charred bodies were found in the ruins of the Mars Ride tunnel after fire swept through a large section of an amusement arcade at this Atlantic Ocean resort's boardwalk.

In the one hour it took for firemen to bring the general alarm blaze under control, the Mars Ride, a shooting gallery, an indoor miniature golf course and an upstairs dance hall were destroyed.

LBJ to Dedicate Newhouse Center In Orange City

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — President Johnson put a flying trip to Syracuse high on his schedule today for dedication of the first building of a $15-million communications center at Syracuse University.

The chief executive and his wife, Lady Bird, faced a warm welcome from crowds expected to total upwards of 20,000 persons.

To Remain 2½ Hours
The agenda called for the presidential party to remain here about 2½ hours before flying back to Washington.

The last time Syracuseans had a glimpse of a president was when Franklin D. Roosevelt campaigned here in 1936. The presidential jet, Air Force One, was to touch down at Hancock Field at 9:05 a.m. E.S.T. The agenda then called for the presidential party to motor the 13 miles to the university and the dedication of the journalism building.

The building is the first of three structures that will comprise the Newhouse Communications Center envisioned by its donor as the "world's largest and most advanced study center in mass communications." The university drafted an honorary degree of doctor of laws for presentation to the President.

Rocky, Others on Hand
Gov. Rockefeller and other state and city officials were on hand to greet Johnson.

Syracuse Police Chief William H.T. Smith ordered all members of his 300-man force on duty for the President's visit.

The entire $15-million cost of the center will be paid by publisher Samuel I. Newhouse, personally, and through the Newhouse foundation.

Newhouse, 68, owns 19 newspapers, plus radio and television stations and magazines in various parts of the country. His holdings include two newspapers and a radio and television station in Syracuse.

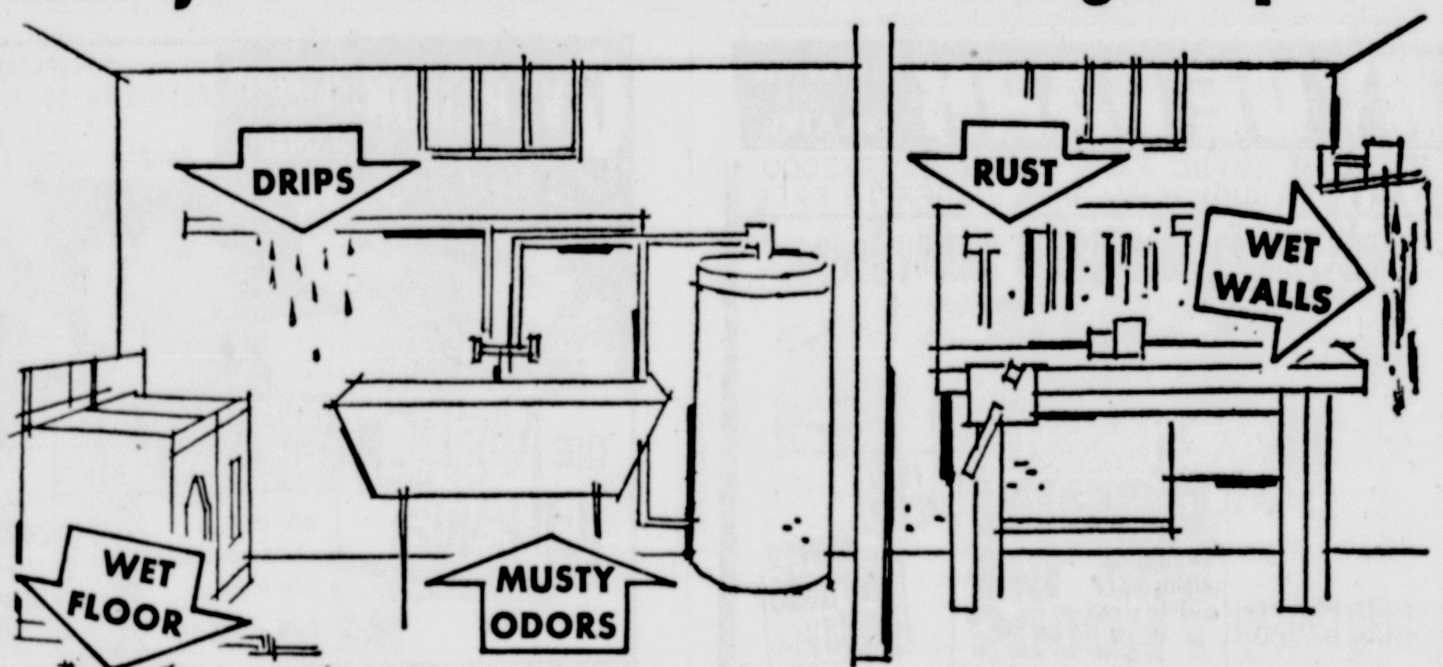

Completion in 1966
Newhouse said the center—scheduled for completion in 1966—will "devote itself to both research and education, especially in new ideas, techniques, and effectiveness of various communications media in informing readers, viewers and listeners."

At a dinner given in his honor last night, Newhouse said it was fitting that the center be located "within a dynamic university with world-embracing interests."

He said he hoped that national and international leaders would come to the center to "shed the light of their experience and judgment on the great issues of the day."

Traffic accidents in 1963 left an estimated 1,600,000 persons disabled, cost the nation more than $7 billion in property damage, medical expenses, wage losses and cost of insurance.

Marking 11th Anniversary

Colonial Gardens Progresses Under Yosman's Management

Colonial Gardens, the city's 98-unit, state-aided development operated by the Kingston Housing Authority, is currently its 11th anniversary.

The project opened officially Aug. 1, 1953.

Mayor John J. Schwenk, in a letter to George Yerry, chairman of the KHA, cited the "superior administration" of the authority and its executive director and manager, Alexander Yosman.

The mayor also commended the effect the project has had on the city's growth and development.

He said it was impressive to note that many of the families that rented apartments in the development have made transitions and have become residential property owners in the city. "Moreover," the mayor said, "it is rewarding to see that for every family making this transition there is another family waiting to become a tenant at Colonial Gardens."

Two Factors Noted

Two important facts were pointed out by Yosman in an interview with The Freeman.

He said that 11 years ago the Veterans Housing Project was closed and families were transferred to Colonial Gardens under the original law requiring that a person had to be a veteran to be admitted. Since then, he said, the law has been changed and it is no longer necessary to be a veteran in order to apply for admittance.

In fact, Yosman said, applications are available at the Flatbush Avenue project office for residents of Kingston who seek to become tenants at the Gardens.

Secondly, he said, progress in the development has proved as false the primary objections to the project raised 11 years ago when it was first announced that the 12th Ward site was to be the scene of a housing development. After being defeated in the Common Council amidst bitter opposition, the project finally passed the council at an estimated cost of $1,300,000.

No Slum Area

Opponents claimed that in a few years from its construction, Colonial Gardens would be "another slum area," and would lower property values in the area.

"A visit to the project will show how wrong these people were after 11 years," Yosman said.

The development manager said that as of July 31, "not one cent of uncollected rents or charges are outstanding, nor has the KHA ever had a vacancy loss or uncollected rent during this 11-year period." He said that the present project population is 380, including 204 children, and that 193 families have moved from the Gardens, of which 98 purchased homes of their own.

Publicity Source

Yosman said that since its inception Colonial Gardens has attracted considerable favorable attention to Kingston and has been the subject of many articles in the New York newspapers and other key publications, which point out what a project can be if properly managed and maintained. He said, "The outstanding reputation has brought officials from many other cities and states to observe the method of operations."

The KHA has established a reserve fund to keep the buildings in constant repair. The fund presently totals $81,598.90 invested in governmental securities and local savings institutions. Approximately $16,875 in interest has been earned on investments since the fund was initiated, Yosman said. He said that $238,775.49 has been paid off on the original loans and that taxes are paid to the city by the Authority on a basis of assessed valuation of the building standing at the time the property was acquired. At the end of the 50-year contract period, the development will be turned over to the city, he said.

Meanwhile, Yosman said, the Authority is planning to open bids for the construction of Wiltwyck Gardens, a 60-unit Senior Citizen development to be located on the former Abramowitz property on Albany Avenue. The development will consist of 30 two and a half room and 30 three and a half room apartments.

No Applications

Applications for Wiltwyck Gardens are not available yet, Yosman said, but the Authority is taking the names of persons who desire to obtain an application when the applications are ready.

In addition, Yosman said, plans are being formulated for a 135-unit development in the Broadway East Urban Renewal area which is to be used as the prime relocation source for the city's UR program.

Other members of the housing authority, which was created in November 1948, include George E. Yerry Jr., who has served as chairman 10 years; Max Mones, vice chairman; John DeGasperis, secretary; Benjamin A. Storms, treasurer; and Robert Slover, assistant secretary.

Serve Without Pay

Frederick Stang serves as authority counsel, Yerry, Mones and DeGasperis have served on the authority since it was organized. All members serve without pay.

Mayor Schwenk's letter to Chairman Yerry, dated Tuesday, said:

Dear George: For the past eleven years the Kingston Housing Authority and its executive director, Alexander Yosman, have succeeded in preserving a record of excellence in operating Colonial Gardens. I would like to express my congratulations on this, your Eleventh Anniversary, for the outstanding results that you have achieved.

The fact that the grounds and buildings of Colonial Gardens have been kept in excellent physical condition, and that not one cent of rent or charges have been lost reflects the exceptional managerial ability of Alexander Yosman. This type of management most certainly deserves tribute.

It is impressive to note that many of the families that rented apartments at Colonial Gardens have made a transition and become residential property owners. Moreover, it is rewarding to see that for every family making this transition there is another family waiting to become a tenant at Colonial Gardens.

It is because of this superior administration that I feel the city, when it takes possession in the future, will have property with far more value than it had initially.

Very truly yours,
JOHN J. SCHWENK
Mayor

Two Hudson Boys Are Charged in Stabbing

Two 15-year-old Hudson boys will be petitioned into Children's Court on charges arising from the alleged stabbing of a homeless man, identified by police as George Balough. The man was admitted at Columbia Memorial Hospital suffering a knife wound of the chest.

Patrolman Louis Conte, who was off-duty, rode a New York Central Railroad switch engine two miles, while another policeman, Joseph Hollenbeck, and Patrolman William Spanburgh trailed the two boys in a prowl car to apprehend them.

STUDY WILTWYCK GARDENS MODEL.—Members of Kingston Housing Authority and Mayor John J. Schwenk study scale model of the proposed Wiltwyck Gardens for senior citizens housing. Construction is planned for a site on Albany Avenue at the head of Tremper Avenue. Bids for the project will be opened on

War-on-Poverty Bill Slated on Floor of House

WASHINGTON (AP)—The $962.5-million war-on-poverty bill bearing the LBJ brand reaches the House floor today, and anxious administration leaders are still checking on their votes.

Three days of debate and amendment have been scheduled for the omnibus bill, which combines attacks on poverty through a youth job corps, community action projects, work-training programs, loans to rural families and many other aspects.

Sees Vote Friday

Speaker John W. McCormack said Tuesday he expects a vote on the measure Friday. The speaker and other Democratic House leaders told President Johnson they have high hopes the bill will win House passage.

Republicans have lined up solidly against the administration bill at every step of the way.

Only last week four GOP members of the House Education and Labor Committee said the bill is "beyond repair or redemption through floor amendments."

measure into line with a $947.5-million bill passed by the Senate.

Senate Changes

They believe the Senate changes answer the strongest criticisms that have been raised by the bill's opponents.

Chief among these Senate changes:

Elimination of a provision for grants of up to $1,500 for low-income rural families. Only loans are provided in the Senate bill.

Elimination of a provision by which the director of the program could buy up rural properties, develop the land into family farm units, and sell these to low-income families.

Giving the governors of states veto power over any job corps camp or center in his state.

Banning direct contributions to private agencies in connection with work-training programs.

The job-corps section of the bill is designed to set up conservation camps and job-training centers, patterned somewhat on the old Civilian Conservation Corps of the 1930s. It provides $190 million for this purpose.

GOP Makes Threatening Gestures

Salinger's Right to Seat In Senate Is Challenged

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pierre Salinger comes back today to the capital where he served years as White House press secretary to try on a new toga as a Democratic senator from California.

Republicans were making some threatening gestures aimed at forcing him to stand aside while the Senate Rules Committee looks into the legality of his appointment by Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown.

But Salinger, scheduled to arrive in a chartered plane with Brown and more than 100 boosters, carried with him a certificate of qualification signed by the governor.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said there would be a last-minute decision whether to challenge the legality of that certificate. The grounds would be that Salinger was not eligible for appointment because he had not been a California elector for one year.

Murphy Protests

Republican George Murphy, who will be Salinger's opponent in a November battle for the seat of the late Democratic Sen.

Clair Engle, protested by telegram that Salinger wasn't qualified for the appointment.

Brown said he had consulted with the state attorney general and "there is absolutely no question that this appointment is proper and valid." California state courts already have upheld Salinger's right to run for the Senate, although he was a resident of Virginia at the time he filed.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said in a separate interview that if the Republicans try to halt the appointee at the door, he will move that he be given the oath "without prejudice" while an investigation is made of any formal complaints that might be lodged.

This would accomplish what the Democrats want and the Republicans don't want. It would make Salinger an incumbent with full senatorial prerogatives in his general-election race with Murphy.

Since Salinger's addition to the roll would restore the 67-33 margin of the Democrats over Republicans, few had any illusions about the outcome of any challenge based on the technical

Another in Service

FORT KNOX, Ky. (AP)—It was "hello" and "goodbye" at the home of M. Sgt. Elmer J. Blackburn.

On the day he retired, after more than 23 years of military service, his son, Elmer Jr., left for basic training at Ft. Jackson, S. C.

GOP Makes Threatening Gestures

Salinger's Right to Seat In Senate Is Challenged

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pierre Salinger comes back today to the capital where he served years as White House press secretary to try on a new toga as a Democratic senator from California.

Republicans were making some threatening gestures aimed at forcing him to stand aside while the Senate Rules Committee looks into the legality of his appointment by Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown.

But Salinger, scheduled to arrive in a chartered plane with Brown and more than 100 boosters, carried with him a certificate of qualification signed by the governor.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said there would be a last-minute decision whether to challenge the legality of that certificate. The grounds would be that Salinger was not eligible for appointment because he had not been a California elector for one year.

Murphy Protests

Republican George Murphy, who will be Salinger's opponent in a November battle for the seat of the late Democratic Sen.

Clair Engle, protested by telegram that Salinger wasn't qualified for the appointment.

Brown said he had consulted with the state attorney general and "there is absolutely no question that this appointment is proper and valid." California state courts already have upheld Salinger's right to run for the Senate, although he was a resident of Virginia at the time he filed.

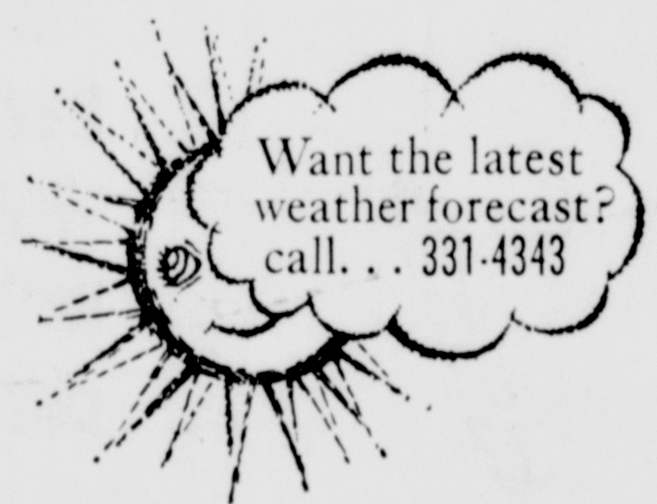

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said in a separate interview that if the Republicans try to halt the appointee at the door, he will move that he be given the oath "without prejudice" while an investigation is made of any formal complaints that might be lodged.

This would accomplish what the Democrats want and the Republicans don't want. It would make Salinger an incumbent with full senatorial prerogatives in his general-election race with Murphy.

Since Salinger's addition to the roll would restore the 67-33 margin of the Democrats over Republicans, few had any illusions about the outcome of any challenge based on the technical

Couple Returns to Visit Kingston After Living 10 Years in Burbank

A twentieth wedding anniversary celebration for a couple who returned to Kingston after more than 10 years was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Emmick of 66 Harding Avenue.

Guests of honor at the open-air supper party were Mr. and Mrs. William H. Errington of Burbank, Calif. The Erringtons have lived on the west coast with their four children for the past ten and a half years.

Mrs. Errington is the former Ruth A. Smith, daughter of Frank W. Smith, now of Burbank and the late Ida Bailey Smith. She and her husband moved to California in 1953. This is their first visit to Kingston since that time.

Brothers, sisters and relatives in the area have been visiting the past few days include Mr. and Mrs. John F. Coffey, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Emmick, Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dulin and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Smith.

Mrs. Errington has another sister, Mrs. George R. Savatky who lives in California with her husband and 12 children and has not been back in Kingston for the past 18 years.

The Erringtons are on a month's vacation. Enroute to Kingston they spent eight days in Ohio where Mr. Errington's father, brother and sisters live. A reunion of over 60 relatives was held for them during their stopover.

Attending the local anniversary party were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dulin and children; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Smith and children; Mr. and Mrs. Harold

Also present were Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hotelling; Miss Carol Bailey; Miss Kathleen Savage; Miss Deborah Harris; Mr. and Mrs. Roland Augustine and children and James Hillebrand of Pasadena, Texas.

We the Women

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"Our daughter is going out of town to college this fall and I'm worried. I'm afraid that if she should get into any kind of difficulty she would be ashamed to call on us for help."

The fear of the mother who wrote those words is shared by many parents who see their children leave home for the first time.

One fear I know of eased that father somewhat by telling each of his children privately when they left home for the first time: "If you are ever in any kind of trouble — tell me right away. I'll keep your confidence, and I'll help you work things out."

"And remember this: there is nothing you could possibly do that would make me love you less. So you don't need to be afraid of shocking or hurting me."

That, it seems to me, is about the most a parent can do to give a child the idea, though he is out in the world on his own, he still has someone to turn to in time of trouble. And he needn't be afraid to take his problem to whichever parent gives him that kind of assurance of understanding.

Knowing that there is always someone he can turn to means real security for the son or daughter who is taking the first steps toward independence.

Lacking the wisdom that comes only from experience, they often get into worse difficulties trying to solve their problem alone.

Let your daughter know that if she ever needs your help you'll be ready, able and willing. With this assurance, she won't ever be afraid to turn to you.

MRS. HENRY M. SCHATZEL

Lydia Ostrander Weds Henry M. Schatzel In Double Ring Ceremony at Poughkeepsie

Marriage vows were exchanged July 26 between Miss Lydia Helen Ostrander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ostrander of Hyde Park and Henry Martin Schatzel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Schatzel of 14 Spruce Street, Kingston.

The Rev. William Reynolds, pastor of St. Joseph's Church in Spring Valley, N. Y., officiated at the double ring ceremony which took place at St. Mary's Church, Poughkeepsie. An organist played on 'This Day, Bread of Angels and Ave Maria.'

Maid of honor was Miss Joan Wheeler of Poughkeepsie. She wore a floor length gown in white satin brocade styled with fitted Empire bodice, scoop neckline and sheer skirt. A royal blue Empire band with bow and streamers decorated the back. Her large circular veil was attached to a queen's crown in royal blue with seed pearls and crystals. She carried a cascade of white gladioli and royal blue bachelor buttons with royal blue streamers.

Bridesmaids included Miss Joan Davis of Poughkeepsie and Mrs. Floyd Hornbeck of Staatsburg, the bride's sisters; Miss Agnes Schatzel of 14 Spruce Street, Kingston, the bridegroom's sister and Miss Carol Williams of Poughkeepsie. Their gowns were in the same style as that of the honor attendant in solid white. Their four tier veils were caught to clusters of royal blue rosettes. They carried cascades of white carnations and royal blue bachelor buttons with royal blue streamers.

Flower girl was Miss Patricia Schatzel, the bridegroom's niece. She wore a floor length white silk organza gown with royal blue bustle bow in back. Her headpiece was a crown of royal blue bachelor buttons. She carried white baskets of bachelor buttons and baby's breath.

Best man for his brother was George Schatzel of Highland. Ushers included Gerald and Vincent Schatzel of Kingston, brothers of the bridegroom; Wayne Federico of Hyde Park, a cousin of the bride and Kenneth Schwartz of Poughkeepsie.

Ringbearer was Robert Van Wageningen of Kingston, a nephew of the bridegroom.

Summer Program Is Underway at Wendy

About 300 Girl Scouts are enrolled for two or more weeks at Camp Wendy, near Wallkill, operated by the Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts, Inc.

Mrs. Mary Graft has returned for her fourth year as camp director. There is a well trained staff of 22 assistants, including Unit Leaders Janet Boos, Jean Koeppel, Nancy Sebourin, Andrea Cedor and the exchange counselor from Sweden, Miss Dagmar Berquist.

There is a well rounded program of crafts, hiking, swimming, boating and outdoor living. The girls live mostly in tents, in groups of six, and learn to work together, play together, and share new experiences with old friends and new. The girls may have their meals in the new dining hall with the other campers or they may choose to do their own cooking in the outdoor kitchen available in each unit.

They have two swimming periods each day, under the watchful eyes of the camp life-guard. There is a caper session each morning for necessary housekeeping, and an activity period each afternoon for learning some new skill. After supper there is a retreat ceremony followed by an evening program, sometimes in individual units, sometimes shared by the entire camp.

Camp Wendy consists of 53 wooded acres plus a 17 acre lake for swimming and boating activities. The camp has been operated by the Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts, Inc. on a non-profit basis since 1931, except during World War II, when it was used as a work camp, by volunteer victory gardeners.

In addition to established camping periods during the summer months the camp has been used for troop camping by hundreds of girls, from Ulster County council and other Girl Scout Councils, and many council-wide activities have been held there.

The Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts is a member agency of the Ulster County Community Chest.

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

He Caught Dawdling Habits

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: My boy, 6, has caught the dawdling habit from his older sister who always has to delay doing things. I have had to take a toy boat away from him because he locks himself in the bathroom with it, fills the tub with water and plays with it instead of taking his before-supper shower. He keeps me waiting in the car because he has to do something at the very last minute.

ANSWER: Isn't your real concern your fear that you have contributed to this dawdling resistance in your children? I wish you could admit it because it might reduce the tension under which you are living and make possible a more relaxed treatment, not just of the children but of yourself.

Almost always the parents of dawdling children are victims of an exhausting, subsurface but driving conviction that everybody but themselves is unreliable. As children they were entitled to this conviction because their parents were unreliable people — promise breakers, parents who did a lot of ordering around like "Get me my glasses . . . see what your brother is doing . . . find me my pocket-book."

Constantly delegated to caretaker responsibilities, they not unnaturally came to the conclusion that nobody could be expected to do any caretaking but themselves. This, I expect, the conclusion that operates in you and expresses itself in the caretaker's supervising "hurry up" attitude to which your two youngsters have responded by dawdling.

Your son is not your unreliable parent. In fact, he is much more reliable and competent than you credit him with being. He resists using water merely to wash himself with because he is familiar with this use of water. By delaying his shower to sail his boat in the tub, he is discovering another function of water — its buoyancy. I can quite understand that the time he spends exploring this discovery inconveniences you but it cannot be called a "waste" of time.

Do you want him to attend to the washing function of water? Then attend to his enterprising interest in its buoyancy function. Stop forcing him to fight for this interest — you may turn him into a lazy, incompetent child. If you are willing to learn how water holds up boats, he will be willing to remember how it can also clean dirty little boys.

MRS. J. JEFFREY SOLOMON

Patricia Ann Moak Exchanges Vows With Syracuse Man at Temple Emanuel

Miss Patricia Ann Moak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Moak of 129 Southfield Street, Kingston exchanged vows of marriage Sunday with J. Jeffrey Solomon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Solomon of Syracuse.

Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom of Temple Emanuel and Rabbi Friedman of the Temple Society of Concord officiated at the 2 p. m. ceremony which took place at Temple Emanuel.

Organist Albert Zabel accompanied Mrs. Bernard Pauker, who sang How Do I Love Thee and I Love Thee. The sanctuary was decorated with a bower of yellow and white chrysanthemums and gladioli with sunbursts of matching flowers. At the altar were yellow and white chrysanthemums, pompons and similar foliage.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a beau de soie gown with bell shaped skirt, with bell sleeves and train of Chantilly lace. A pill-box trimmed in Chantilly lace was attached to a shoulder length veil. She carried an heirloom Bible with a spray of phalaenopsis orchids and stephanotis.

Maid of honor was Miss Laurie Solomon, the bridegroom's sister of Syracuse. She wore a long light blue gown with royal blue trim fashioned with an Empire bodice, short sleeves and scooped neckline. Her headpiece was a bow of matching fabric. She carried a spray of white marguerites and yellow sweetheart roses with garlands of ivy.

Bridesmaids were Miss Carol Spiegel of Kingston; Mrs. Alan Lockwood of West Medford, Mass., and Mrs. Richard Wellmann of Syracuse. Their full length gowns of light blue with royal blue trim were fashioned with Empire bodice, short sleeves and scoop neckline. Their headpieces were bows of matching fabric. They carried bouquets of yellow and white marguerite daisies and ivy garlands.

Best man was the bridegroom's father. Ushers included Paul Solomon of Syracuse, the

Couple Returns to Visit Kingston After Living 10 Years in Burbank

A twentieth wedding anniversary celebration for a couple who returned to Kingston after more than 10 years was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Emmick of 66 Harding Avenue.

Guests of honor at the open-air supper party were Mr. and Mrs. William H. Errington of Burbank, Calif. The Erringtons have lived on the west coast with their four children for the past ten and a half years.

Mrs. Errington is the former Ruth A. Smith, daughter of Frank W. Smith, now of Burbank and the late Ida Bailey Smith. She and her husband moved to California in 1953. This is their first visit to Kingston since that time.

Brothers, sisters and relatives in the area they have been visiting the past few days include Mr. and Mrs. John F. Coffey, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Emmick, Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dulin and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Smith.

Mrs. Errington has another sister, Mrs. George R. Savatky who lives in California with her husband and 12 children and has not been back in Kingston for the past 18 years.

The Erringtons are on a month's vacation. Enroute to Kingston they spent eight days in Ohio where Mr. Errington's father, brother and sisters live. A reunion of over 60 relatives was held for them during their stopover.

Attending the local anniversary party were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dulin and children; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Smith and children; Mr. and Mrs. Harold

Also present were Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hotaling; Miss Carol Bailey; Miss Kathleen Savage; Miss Deborah Harris; Mr. and Mrs. Roland Augustine and children and James Hillebrand of Pasadena, Texas.

We the Women

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"Our daughter is going out of town to college this fall and I'm worried. I'm afraid that if she should get into any kind of difficulty she would be ashamed to call on us for help."

The fear of the mother who wrote those words is shared by many parents who see their children leave home for the first time.

One father I know of eased that fear somewhat by telling each of his children privately when they left home for the first time: "If you are ever in any kind of trouble — tell me right away. I'll keep your confidence, and I'll help you work things out."

"And remember this: there is nothing you could possibly do that would make me love you less. So you don't need to be afraid of shocking or hurting me."

That, it seems to me, is about the most a parent can do to give a child the idea, though he is out in the world on his own, he still has someone to turn to in time of trouble. And he needn't be afraid to take his confidence to whichever parent gives him that kind of assurance of understanding.

Knowing that there is always someone he can turn to means real security for the son or daughter who is taking the first steps toward independence.

The young people who get into serious trouble are the ones who figure they can't tell their parents what they are up against, and must work things out by themselves.

Lacking the wisdom that comes only from experience, they often get into worse difficulties trying to solve their problem alone.

Let your daughter know that if she ever needs your help you'll be ready, able and willing. With this assurance, she won't ever be afraid to turn to you.

MRS. HENRY M. SCHATZEL

Lydia Ostrander Weds Henry M. Schatzel In Double Ring Ceremony at Poughkeepsie

Marriage vows were exchanged July 26 between Miss Lydia Helen Ostrander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ostrander of Hyde Park and Henry Martin Schatzel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Schatzel of 14 Spruce Street, Kingston.

The Rev. William Reynolds, pastor of St. Joseph's Church in Spring Valley, N. Y., officiated at the double ring ceremony which took place at St. Mary's Church, Poughkeepsie. An organist played On This Day, Bread of Angels and Ave Maria.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of pure silk organza fashioned with hand clipped Chantilly lace over silk taffeta, a fitted basque lace bodice and scalloped sabrina neckline trimmed with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. She wore long pointed lace sleeves and a full skirt with lace panel and a back with a fan of Chantilly lace which terminated in a chapel train.

Her butterfly bouffant waist-length veil of English silk illusion was caught to a crown of pearls and crystals with a forehead wreath of frosted orange blossoms. She carried a cascade of white roses and baby's breath with English ivy and detachable nosegay.

Maid of honor was Miss Joan Wheeler of Poughkeepsie. She wore a floor length gown in white satin brocade styled with fitted Empire bodice, scoop neckline and sheath skirt. A royal blue Empire band with bow and streamers decorated the back. Her large circular veil was attached to a queen's crown in royal blue with seed pearls and crystals. She carried a cascade of white gladioli and royal blue bachelor buttons with royal blue streamers.

Bridesmaids included Miss Joan Davis of Poughkeepsie and Mrs. Floyd Hornbeck of Staatsburg, the bride's sisters; Miss Agnes Schatzel of 14 Spruce Street, Kingston, the bridegroom's sister and Miss Carol Williams of Poughkeepsie. Their gowns were in the same style as that of the honor attendant in solid white. Their four tier veils were caught to clusters of royal blue rosettes. They carried cascades of white carnations and royal blue bachelor buttons with royal blue streamers.

Flower girl was Miss Patricia Schatzel, the bridegroom's niece. She wore a floor length white silk organza gown with royal blue bustle bow in back. Her headpiece was a crown of royal blue bachelor buttons. She carried white baskets of bachelor buttons and baby's breath.

Best man for his brother was George Schatzel of Highland. Ushers included Gerald and Vincent Schatzel of Kingston, brothers of the bridegroom; Wayne Federico of Hyde Park, a cousin of the bride and Kenneth Schwartz of Poughkeepsie.

Ringbearer was Robert Van Wagenen of Kingston, a nephew of the bridegroom.

A reception for 150 guests was held at Vel Ann's in Hyde Park after the ceremony. Music was furnished by the Music Makers.

For her wedding journey to Virginia Beach, the bride chose a celara knit acetate two-piece suit of mauve and white fabric and a picture hat of white organza with white accessories as her traveling ensemble.

The bride is an alumna of Roosevelt High School, Class of 1962 and Colona Beauty Culture Academy in Albany. She is currently manager of Mr. Lewis Hairstylist in Hyde Park.

The bridegroom is an alumnus of Kingston High School and is employed at Yallum's Department Store in Kingston.

The couple plans to reside at Cedar Garden Apartments in Hyde Park.

Summer Theatres

Woodstock Offers British Production

BY DOROTHY A. NAREL
Freeman Society Editor

Subtle British humor coupled with some drama is this week's offering at the Woodstock Playhouse. Opening last night was Peter Shaffer's "The Private Ear" and "The Public Eye," two one act plays.

The performers are George Gitto, Earl Miller, Gaye Glaeser and Philip Baker Hall.

In "The Private Ear," Earl Miller is cast as a Bach-Bethoven loving stereo fan who cannot quite bridge the gap between his yearning for love and his own awkwardness toward the opposite sex. His suave friend Ted, played by George Gitto has little difficulty in this area and in fact captures the fancy of the girl in question. Taking the female lead is Gaye Glaeser.

Gitto commands the stage at all times with his well rounded performance. He, in fact, keeps the play moving. Miss Glaeser, who has had some very fine parts in past Woodstock performances, handles what material the author gives her with professional ease. Miller also does a creditable job.

The play may very well have reaped critical acclaim but Shaffer's writing falls short of really top entertainment in my opinion. The author tries, on one hand, to unveil inner emotions of people, and on the other, to pass judgement on the world's status. Shaffer's writing leaves a better impression with his second act play, "The Public Eye." This is British humor at its best. Philip Hall as a private detective is particularly entertaining. Action slows down in certain spots but the overall plot is very amusing.

Coming next week will be Ira Wallach's new comedy set for an opening at the Ambassador Theatre on Broadway, September 21. It is "The Absence of a Cello."

Folk Music
Another outstanding folk music artist will appear Monday, Aug. 8 at 8:30 in the Woodstock Playhouse.

Jack Elliott, recording artist, who specializes in blues and folk music, will make his second appearance in Woodstock. He had a highly successful concert in Woodstock three seasons ago. Mr. Elliott has recorded for Columbia and Vanguard Records and has appeared at all the major festivals and night spots across the country.

The concert is for 8:30. Tickets are available at the box office of the Woodstock Playhouse.

Says Pedestrian Lunged at Car

John Frazier, 38, of 20 Hasbrouck Avenue, suffered bruises of the left side and possible other injuries, in a car-pedestrian mishap on West Strand Tuesday afternoon.

A police report at 4:21 p. m. said he was taken to Kingston Hospital by Fatur ambulance and was to remain overnight for a checkup.

Police said the car was driven by Richard C. Banks, 49, of Box 92, Creek Locks, who claimed that Frazier had stepped off the curb near 15 West Strand, and it appeared as though he had thrown himself at the car and put his hands on the right front fender.

Officers John Crespino and Anthony Turck investigated.

Deaths

WEST LONG BEACH, N.J. (AP)—Mrs. Kathryn G. Messner, president and editor-in-chief of the New York publishing firm of Julian Messner Inc. died Tuesday at the age of 61.

GIFTS NOT TO HER LIKING

Q: I have two daughters, ages 3 and 4. On special occasions they receive presents from a few friends and relatives. Two of the persons from whom they receive gifts almost always give them dresses. These dresses are either too fancy or too old and not at all to my liking and I rarely put them on the girls. I am very fussy about my children's clothes and like to select them myself. Will you please tell me how I can graciously, without hurting their feelings, let them know how I feel?

A: You can't possibly tell them that you don't like their choice of dresses or that you would rather select your daughters' clothes yourself. The only thing you can do is, when you are talking to them sometime, casually mention that Mary and Sue have more dresses than they can possibly wear and hope that they will take the hint and buy something else.

In Return for His Roses

Q: A man whom I date occasionally sent me a dozen very beautiful roses on my birthday. He has a birthday coming up soon and I would like to know if it would be proper to send him a present in return? A: There is no obligation to send him a present in return for his roses, but if you would like to give a little something on his birthday it would be quite all right to do so.

Correcting Undisciplined Children

Q: If a child is very rude and unpleasant and the parents do nothing to check him, does a hostess have the right to say something to the child for the sake of her other guests who are annoyed? A: This is very difficult to do without running the risk of offending the parents. But if they sit back and do nothing to correct the bad behavior of their child, they leave a hostess no other course than to take the child in hand herself for the sake of her other guests.

Fair Street Troops Earn Camper Badges

Twenty-one Junior Girl Scouts of Troop 165, sponsored by the Fair Street Reformed Church, have successfully completed the requirements for their Troop Camper Badge.

The girls planned and carried out a two night camping trip to Camp Wendy this summer. They decided what equipment, clothing and food they would need for the trip and helped to gather and pack it.

On Friday evening they arrived at Camp Wendy and settled in at Pioneer Campsite. The girls held a song session around the campfire before retiring for the night. Saturday activities included a nature hike in the morning and swimming in the afternoon. In the evening they had a joint campfire with Troop 79, of West Hurley, Mrs. David Fox, leader. Troop 165 led the group in singing. Troop 79 acted out three skits.

Sunday a patrol planned and carried out a "Scout's Own." A non-sectarian religious service, the program was held on the shores of the lake. The girls were led in a ceremony of prayer, songs and selected inspirational readings, followed by a period of quiet meditation. Sunday afternoon the girls had a final swim before breaking camp.

During the trip all the girls participated in the building of cook fires, preparation and cooking of their meals, cleaning and gathering of firewood. Mrs. Louise Pomeroy, leader, was assisted by Mrs. Herbert Kaufman, and Senior Scouts Mary Lou Josefski and Pamela Schomer. Junior Troop 165 is a member of the Kingston Uptown Neighborhood of the Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts Inc.

Kingston Youth Will Enter National Rocketry Contest

A 15-year-old junior at Kingston High School has been invited to compete at the Sixth Annual Meet of the National Association of Rocketry in Wallops Island, Va., toward the end of this month.

He is entering one event in the competition as part of a unique flying team, composed of himself and a pen-pal fellow hobbyist from Pasadena, Calif. The boy is Jonathan F. Lown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Lown of 72 Orchard Street.

Jonathan and his friend, John K. Pollock of South Pasadena will enter the contest as a team in the aero-space systems event, using a jointly-constructed scale model of the U. S. Air Force Titan II missile.

Fiberboard Models
Their models are constructed from fiberboard tubing, balsa and plastic and are powered by commercially available engines which contain a special propellant that burns for several seconds, producing an average of three pounds of thrust.

The aero-space systems slot is generally considered the most difficult of the nine events to be flown at the meet. It involves building an exact model of an Air Force missile to carry a one-ounce payload and flying it on 15 minutes notice against a ground target several hundred feet away.

Points are accumulated on a set formula involving all factors of the entry, including scale, altitudes achieved and accuracy.

At National Base
The site of the contest will be the National Aeronautics and Space Administration Installation at Wallops Island on the eastern shore of Virginia.

Invitations are sent out to the top 50 rocketeers in the National Association of Rocketry who applied for entry to this contest. Previous contests were held in Colorado for the first four years of the NAR's meet's existence.

It was at last year's event at Hanscom Field, Bedford, Mass.

Drowns in Barge Canal

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—A 52-year-old resident of the Monroe County home and infirmity drowned Tuesday night in the Barge Canal at the city's southern edge.

Police recovered the body of William Mosso in 18-feet of water. They said Mosso attempted to swim the 100-foot wide canal.

Copter Trip To Be First For Pontiff

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI will fly to Orvieto on Aug. 11 by helicopter, the Vatican announced today. It will be the first time a Pope has ever flown in a helicopter.

The 75-mile flight to the Umbrian Hill town will be the second aerial first for Pope Paul. His pilgrimage to the Holy Land last January was the first flight ever made by a Roman Catholic pontiff.

Pope Paul is going to Orvieto to commemorate the 700th anniversary of the institution of the Feast of Corpus Christi by a papal bull issued by Pope Urban IV.

The Pope announced today that the first encyclical of his 13-month-old reign will be published next week under the Latin title "Ecclesiam Suam"—His Church. The Pope made the announcement during his weekly general audience at the papal summer palace at Castel Gandolfo, south of Rome.

The encyclical, a circular letter to all bishops of the Roman Catholic Church, takes its name from the first words of its Latin text. A Pope's first encyclical usually outlines the program for his reign.

Woodstock Offers British Production

BY DOROTHY A. NAREL
Freeman Society Editor

Subtle British humor coupled with some drama is this week's offering at the Woodstock Playhouse. Opening last night was Peter Shaffer's "The Private Ear" and "The Public Eye," two one act plays.

The performers are George Gatto, Earl Miller, Gaye Glaeser and Philip Baker Hall.

In "The Private Ear," Earl Miller is cast as a Bach-Beethoven loving stereo fan who cannot quite bridge the gap between his yearning for love and his own awkwardness toward the opposite sex. His suave friend Ted, played by George Gatto has little difficulty in this area and in fact captures the fancy of the girl in question. Taking the female lead is Gaye Glaeser.

Gatto commands the stage at all times with his well rounded performance. He, in fact, keeps the play moving. Miss Glaeser, who has had some very fine parts in past Woodstock performances, handles what material the author gives her with professional ease. Miller also does a creditable job.

The play may very well have repeated critical acclaim but Shaffer's writing falls short of really top entertainment in my opinion. The author tries, on one hand, to unveil inner emotions of people, and on the other, to pass judgement on the world's status.

Shaffer's writing leaves a better impression with his second act play, "The Public Eye." This is British humor at its best. Philip Hall as a private detective is particularly entertaining. Action slows down in certain spots but the overall plot is very amusing.

Coming next week will be Ira Wallace's new comedy set for an opening at the Ambassador Theatre on Broadway, September 21. It is "The Absence of a Cello."

Folk Music

Another outstanding folk music artist will appear Monday, Aug. 8 at 8:30 in the Woodstock Playhouse.

Jack Elliot, recording artist, who specializes in blues and folk music, will make his second appearance in Woodstock. He had a highly successful concert in Woodstock three seasons ago. Mr. Elliot has recorded for Columbia and Vanguard Records and has appeared at all the major festivals and night spots across the country.

The concert is for 8:30. Tickets are available at the box office of the Woodstock Playhouse.

Says Pedestrian Lunged at Car

John Frazier, 38, of 20 Hasbrouck Avenue, suffered bruises of the left side and possible other injuries, in a car-pedestrian mishap on West Strand Tuesday afternoon.

World News In Brief

Cuts Food Prices

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—President Arturo Illia's government has put price ceilings on 12 basic foods in a move to halt the sharp rise in living costs.

The decrees set wholesale and retail ceilings on the price of cheese, flour, spaghetti, butter, milk and other staples. Anyone exceeding the set price will face fines of up to $3,500.

Merchants expressed fear the edict would result in shortages and a black market.

Pole Tourists Complain

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Angry Polish tourists have learned that money talks louder at the Communist Riviera on Bulgaria's Black Sea coast when it is hard Western currency.

Orbis, the Polish tourist agency, reported in a statement today that its Bulgarian counterpart, Balkan Tourist, "has for the first time in many years let us down." It charged that more than 200 Poles who paid for first-class accommodations were given "third-class or worse."

Bulgaria's "Golden Sands" coast for years has been the preferred playground of East European vacationers. Recently, seeking hard currency, Bulgaria has been advertising vigorously in the West, and West Europeans are flocking there.

Gate Gets His Goat

ROVIGO, Italy (AP)—Farmer Martino Ferrari looked out of the tavern window and discovered to his dismay that he had hanged his own goat.

Ferrari bought the goat Tuesday. He was leading it home with a rope around its neck when he came to a railway grade crossing with the bar down. He tied the rope around the bar and went into a nearby tavern to wait for the train to pass.

Next time he looked out the window, the train had passed, the bar had lifted, and the goat was hanged.

Reds Take Twinbill For Hutch

By HAL BOCK

The Cincinnati Reds planned a perfect homecoming for Fred Hutchinson and they weren't about to let the weather or the Milwaukee Braves get in their way.

It looked for awhile like the Reds wouldn't be able to play one game Tuesday night but before the evening was over they had beaten the Braves twice 5-2 and 4-2.

Hutchinson, who had been hospitalized for a week, returned to the club but left the bench midway through the first game, which was delayed three times by rain. He watched the remainder of the two-night double.

In other National League action, San Francisco struggled 14 innings before edging New York 4-3, Chicago blanked St. Louis 4-0 and Los Angeles swept a two-night doubleheader from Pittsburgh 5-1 and 10-7.

The Reds' double victory moved Cincinnati within 3½ games of National League-leading Philadelphia and only two games back of the second place Giants.

Jim O'Toole went the route in the nightcap, winning his 12th in 16 decisions. Bob Purkey (5-6) won the opener with ninth inning help from Sammy Ellis.

Hutchinson, fighting a chest cancer, was hospitalized for tests last Monday. The 44-year-old manager spent most of his time in bed but told reporters he had watched some of the Reds' games on television during his hospital stay. He couldn't have enjoyed any of them as much as the double welcome home gift his club presented him with Tuesday.

Paul Davenport's 14th inning hit-and-run single scored Jose Pagan from first and ended another Giants-Mets marathon.

San Francisco had taken a 3-1 lead in the 11th on Orlando Cepeda's two-run single but Jim Hickman tied it again for the Mets with a pinch single in the bottom of the inning.

The last time the Giants and Mets played in New York, they went 23 innings and nearly 7½ hours before San Francisco won.

Former Cardinal Lew Burdette pitched his first shutout in more than a year as the Cubs blanked St. Louis. Billy Williams clouted his 25th homer for Chicago and Burdette won his eighth game, seven of them coming after he was traded to the Cubs in May.

Sandy Koufax became the first pitcher to win 16 games but needed ninth inning help from Bob Miller to wrap up the first game victory against the Pirates. Koufax allowed six hits, struck out six and walked five before leaving with the bases loaded in the ninth. Miller got Bob Bailey to line into a double play ending the game.

Willie Davis stole three bases and scored each time to help the Dodgers complete the sweep. Derrell Griffith clubbed a three-run homer in the nightcap and Tommy Davis hit safely in both games running his consecutive game streak to 16.

See Dark Finished As Giant Manager

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Al Dark, whose San Francisco Giants are locked in a battle with the Philadelphia Phillies for the National League pennant, will not be back as manager next year, The Associated Press was told today by a club official.

Dark's dismissal may be imminent. According to the source, it would not be too great a surprise if Dark were fired before the end of the season — perhaps even before the end of the month.

Dark has been managing the Giants since 1961. He led the club to a pennant after a playoff with the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1962 but the Giants lost the World Series in seven games to the New York Yankees. The Giants finished third last year.

The Giants currently are in second place, 1½ games behind the Phillies. The Giants picked up one-half game on the idling Phillies Tuesday night with a 4-3 triumph over the New York Mets in 14 innings.

Reported statements of prejudicial nature by Dark against Negro players — charges which he has denied — have nothing to do with Dark's untenable position, according to the source.

Dark, at a hastily called press conference Tuesday night, did what a Giant spokesman said was a "thorough and honest job of scotching these malicious accusations."

Strained relations have existed between Dark and club owner Horace Stoneham since the start of the season. A sentimental man, proud of his close relationship with his employees, Stoneham reportedly was hurt last spring by Dark's failure to inform him of a managerial offer made to him by the Houston club for 1965.

Breach Has Widened

The breach has widened in recent weeks to a point where Stoneham reportedly has decided a change in managers was necessary.

Informed of The AP's story, Dark obviously was shaken. At first he refused comment, but then said:

"I signed a two-year contract in September of 1962 and haven't discussed my future with the club since. As a matter of fact, that's against club policy."

Dark's latest difficulty stems from an article written by columnist Stan Isaacs of Newsday, a Long Island daily, which quotes him as saying Negro players are physically superior but mentally inferior to white players.

Dark, at the press conference held prior to Tuesday night's game, denied this as well as other statements attributed to him by Isaacs, who also quoted Dark as having said:

"We (the Giants) have trouble because we have so many Negro and Spanish speaking players on this team. They are just harness tracks."

Saratoga Raceway — Gold Cloud ($3.90) came on in the stretch to take the $2,520 Gunderland Pace by a length in 2:05-2-5. Timely Queen placed and Lansing Hanover was third.

Vernon Downs—Summit (53-50) led all the way and beat Canadian Intrusion by a nose in the $2,000 Early Closing Trot. The winning time was 2:01-4-5. Butchie B was third.

Ratavia Downs—Governor (137-30) won the $900 claiming race with a 2:05-4-5 mile over Might Be C. and Rosa Bonheur.

Top Teams All Lose AL Games

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

Doesn't anyone here want that pennant?

That was the big question in the American League today after the three top contenders played a kick-the-game-away Tuesday night.

Here's the way it went: The first-place New York Yankees held a 1-0 lead on Mickey Mantle's homer and were cruising behind ace left-hander Whitey Ford when sure-fingered Tony Kubek suddenly committed two errors in two innings and helped Kansas City to a 5-1 victory.

The second-place Baltimore Orioles were locked in a scoreless battle with Los Angeles until the fourth inning when Norm Siebern dropped a two-out foul pop and the Angels rushed across five runs and went on to a 5-0 triumph.

The third-place Chicago White Sox were leading Detroit 1-0 and left-hander Gary Peters had allowed only a bunt single through seven innings when he came apart, was slammed for four runs and a 4-3 defeat by the Tigers.

Yanks Stay Ahead

Elsewhere, Harmon Killebrew stroked three singles and his 37th homer, leading a five-homer barrage that carried Minnesota to a 12-4 whalloping of Boston and Steve Ridzik preserved Washington's 4-2 victory over Cleveland with 7-13 innings of two-hit relief pitching.

Ford, who had missed two turns on the mound because of a hip injury, got himself into a jam in the sixth when he issued walks to Ed Charles and Jim Gentile. Kubek helped him stay in it.

When Doc Edwards doubled, scoring Charles, Kubek let Tom Tresh's throw from the outfield get by him and Gentile also scored, bringing in the lead run. In the seventh, Kubek let Wayne Causey get to second base by throwing wild on his grounder and Charles doubled Causey home.

Ford, losing his fourth against 12 victories, pitched a strong game but his control was off. He gave up only four hits, but walked six.

Dave Vineyard started for the Orioles and ran into difficulty in the fourth when the Angels loaded the bases with two out on two walks and a double by Willie Smith. Pitcher Don Lee then lofted a foul pop that Siebern dropped.

Lee immediately dropped a single into left, scoring two runs. Bob Perry doubled home another, and after Dick Hall replaced Vineyard, Jim Fregosi wrapped it up with a two-run single.

Wood Starts Rally

Peters, 12-6, had allowed only Jerry Lumpe's safe bunt in the third inning when Jake Wood opened the eighth for the Tigers with a single.

Singles by Lumpe and George Thomas brought in one run before Don Demeter crashed a three-run homer that cracked the White Sox' five-game winning streak.

Killebrew's three-run homer broke open a tight game in the seventh with the Twins leading by only 5-4. Killebrew drove in four runs for a total of 85, one shy of Boston's league-leading Dick Stuart.

Tony Oliva, Bob Allison, Rich Rollins and Earl Battey also homered in support of Jim Grant, 9-7, Bill Monbouquette, 7-9, lost it.

Ridzik's sharp relief work — he allowed only singles by Chico Salmon in the fourth and the ninth — got the job done for the Senators after they scored four runs in the second on six singles.

The Cincinnati Reds planned a perfect homecoming for Fred Hutchinson and they weren't about to let the weather or the Milwaukee Braves get in their way.

It looked for awhile like the Reds wouldn't be able to play one game Tuesday night but before the evening was over they had beaten the Braves twice 5-2 and 4-2.

Hutchinson, who had been hospitalized for a week, returned to the club but left the bench midway through the first game, which was delayed three times by rain. He watched the remainder of the two-night doubleheader from Reds' President Bill DeWitt's box.

The Reds couldn't have put on a better show if they had rehearsed it. The first game was delayed 43 minutes right at the start but when the Reds finally came to bat, Deron Johnson closed a three-run homer for a quick 3-0 Cincinnati lead.

In between rain delays, the Braves had trimmed Cincinnati's lead to 3-2, but Leo Cardenas' two-run triple in the seventh clinched it.

John Edwards' run-producing single broke a 2-2 tie in the seventh inning of the nightcap helping the Reds wrap up the sweep.

In other National League action, San Francisco struggled 14 innings before edging New York 4-3, Chicago blanked St. Louis 4-0 and Los Angeles swept a two-night doubleheader from Pittsburgh 5-1 and 10-7.

See Dark Finished As Giant Manager

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Al Dark, 43, Chicago blanked St. Louis 4-0 and Los Angeles swept a two-night doubleheader from Pittsburgh 5-1 and 10-7.

The Reds' double victory moved Cincinnati within 3½ games of National League-leading Philadelphia and only two games back of the second place Giants.

Jim O'Toole went the route in the nightcap, winning his 12th in 16 decisions. Bob Purkey (5-6) won the opener with ninth inning help from Sammy Ellis.

Hutchinson, fighting a chest cancer, was hospitalized for tests last Monday. The 44-year-old manager spent most of his time in bed but told reporters he had watched some of the Reds' games on television during his hospital stay. He couldn't have enjoyed any of them as much as the double welcome home gift his club presented him with Tuesday.

Jim Davenport's 14th inning hit-and-run single scored Jose Pagan from first and ended another Giants-Mets marathon. San Francisco had taken a 3-1 lead in the 11th on Orlando Cepeda's two-run single but Jim Hickman tied it again for the bottom of the inning.

The last time the Giants and Mets played in New York, they went 23 innings and nearly 7½ hours before San Francisco won.

Former Cardinal Lew Burdette pitched his first shutout in more than a year as the Cubs blanked St. Louis. Billy Williams clouted his 25th homer for Chicago and Burdette won his eighth game, seven of them coming after he was traded to the Cubs in May.

16th for Koufax

Sandy Koufax became the first pitcher to win 16 games but needed ninth inning help from Bob Miller to wrap up the first game victory against the Pirates.

Koufax allowed six hits, struck out six and walked five before leaving with the bases loaded in the ninth. Miller got Bob Bailey to line into a double play ending the game.

Willie Davis stole three bases and scored each time to help the Dodgers complete the sweep. Derrell Griffith clubbed a three-run homer in the nightcap and Tommy Davis hit safely in both games running his consecutive game streak to 16.

Top Teams All Lose AL Games

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Doesn't anyone here want that pennant?

That was the big question in the American League today after the three top contenders played a kick-the-game-away Tuesday night.

Here's the way it went:

The first-place New York Yankees held a 1-0 lead on Mickey Mantle's homer and were cruising behind ace left-hander Whitey Ford when sure-fingered Tony Kubek suddenly committed two errors in two innings and helped Kansas City to a 5-1 victory.

The second-place Baltimore Orioles were locked in a scoreless battle with Los Angeles until the fourth inning when Norm Siebern dropped a two-out foul pop and the Angels rushed across five runs and went on to a 5-0 triumph.

The third-place Chicago White Sox were leading Detroit 1-0 and left-hander Gary Peters had allowed only a bunt single through seven innings when he came apart, was slammed for four runs and a 4-3 defeat by the Tigers.

Yanks Stay Ahead

Elsewhere, Harmon Killebrew stroked three singles and his 37th homer, leading a five-homer barrage that carried Minnesota to a 12-4 walloping of Boston and Steve Ridzik preserved Washington's 4-2 victory over Cleveland with 7 1/3 innings of two-hit relief pitching.

Ford, who had missed two turns on the mound because of a hip injury, got himself into a jam in the sixth when he issued walks to Ed Charles and Jim Gentile. Kubek helped him stay in it.

When Doc Edwards doubled, scoring Charles, Kubek let Tom Tresh's throw from the outfield get by him and Gentile also scored, bringing in the lead run.

In the seventh, Kubek let Wayne Causey get to second base by throwing wild on his grounder and Charles doubled Causey home.

Ford, losing his fourth against 12 victories, pitched a strong game but his control was off. He gave up only four hits, but walked six.

Dave Vineyard started for the Orioles and ran into difficulty in the fourth when the Angels loaded the bases with two out on two walks and a double by Willie Smith. Pitcher Don Lee then fished a foul pop that Siebern dropped.

Lee immediately dropped a single into left, scoring two runs. Bob Perry doubled home another, and after Dick Hall replaced Vineyard, Jim Fregosi wrapped it up with a two-run single.

Wood Starts Rally

Peters, 12-6, had allowed only Jerry Lumpe's safe hit in the third inning when Jake Wood opened the eighth for the Tigers with a single.

Singles by Lumpe and George Thomas brought in one run before Don Demeter crashed a three-run homer that cracked the White Sox' five-game winning streak.

Killebrew's three-run homer broke open a tight game in the seventh with the Twins leading by only 5-4. Killebrew drove in four runs for a total of 85, one shy of Boston's league-leading Dick Stuart.

Tony Oliva, Bob Allison, Rich Rollins and Earl Battey also homered in support of Jim Grant, 9-7. Bill Monbouquette, 7-9, lost it.

Ridzik's sharp relief work — he allowed only singles by Chico Salmon in the fourth and the ninth — got the job done for the Senators after they scored four runs in the second on six singles.

LOOK INTO FUTURE?—This scene marks the opening of a new era in golf. The day worker no longer has to limit his game to weekends—he can play at night. Powerful lights, positioned so they are behind the golfer in normal play to avoid glare, light up the fairways of the Colonial Country Club, Lynnfield, Mass. Lighting is so effective that the club was able to hold the first night-time professional tournament.

Ed Palladino's MR Selections

BEST BET — Maneuver (6th).

UPSET CHANCE — Potomac Chuck (7th).

1. NORMA DIAMOND lays over this field if it doesn't jump. SENATOR'S SPLENDOR has the pole. FREDRIKA BYRD in the hands of a sizzling driver.

2. RAPID'S SON is interferred with in last. Has loads of potential and might do it here. SPECTER has some class, but, oh, that driver, FRENCH ALGIERS in a spot to win in the stretch.

3. UNTOUCHABLE PICK seems initial lifetime win. GOOD TIME LASS in Houghton stale and is sharp. WHAT NEXT doesn't show much.

4. AVON ANNIE can take this one with breaks. ROD OAKIE won Sire Stakes at Buffalo and Batavia. Is the one to beat. SANDY ACCLAIM hasn't raced to last year's potential.

5. FANCY GEORGIE is razor sharp. Appears to have a slim edge over this outstanding field of two-year olds. FREIGHT COMET could take all. MONTEREY can also reverse.

6. MANEUVER won last in a driving finish. Looms as the best bet against almost the same field. TINY D. will be tougher with an inside post. MIGHTY M. stayed close the last time but didn't have it at the finish.

7. CHRISTOPHER J. broke as heavy favorite. Might make amends. POTOMAC CHUCK in a perfect spot to post first win of the year. A good longshot bet. HARDY'S BRIDGET learned how to make the turns. Can cop another.

8. FORESIGHT can stay close and then pour it on at the finish. AGILE HANOVER hasn't won in two years. QUICK KNIGHT scored the last time out, but the race went in a slow 2:10.4.

9. PRINCESS BLANCHE and Firetti a good team. CHOCKY-OTTE LEE is the competition. MOON HAVEN broke and still finished fifth. Must be given a chance.

K.P.A., Knights Win Babe Ruth Contests

Good pitching was the keynote in last night's Kingston Babe Ruth league contests as K.P.A. whitewashed Hurley, 3-0, and the Knights of Columbus beat the Masons, 5-3.

Jeff Lisman hurled a two-hitter for the K.P.A. walking six and fanning two. His mates had only five hits but used them to good advantage.

Mike Derrenbacher doubled and Joe Manello hit a triple for the winners. Charles Moore was the loser.

Charlie James and Gerry Corrado combined on a three-hitter for the K of C. The winners also had three hits but they came from behind with a four-run surge in the fifth.

Mike Gorman and Charles Howell hit doubles.

State Legion Title Game This Saturday

Undated American Legion BB By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Huttner Pasqualini Post 1367, Staten Island, and Adam Plewacki Post 799, Buffalo, will tangle for the state American Legion baseball championship Saturday at Abner Doubleday Field, Cooperstown.

The Staten Island post defeated Blanchard Post 1040, Delmar, 9-3, Tuesday in Poughkeepsie to win the eastern division of the tournament.

And in Geneva, the Buffalo post copped the western title by beating Cortland City Post, 7-2. Larry Moraldi tripled and singled to lead Staten Island to victory Tuesday. Jack Hurley struck out 15 Delmar batters to gain the win.

In the Buffalo-Cortland game, Buffalo's Dan Tamulski and Paul Mankowski each had three singles in four times at bat to lead an 11-hit attack on two Cortland pitchers.

Al Smith Is Signed By Boston Red Sox

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Veteran outfielder Al Smith, released by the Cleveland Indians last Friday, has been signed by Boston, a Red Sox spokesman said Tuesday night.

The Sox did not indicate their immediate plans for Smith, but it's believed he will be used chiefly for pinch hitting.

Smith, 36, began his major league career with the Indians 12 years ago and returned to the Tribe last winter in a deal with Baltimore. The Orioles got Willie Kirkland and threw in $50,000 as well.

LOOK INTO FUTURE?—This scene marks the opening of a new era in golf. The day worker no longer has to limit his game to weekends—he can play at night. Powerful lights, positioned so they are behind the golfer in normal play to avoid glare, light up the fairways of the Colonial Country Club, Lynnfield, Mass. Lighting is so effective that the club was able to hold the first night-time professional tournament.

Ed Palladino's MR Selections

BEST BET — Maneuver (6th).
UPSET CHANCE — Potomac Chuck (7th).

1. NORMA DIAMOND lays over this field if it doesn't jump. SENATOR'S SPLENDOR has the pole. FREDRIKA BYRD in the hands of a sizzling driver.
2. RAPID'S SON was inter-fered with in last. Has loads of potential and might do it here. SPECTER has some class, but, oh, that driver. FRENCH ALGIERS in a spot to win in the stretch.

3. UNTOUCHABLE PICK seeks initial lifetime win. GOOD TIME LASS in Houghton state and is sharp. WHAT NEXT doesn't show much.
4. AVON ANNIE can take this one with breaks. ROD OAKIE won Sire Stakes at Buffalo and Batavia. Is the cue to beat. SANDY ACCLAIM hasn't raced to last year's po-tential.

5. FANCY GEORGIE is razor sharp. Appears to have a slim edge over this outstanding field of two-year olds. FREIGHT COMET could take all. MONTEREY can also reverse.
6. MANEUVER won last in a driving finish. Looms as the best bet against almost the same field. TINY D. will be tougher with an inside post. MIGHTY M. stayed close the last time but didn't have it at the finish.

7. CHRISTOPHER J. broke as heavy favorite. Might make amends. POTOMAC CHUCK in a perfect spot to post first win of the year. A good longshot bet. HARDY'S BRIDGET learned how to make the turns. Can cop another.
8. FORESIGHT can stay close and then pour it on at the fin-ish. AGILE HANOVER hasn't won in two years. QUICK KNIGHT scored the last time out, but the race went in a slow 2:10.4.

9. PRINCESS BLANCHE and Fretti a good team. CHOCKOY-OTTE LEE is the competition. MOON HAVEN broke and still finished fifth. Must be given a chance.

K.P.A., Knights Win Babe Ruth Contests

Jeff Lisman hurled a two-hit-ter for the K.P.A. walking six and fanning two. His mates had only five hits but used them to good advantage.
Mike Derrenbacher doubled and Joe Mannello hit a triple for the winners. Charles Moore was the loser.

Charlie James and Gerry Corrado combined on a three-hitter for the K. of C. The winners also had three hits but they came from behind with a four-run surge in the fifth.
Mike Gorman and Charles Howell hit doubles.

State Legion Title Game This Saturday
Undated American Legion BB By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Huttner Pasqualini Post 1367, Staten Island, and Adam Ple-wacki Post 799, Buffalo, will tangle for the state American Legion baseball championship Saturday at Abner Doubleday Field, Cooperstown.

The Staten Island post defeat-ed Blanchard Post 1040, Delmar, 9-3, Tuesday in Poughkeepsie to win the eastern division of the tournament.
And in Geneva, the Buffalo post copped the western title by beating Cortland City Post, 7-2. Larry Moraldi tripled and sin-gled to lead Staten Island to vic-tory Tuesday. Jack Hurley struck out 15 Delmar batters to gain the win.

In the Buffalo-Cortland game, Buffalo's Dan Tamulski and Paul Mankowski each had three singles in four times at bat to lead an 11-hit attack on two Cortland pitchers.

Rocca in Mat Show Tuesday at Stadium

Professional wrestling returns to Kingston again next Tues-day with a star-studded outdoor show scheduled at Dietz Stadium.

Antonino Rocca, one of the biggest names in the mat world, will tangle with The Rebel in the main event.
Midgets will also be featured and a tag team and other bouts will be held.

The show is being held for the benefit of the Kingston Com-munity Baseball Assn. Tickets may be purchased at the Tommy Maines Sport Shop.

Monticello Sets Record At Day-Night Doubleheader

MONTICELLO — With a sea-son's record crowd of 12,342 passing through the turnstiles on Saturday night, Monticello Raceway staged its third day-night doubleheader of the season to a total of 18,180, setting an all-time attendance record for one day at the harness racing track.

Coupled with the 5,838 in at-tendance at the afternoon ses-sion, the combined total broke the previous mark of 17,629, set July 4 of this year.
Bet for the two programs hit the million dollar mark for the third time with a total of $1,043,372 being passed through the machines. This was more than $50,000 off the record of $1,057,545, set July 27, 1963. It was also slightly below this year's mark of $1,010,237, set on July 4.

Highlighting the afternoon program, held under sunny skies and a comfortable summer day, was the first area ap-pearance of the U. S. Equestrian team. Members presented an ex-hibition which was thoroughly enjoyed by the early crowd.
At the conclusion of the ex-hibition, Raceway officials pre-sented the team with a substan-tial contribution and spectators also donated money to help de-fray expenses for the trip to Tokyo next month for partici-pation in the Olympic games.

The Saturday crowd, coupled with a huge Friday night turn-out of 8,678 and a handle that night of $346,325, brought the attendance for the first 60 pro-grams to 357,911 and the handle to $20,828,001.
The average attendance, with 43 racing nights remaining, is 5,965 and the average handle is Four aldermen were absent from the previous meeting.

Brief argument flared between Edward Northon (D) Seventh Ward, and Edward J. Schrowang (R) First Ward, after a vote on polling places for the November election when Northon complained about reported closing of Cornell Fire Station, and was generally critical of the present city administration.

One Polling Change

Only one change in polling places was noted. In the Sixth Ward, instead of the usual polling place in School No. 3, 114 Chambers Street, it is to be established on the Mason Basch property, 173 Hasbrouck Avenue.

Norton said he was "shocked" to learn of the closing of Cornell Fire Station "for two months due to the lack of manpower." This is another of a long series of city services that are being deprived of the people of the Seventh Ward and downtown area.

Then, talking on streets, he said, "For the past two years there hasn't been one street paved in the Seventh Ward. Our neighboring ward, the Sixth, hasn't had a street paved in over three years. The Fifth hasn't done much better."

As he had done before, he complained again, that the Block Park pavilion, destroyed by fire last fall, "was never replaced, even though insurance money, in excess of $4,000 was awarded the city." The mayor, he felt, should have used the money to rebuild it, and added, "However, since it was downtown, he must have decided against it."

Correction on Figure

Schrowang was opposed to Norton's talking on so many subjects, at that particular time in the meeting. He was permitted to continue, however, when Macchione said in effect that each alderman should be permitted to air his opinions.

In mentioning what he termed, "Schwenk's dump," Norton cited a figure of $14,000 instead of $1,300 (for fencing) and was corrected by Schrowang. Dealing with the refuse disposal project, Norton held, the "mayor tried to sneak past the public" and the council, when he did not specify what the fencing was to be used for.

Talks on Fire Stations

"Now we have," said Norton, "one of the three paid fire stations closing. Instead of closing the uptown station for one month, which would seem fair, they are just closing the downtown station. Aren't our lives and safety just as important as the people residing in the uptown section of our city?" He requested that the city clerk "direct a letter to the Board of Fire Commissioners asking them to reconsider the closing of the Cornell Station for two months. As an alternative, I suggest closing Cornell Station one month, and the uptown station one month."

A revenue anticipation note of $40,000 for the water department to enable it to meet amortization and interest and to cover operating expenses for the balance of the year, was approved.

Application of Kingston Plaza Inc. to erect a tower type sign in the vicinity of Washington Avenue and Taylor Street, was approved. It was noted that the proposal was not opposed at a recent zoning hearing. Under present regulations such signs are permitted for shopping centers covering 25 acres or more.

17 Drivers Fined $275 for Traffic Violations Today

Seventeen drivers, charged with speeding and other traffic violations, paid $275 in fines today in city court.

Charged with speeding as a second offender, Morris Crespi, 43, of Rosendale, was fined $50.

Others admitting charges of speeding, and fined $15 each were: Walter Sterling, 52, of New Paltz; Thomas Hamahan, 35, of Greenwhich, Conn.; Joan Salerno, 23, of New Paltz; Luke Castellana, 49, of Mt. Vernon; Chester Schoonmaker, 49, of Bridgetown, N. J.; Robert McDonald, 26, of Mt. T. Baker, 45, of Rifton; Arthur Sarrah, 19, of Box 76, Lake Katrine, and Walter Oehler, 30, RD 4, Kingston.

William Burns, 58, of RD, Kingston, charged with a double white line violation, was fined $10, and Wilbur Schleede, 27, of West Strand, charged with driving an uninspected vehicle, paid $5.

SPACE TIMETABLE—America's astronauts plan to spend about 700 hours in space in the two-man Gemini capsule by the end of 1965. Chart above gives the breakdown on the four trips. Until now, all U.S. space vehicles have been manned by a single astronaut. The Gemini will bring team flights. Veteran Gus Grissom has been teamed up with John Young to pilot the initial test. The second mission will team James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White, and it will mark the first time that one of the original seven astronauts will not be represented. The two remaining flights have no definite crews. However, Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad are front runners for the fourth test, a tricky docking-in-space assignment.

SPACE TIMETABLE—America's astronauts plan to spend about 700 hours in space in the two-man Gemini capsule by the end of 1965. Chart above gives the breakdown on the four trips. Until now, all U.S. space vehicles have been manned by a single astronaut. The Gemini will bring team flights. Veteran Gus Grissom has been teamed up with John Young to pilot the initial test. The second mission will team James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White, and it will mark the first time that one of the original seven astronauts will not be represented. The two remaining flights have no definite crews. However, Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad are front runners for the fourth test, a tricky docking-in-space assignment.

Olen Burrage of Philadelphia. Burrage was reported at the site while the excavation was under way.

There Since February

Schwerner had been working in a civil rights project at Meridian since last February. He had driven to Oxford, Ohio, the week before his disappearance to bring back to Mississippi some of the summer civil rights volunteers, including Goodman. The three drove from Meridian to the Philadelphia area early on the morning of June 21 to check a burned out Negro church which had been used for civil rights workers.

Goodman, in the advance guard of some 600 summer volunteers, had been scheduled to work in the Philadelphia area.

into the next year's operating budget. By placing this deficit in our budget, it automatically becomes part of the base used in the calculation of our tax rate per $1,000 of assessment. "Generally speaking, the taxpayers in the City of Kingston are being penalized by higher tax rates due to delinquent tax payments. I therefore request that this matter be studied by the Finance Ways and Means Committee, and that consideration be given to increasing the five per cent penalty at the rate of one per cent per month to a new level of 10 per cent."

Albano Announces Support of Ticket

NEW YORK (AP) — Vincent F. Albano Jr., New York County (Manhattan) Republican chairman, has announced his support of Sen. Barry Goldwater and his running mate, Rep. William E. Miller.

Albano announced his support Tuesday in a prepared statement. The day before, Albano endorsed Rep. John V. Lindsay who is seeking re-election in Manhattan's 17th district and says he will campaign "without reference to the national ticket."

Lindsay is opposed by a conservative party candidate and a Democratic-Liberal party candidate.
